REAL TEST VOTE ON PROHIBITION IN HOUSE TODAY

Drys Dread Tally of Losses.

Sales tax may upset revenue bill's passage in house. Democrats are badly split on measure designed to raise 600 millions of 1 billion 241 million U. S. deficit. Page 9.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—The first real test vote on prohibition to be held in the house of representatives since the dry law went into effect will take place tomorrow.

HENRY RAINEY.

House wets are looking forward to the showdown with confidence and satisfaction. The drys are dubious and troubled.

The vote is to be taken on the question of whether or not the Beck-Linthicum resolution is to be brought from its pigeonhole in the judiciary committee to the floor of the house.

The resolution calls for an amendment of the 18th amendment which would still leave the regulation of the liquor traffic in the hands of congress, but with the proviso that states might choose whether to be wet or dry. The requirement that ratification be by convention would place the power of decision in the hands of the people.

Wets Show Strength.

Tomorrow's chance to bring the matter to a vote in the house grows out of two things—the recent liberalization of the house rules to permit the discharge of a committee upon petition of 145 members and the greatly increased numerical strength of the wet forces.

When attempts to report the resolution out of the committee failed a petition to discharge the committee from further consideration of the measure was drawn up and was quickly signed by the required number of representatives. That fact alone—the speedy mustering of 145 signatures—was proof of the growing wet power In the last congress not more than 80 or 90 members at the most were considered even remotely wet, and it is doubtful whether that entire number could have been induced to sign a petition such as that signed two weeks ago.

None except the most optimistic among the wets expects a victory tomorrow. But the wets do expect to show how strong they have become. They look forward to being able to show at least 155 votes in favor of bringing the "home rule" resolution on to the floor, and some estimates predict a total of as high as 190 votes.

Rainey Will Support Motion.

To reach such a figure the out and out wets will have to receive considerable support from some of the liberal drys.

Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] is such a dry. He has declared that he will vote to discharge the committee, and indicated that he would vote for the resolution if it came to a decisive battle.

In addition to the satisfaction of showing their greater strength the wets of the house are getting much joy out of the squirmings of many of their dry colleagues. Members who have in the past consistently voted for prohibition enforcement are having it brought home to them that dryness is no longer as popular in their districts as it once was. With the fall elections staring them in the face, they do not know which way to jump.

It will surprise no one if a considerable number of drys find that they have important business elsewhere about the time the vote is taken.

Garner in Quandary.

Speaker Garner with his presidential ambitions is one of those in trouble. Heretofore he has been able to dodge and straddle. It rests with the speaker whether or not he wishes his name called, and Mr. Garner is not a "voting speaker" such as were Champ Clark and "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Every ear in the house tomorrow will be tilted to hear whether or not Mr. Garner, after the roll has been called, voices the customary words "the clerk will call the name of the speaker."

Should a large enough number of drys duck the vote there is a chance for the wets actually to win. The vote on discharging the judiciary committee calls for a majority of those vot

Canadian Ship Is Shattered on Bermuda Reef

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 13.—The Canadian national steamship, Prince David, on the way from Boston to Bermuda, struck a reef today ten miles off the northeast breakers and is sinking with its bottom torn out.

All the 84 passengers and the crew were taken off in life boats and picked up by the Canadian Pacific steamship, Lady Somers, which took them in to the Grassy Bay anchorage. Most of the mail and passengers' baggage on the Prince David also was saved.

The Prince David is slowly breaking up in a stiff northeast wind and there is no hope for salvage, according to wireless reports received here.

Hits at Top Speed.

The Prince David was running through a blinding rain storm at her top speed of 23 knots, expecting to pick up the Bermuda pilot within a few minutes, when the vessel struck with such force that passengers were thrown to the decks.

The third mate was on the bridge at the time of the accident and gave orders at once for all passengers to don life belts. A message for assistance was sent by radio to the Lady Somers, which was nearby and Bermuda bound, while sailors quickly lowered the life boats. The liner slowly sank.

Women Are Terrified.

All the passengers, mostly Bostonians, were transferred to life boats without accident, although many of the women were terrified at being forced to leave the comfortable liner for the tossing small boats in the height of the rain squalls. Before all had been taken off the Prince David was listing badly.

The Lady Somers, fearful of grounding on the same reef, stood by three miles way while passengers assisted seamen at the oars of the life boats. Tossed about by choppy seas and blinded by the rain, the crossing of the life boats occupied more than an hour and a half.

Taken to St. George's.

After checking the Prince David's passenger list and ship's articles to make sure that all persons had been rescued, the skipper of the Lady Somers gave orders to proceed and a few hours later she docked at the new port of St. George's.

The Prince David was built at Birkenhead, Eng., in 1930 and is valued at $1,600,000. The steamer had the reputation of being the fastest vessel in the West Indies and Caribbean cruise service.

2 BOMBS HURLED AT MAYOR'S HOME IN RIVER GROVE

Terrorists tossed two bombs last night and early this morning against the residence of Mayor Frank A. Conboy of River Grove, at 2684 River terrace, River Grove. He is a Republican candidate for sanitary district trustee.

The first bomb was exploded at 9 o'clock at the front porch. Three hours later, at 12:10 o'clock this morning, the second missile was thrown. This one exploded on the front porch, tearing away a railing. Total damage from the two blasts was less than $100.

Mayor Conboy told police he knew of no reason for the double attack. He said he has had no political troubles. He is vice president of the Mayors and Presidents' Association of Cook County, head of the village relief organization, and candidate for committeeman from the 5th district of Leyden township. He also operates an undertaking establishment at 4817 Madison street, Chicago.

The home bombed is owned by Tony Pauls, who lives with his family on the first floor. Pauls said the bombs were not meant for him. The only witness to the bombing was John McDermott, owner of a restaurant at 8670 Grand avenue. He said he saw a cream colored car speed away from the Conboy residence. Immediately afterward the explosion occurred.

Police Hero and 2 Others Shot in Holdup

Policeman Demitry Cal of the Shakespeare avenue station, an alleged bandit, and a girl were wounded, all critically, in a gun battle early this morning when Cal single handed resisted three robbers in a restaurant and soft drink parlor at 3306 Fullerton avenue.

Cal, 37 years old, and a winner of THE TRIBUNE hero and Lambert Tree awards, was shot behind the right ear. At the Alexian Brothers hospital physicians pronounced his condition as serious.

Two Others Wounded.

The girl victim of the fight, Miss Mary Tasmer, 19 years old, of 2501 Kimball avenue, a patron, was shot below the heart and was taken to the Lutheran Memorial hospital. Frank Selheimer, 19, of 2153 Jackson boulevard, the alleged bandit, was taken to the Bridewell hospital suffering from two bullets in his back.

The attempted robbery and shooting occurred shortly after Cal went off duty. He was seated at a table with Max Kaufman of 5642 Kimball avenue when three men, all carrying guns, entered. They ordered Mrs. Anna Block, owner of the café, and ten customers to raise their hands. Cal opened fire, however, dropping Selheimer, and falling himself as the other robbers blazed away.

Policeman Dies of Wounds.

Policeman George Barker of the Chicago avenue station died yesterday of bullet wounds he received in a similar encounter with two bandits who tried to rob him and guests of a wedding anniversary celebration in a soft drink parlor at 1438 Madison street early in the morning. Barker was shot four times. At the time he was on sick leave, ailing from two gunshot wounds received last July in fighting off bandits.

Tries to Escape 'Gas' Bill; Shot; Hits Pedestrian

A shooting and the running down of a pedestrian marked the efforts of a motorist who drove away last night from a gasoline filling station without paying for fuel.

The motorist had his car serviced at the station at Ashland avenue and Augusta boulevard. He started away, leaving his bill of $1.52 unpaid, and Lester Leonard, 26 years old, of 5436 North Mulligan avenue, the attendant, fired upon him, apparently wounding him.

The car wavered from side to side and struck Joseph Zou, 43 years old, of 910 North Paulina street, a block away. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital suffering from a broken leg and arm.

KREUGER DEATH BARES GAMBLE IN GOLD MINES

Envoy of Sweden Involved in Case.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 13.—Count J. J. A. Ehrensvard, Swedish minister to France, called on Premier Tardieu today and remained closeted with him for an hour. The subject of the conversation, it was learned, was whether the French treasury could be counted on to come to the aid of the Bank of Sweden, if the need should arise, as a result of the suicide here yesterday of Ivar Kreuger, head of the Swedish match trust and one of the greatest financiers in the world, whose power was said to extend to the making and unmaking of governments.

It is not known whether Tardieu was able to promise, but it is thought likely that the Bank of France will try to help if the Swedish bank is seriously shaken, in view of the fact that Kreuger, when the franc was falling, offered to stake the French state to as much as it needed without interest.

Loaned France $100,000,000.

Later he loaned France $100,000,000, with interest, and in return had the stocks of his companies admitted to the French bourse, which is another reason for the French government to take a personal interest.

The same Count Ehrensvard who saw Tardieu today is rumored to be the next victim of the nemesis which yesterday turned the match king's gun against himself—and in this rumor may be the real key to the mystery of the suicide.

Some three months ago certain French papers published bitter attacks on Kreuger's latest project—exploitation of the gold mines of northern Sweden.

Sold Stock to Public.

The financier had purchased control of the company operating the mines with £80,000,000 [about $400,000,000 on the gold basis] worth of Kreuger stock and immediately launched a campaign to sell stock of the reorganized gold concern to the public.

The French critics not only censured the promotion methods but even went so far as to hint there was "no gold in them hills."

Kreuger, it is said, persuaded the Swedish minister to give an interview to the French press explaining the solid nature of the enterprise. The attacks ceased and the attention of French investors was favorably attracted.

Kreuger's Last Gamble.

Those gold mines were Kreuger's last and biggest gamble. It is reported in informed Scandinavian circles here that Count Ehrensvard will shortly be recalled for having given official prestige to the venture.

A new angle to the suppression by police of the news of the suicide until all the stock markets in the world had closed was supplied in dispatches from New York today describing the avalanches of Kreuger & Toll shares which were put on sale in Wall street yesterday. It is pointed out that since the suicide occurred before noon—7 a. m. New York time—it would ordinarily have been known long before the closing of the exchange, and massive selling operations would not

Baby in Dixie Is Not Theirs, Parents Aver

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hopewell, N. J., March 13.—[Special.]—A new campaign plan to obtain the release of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was discussed this afternoon at a major conference held in the home in the Sourland hills. High police officials, underworld go-betweens and family advisors met with Col. Lindbergh and the entire police search was gone over in detail.

The private negotiations of Col. Lindbergh were canvassed in a second meeting in which it was reported no police were in attendance. Morris Rosner, who is playing an increasingly important rôle in the personal activities of the Lindbergh family, was believed to have remained in New York City today. Early this morning the automobile that Rosner has been using called at the Lindbergh home, remained an hour, and sped back to Manhattan.

Lindy More at Ease.

It was believed the Rosner chauffour had brought a reassuring message to the Lindbergh home and that the contents of this message were responsible for the new campaign plans. Col. Lindbergh, it was reported, appeared more at ease today than he has in the last week. He was out for an early morning hike across the fields. Mrs. Lindbergh was said to be recovering from her severe cold.

Family friends revealed she appeared composed and was spending a large part of her time downstairs. There were a number of callers at the house on the second Sunday and thirteenth day since the kidnaping, but the calls, it was said, were not of a social nature.

There was not as much travel on the roads in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home as on the last week-end, but there were more sightseeing planes in the air than on any day this week. The air was gusty and bumpy and some of the planes considerably travel worn, but nobody appeared to be thinking of danger and some were heard to express a desire for a forced landing in the clearng beside the white stone house.

Tennessee Clew Exploded.

A new crop of crank notes was forwarded to the Lindberghs' early today, but received scant attention, for right at that moment the Lindberghs were eagerly running down a report from Crossville, Tenn., that their baby had been found. A telephone call from the Crossville sheriff advised the family that two men, two women, and a child had been seized. The child was said to resemble the Lindbergh baby.

A physical examination of the baby was ordered and a doctor reported his findings. Hair, eyes, weight and features corresponded with those of the missing child, but there were markings on the body that apparently definitely exploded the hope that the infant was Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Telephoto Explodes Clew.

To make doubly sure the child in Tennessee was not the much sought baby a telephoto picture of him was sent to New York and then forwarded here. Both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh inspected the photograph and decided it was not that of their missing son.

Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, New Jersey state police head, made the announcement regarding the photograph and added this statement:

"We have just been informed by Capt. Crawford of Crossville, Tenn., that he has detained one John Young and Homer Mitchell, who were accompanied by their wives and a baby. Incidentally Homer Mitchell was the party detained at Marion, Va., for 48 hours March 6 and 7 by Sheriff F. Dillars of Smyth county, Virginia. A

HINDENBURG IS FAR AHEAD, BUT LACKS MAJORITY

Will Hold "Runoff" Election April 10.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 14 [Monday.]—Paul von Hindenburg failed to obtain a majority over the combined votes of his opponents, needed to insure his reëlection as president of Germany at yesterday's voting. He missed victory by the narrow margin of one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote.

Official computation of the final result showed that the 84 year old president had lost out by 161,202 votes.

Nevertheless his triumph at the second election on Sunday, April 10, is assured. At that election only a simple plurality over his nearest opponent will be sufficient to retain the presidency. Judging from yesterday's result, this will be easy.

Hindenburg Far in Lead.

Complete election returns announced early this morning by election commissioners follow:

President von Hindenburg	18,667,730
Adolf Hitler [Nazi]	11,338,571
Ernst Thaelmann [Communist]	4,982,079
Lieut. Col. Theodore Duesterberg [Nationalist]	2,557,876
Gustav Winter [Independent]	111,470
Total vote	37,657,726

The president, who had appealed to the nation to avert a civil war by reelecting him, will not withdraw from the second, or "run-off," election because of his age, close friends said last night.

On the other hand there is a possibility that Hitler, who was recognized as Von Hindenburg's greatest threat, may not be in the race. This was indicated today when the Ullstein news service said that the National Socialists [Nazi] and the Nationalists will not nominate candidates for the second election.

May Not Compete.

"These parties feel that Von Hindenburg ran so far ahead that it would be a waste of energy to compete at another election," the dispatch said. "Negotiations are now under way to eliminate a second contest and and hasten Von Hindenburg's reappointment."

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening last night expressed his regret that weeks of uncertainty and election fights are again facing the republic.

"There can be no doubt whatever of the result of the election on April 10," he said. "Von Hindenburg has 7,000,000 more votes than Hitler. The president will be reëlected with flying colors."

Record Vote Cast.

Germany yesterday cast a record vote. A total of 37,657,726 men and women went to the polls, or almost 90% of the electorate. Despite the size of the ballot and the political tension, there were comparatively few disorders.

Five persons were killed. In one of the Berlin suburbs a communist and a Nazi were slain in an election fight. Three communists were shot to death by National Socialists at Juokeswagen, near Krefeld.

Political experts attribute Von Hindenburg's temporary discomfiture to Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, henchman of former Kaiser Wilhelm and leader of the Nationalist party, who selected Lieut. Col. Duesterberg as his candidate. As vice president of the "Steel Helmets," a war veterans' organization, Duesterberg secured votes from many former soldiers who otherwise would have cast their ballots for the aged field marshal of the old imperial army.

Government Is Disappointed.

Wilhelmstrasse expressed bitter disappointment that the president had failed to win. His friends point particularly to East Prussia, which Von Hindenburg saved in the world war and which refused to give him an absolute majority yesterday. He received a half million votes there, with Hitler right behind him with 400,000.

"A flagrant case of ingratitude," explained one of the government's spokesmen.

All evening long it was a neck and neck race. First Von Hindenburg would forge ahead a few thousand and then he would drop a few thousand. At 11 o'clock last night, with about half of the votes counted, Von Hindenburg actually showed a majority of 80,000. Two hours later all chance of his getting a majority vanished.

If Von Hindenburg's followers are sad, the Hitlerites are even more disappointed. The Nazi leaders still contend that their idol can win on April 10, despite the fact that the National

The Tribune is now the only leading Chicago newspaper which publishes each day a statement of the average net paid circulation of the preceding month.

Socialists fell far behind the 18,000,000 votes they had claimed.

Communists Dealt Blow.

The Hitlerites today are taking whatever consolation they can in the size of their vote, which was nearly double their vote in the reichstag elections of 1930 when the party polled 6,400,000.

The saddest of all are the communists. They expected a big gain and some experts conceded them 7,000,000 votes. They got less than 5,000,000 as against 4,590,000 in the 1930 election.

The Rhineland showed more gratitude to Von Hindenburg than did East Prussia. It gave him an absolute majority. Bishops and priests came out openly against the Nazis. The Rhineland evidently remembered that Von Hindenburg signed the Young plan to bring about an earlier evacuation of allied troops.

Berlin, the capital of Germany, gave Von Hindenburg a huge majority. It treated Hitler coolly and gave more votes to the communists than to the Fascisti.

South Germany for President.

The first of Germany's 35 election districts to report its vote was Duesseldorf-West, where the president won a majority. As the returns poured in, they showed that Von Hindenburg was capturing the cities while the rural population was backing Hitler.

Coblenz and Ulm were among the first cities in Von Hindenburg's bag. Then followed the districts of Leipzig, Hessen-Darmstadt, and the Palatinate. In lower Bavaria, Von Hindenburg obtained two-thirds of the vote.

Potsdam, the stronghold of the Steel Helmets and monarchists, gave the president 20,831 votes; Hitler, 15,671, and Duesterberg, 8,399.

20,000 Idle Get Jobs.

When Berlin's 2,600 polling centers closed at 6 o'clock last night, 20,000 unemployed men and women began the job of counting the capital's returns.

The German delegation to the disarmament conference at Geneva came to Loerrach in Baden to cast their votes.

[The German election law allows an elector to vote anywhere in the reich on the production of a voting certificate issued by his precinct.]

At Stuttgart, which is close to the winter sport centers, skiers came to the polls in full skiing equipment before starting on their Sunday tours.

Returns from Germany's highest mountain top, Zugspitze, where the skiiers had been given a polling station in order that the election would not interfere with their sports, showed 190 persons voting. Von Hindenburg received 106 ballots; Hitler, 57; Duesterberg, 17, and Thaelmann, 8.

Red Ahead in Ruhr.

In Remscheid, cutlery center in the heart of the Ruhr, the communist candidate secured the biggest vote with Hitler running second and Von Hindenburg, third.

In Munich and Frankfurt the number of women voting was larger than in previous elections.

Villages of the Taunus mountains near Frankfurt were turned into a sea of Hitlerite flags decorated with the Fascist swastika emblem. The rural population was clad in its Sunday best, carrying Fascist emblems.

No Serious Rioting.

BERLIN, March 14.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Germany's police had an easier time in yesterday's election than they had expected. There were reports of knifings and fist fights from various parts of the country, but outside of five fatalities there was no serious rioting.

Two policemen were on duty at every one of Berlin's 2,585 polling places, and the streets, especially in the government section of the town, were strongly patrolled.

Last minute appeals were made to the voters by airmen who showered Berlin with leaflets and by sandwich men, who paraded about with posters of the various candidates.

Throughout Germany elaborate measures were taken to see that every one got to the polls. In many cases invalids were carried to their voting places on stretchers and special facilities were provided for recording the votes of hospital cases.

In the sections of Germany where winter sportsmen gather voting booths were erected on snow-clad hills.

The entire front of Karl Liebknecht house, the communist headquarters in Berlin, was plastered with portraits of Ernst Thaelmann and throughout the city private houses displayed the Nationalist black, white and red or the emblems of Fascism.

Prince Rounds Up Voters.

Out at Potsdam, once one of the seats of the monarchy, Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the ex-kaiser, was an active worker for the Nazi cause. Like any political precinct captain in the United States, he drove his car about all day, rounding up the lukewarm voters.

Chancellor Bruening voted early in the day in the neighborhood of Wilhelmstrasse, as did other members of the cabinet, Otto Meissner, the personal secretary to the president; Speaker Paul Loebe of the reichstag and Christian Schreiber, the Catholic bishop of Berlin. President von Hindenburg remained at his home and went to bed before the final result was known.

Belated reports from rural districts told of numerous election fights Saturday evening. Seven "Iron Front" Republicans were injured in a scrap with Nazis at Insterburg. Two Nazis were seriously wounded at Hirschberg in Silesia, ten persons were hurt at Moers in the Rhineland, and several were beaten up in a brawl at Braunsberg, East Prussia.

Gun and Knife Fight.

At Burg in Schleswig-Holstein two members of the Reichsbanner association and one Hitlerite were dangerously wounded by bullets and knives.

President von Hindenburg was the only candidate in Berlin. Adolf Hitler was in Munich, Lieut. Col. Theodor Duesterberg in Halle, Ernst Thaelmann in Hamburg, and Gustav Winter, whose candidacy was a joke, was in jail at Bautzen. Winter appealed to the voters to elect him on a platform calling for revaluation of the pre-inflation mark.

PARIS IS GLUM AS VON HINDENBURG FAILS TO GET MAJORITY VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 14.—[Monday.]—Disappointment, but not surprise, was expressed here that President Paul von Hindenburg failed to win a majority in the German elections.

Boulevard and café crowds avidly bought extra editions announcing progress of the Berlin voting and flocked to bulletin boards before newspaper offices. The early evening lead of Von Hindenburg inspired hopes for his re-election, but later reports evoked headshaking.

Morning papers were lukewarm in their comment. The Journal said: "Von Hindenburg probably will be elected on the second vote, but the fact remains that 19,000,000 Germans voted for the violation of treaties, riots, and upsets."

Le Petit Parisien said: "Despite his failure to win, the field marshal received so impressive a number of votes that his prestige, already great, is considerably augmented."

HITLERITES AND REDS BATTLE IN AUSTRIA; 67 HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 13.—Twenty-three Austrian Hitlerites, forty-three communists and one policeman were wounded today as a result of demonstrations in Vienna for Adolf Hitler and Ernest Thaelmann, two of the German presidential candidates. Six of those injured are in a critical condition.

The Hitlerites paraded down Vienna's main boulevard to the center of the city. Here they clashed with communists who disputed the right of way with them. Police were able, after reinforcements arrived, to disperse the combatants. Most of the demonstrators were youths.

GERMANS MUST ELECT PRESIDENT ON DAY OF REST

Law Provides a Majority Is Needed to Win.

The president of Germany is elected by the direct vote of all citizens, male and female, over 20 years of age, and the law provides that the election must be held either on a Sunday or on a public day of rest. The term of office is seven years.

Every German is eligible for the presidency, providing he has reached the age of 35. The text of the constitution at the second reading declared for absolute ineligibility of members of families who had ever ruled a state in the German empire, but this provision was done away with on the third reading by a majority consisting of the German Nationalists, the Peoples' party, and the Centrists.

They declared that such exclusion would constitute a law of exception of the most shameful kind, and contrary to the principles of the constitution, and that it would amount to a confession of weakness and an avowal of the lack of solidity in the benefits afforded by the victories of the revolution.

Germany's Election Laws.

The election laws provide that the candidate who obtains more than half the total number of valid votes is elected; and that if no one obtains this majority, a second ballot must be resorted to, after which a candidate obtaining a plurality of the valid votes shall be considered elected. In case candidates obtain an equal number of votes the election must be decided by lots.

There is no vice-president in Germany. In case of the death, resignation, or impeachment of the president, the law provides that a new election must be held immediately. In the event of a slight illness or the absence of the president on a short voyage, or in the interval between the death of a president and the election of his successor, his place is filled by the chancellor.

Multiplicity of Parties.

The outstanding feature of German political life is the multiplicity of parties. Since the birth of the republic there have never been less than a dozen political groups represented in the parliament.

These parties may be grouped roughly under two headings: the extremists and the moderates. In the first category are the National Socialists [Fascists] and the rump of the German National Peoples' party. These are on the extreme right. On the extreme left are the communists. These extremists, though at opposite poles in the reichstag, are united in their opposition to the present system of government.

The communist party belongs to the Third [Moscow] Internationale and is committed to world social revolution and the establishment of a dictatorship of the proletariat. The National Socialists, which are led by Adolf Hitler, have a largely negative program which is anti-Republican, anti-parliament, anti-Young plan, anti-Locarno, anti-league of nations, anti-semitic, and anti-capitalist.

'FIGHT GOES ON!' IS WORD FROM HITLER'S MUNICH 'BROWN HOUSE'

MUNICH, Germany, March 14.—[Monday.]—"The fight goes on," Ernst Hanfstaengl, chief of the press department at the "Brown House," Adolf Hitler's Socialist headquarters, declared today when he received the final election news.

"Hitler will yet be president. Of this there is no doubt. The 'steel helmet' organization will merge with the Nazis on the next ballot. Besides, we shall win over enough of Von Hindenberg's supporters to win the next ballot.

"Von Hindenburg would have had at least 3,000,000 votes less than he obtained if the communists had not passed out the word that the younger membership should work for him. We are quite satisfied with the results."

GANG SURPRISED TUNNELING INTO BANK GET AWAY

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—(AP)—A band of bank robbers detected in an underground attempt to drill into a branch of the Security First National bank here shortly after midnight today eluded squads of police and escaped through a maze of storm drains.

Called to the scene by reports that pounding had been heard beneath the paving, officers stood guard at manholes while others penetrated the drains with machine guns and tear gas bombs. Ambulances and firemen stood ready about the district.

The searchers found a tunnel leading from a drain to the vault, a four inch hole drilled in the concrete of the bank's foundation, a large quantity of freshly removed earth, a spade and indications that lunches had been eaten at the scene of operations. Water splashed high on the walls of adjoining six foot drains showed the course of hurried flight for a short distance.

The police reported fingerprints were obtained.

A band of bank burglars directed by engineering skill and well equipped with special tools has been sought here since the Belvedere Gardens branch of the Security First National bank was entered by a tunnel and robbed of $19,000 during the week-end of last Dec. 22.

Fascists Gain Eight Seats in German Diet Election

NEUSTRELITZ, Germany, March 14 [Monday]—(AP)—Elections for the Mecklenburg-Strelitz diet, held yesterday, resulted in eight gains for the National Socialists [Fascists] and three for the Nationalists. The Social Democrats lost three seats and the communists' strength was unchanged.

GROCER IS FOUND DEAD.

Stephen Kunik, 50 years old, 7559 West 63d place, Summit, owner of a grocery at that address, is believed to have committed suicide last night by taking poison. The police found him lying in bed in the rear of his store with a box of a white powder near him.

NEW 'BUSINESS RULE' ADDS TO SCHOOL COSTS

Higher Appropriation Is a Puzzle to Experts.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The secret of how the school board hopes to finance its 1932 budget of $90,180,263—which many tax experts believe is impossible—was probably discovered yesterday by accountants for George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce. Mr. Rossetter is aiding the D. F. Kelly tax warrant sales committee, to which the board has submitted its budget and its expenditures for last year.

G. W. ROSSETTER. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

The apparent secret of financing the budget, as disclosed by the accountants, lies in a stronger "business administration." The board has authorized the expenditure of more money for that purpose this year than was spent last year.

Vote to Spend $1,240,366.

In 1931 the board spent $1,232,740 for "business administration"; this year it plans to spend $1,240,366. Several of the trustees have declared at public sessions that they have cut the budget to the bone; but they have never explained why they have actually boosted the cost of business administration.

Last year's expenditure for business administration—$1,232,740—represents an increase of 67 per cent over the $737,246 expended for the same purpose in 1923.

In the same period—1923 to 1931—the number of pupils who attend school regularly enough to be classed in the membership of the system increased from 385,564 to 470,423. That is a gain of 22 per cent. In the eight years the increase in the cost of business administration has been three times as much as the increase in the number of pupils.

A Puzzle to Accountants.

Mr. Rossetter is the head of an expert auditing business and has investigated several private concerns since the depression started. Without exception all of these have decreased the cost of their business overhead. His accountants said they were unable to understand why more money should be spent on business administration of the schools this year if the board really intends to spend more cash in the aggregate.

The board on Jan. 1 had $134,111,194 of unpaid current liabilities, and these are expected to increase at the rate the board is spending. One accountant suggested that perhaps more "business administration" would be required to handle the increasing debts.

Another suggestion was that possibly a stronger "business administration" is needed to sell tax anticipation warrants, since the Kelly committee has notified the board it cannot sell warrants on the basis of a $90,180,000 budget.

A Contrast in Reductions.

The school board last year, according to the figures submitted to Mr. Kelly, spent $41,099,703 for "instruction," teaching and text books. For this year the allowance has been trimmed to $36,347,461, with little effort made to eliminate the "fads and frills" of the system. This reduction of $4,752,242 in instruction is equivalent to 11.56 per cent.

In contrast, the "operation of plant"—the cleaning, heating, lighting and ventilating of the school buildings—is to be reduced only 2.25 per cent. Last year on plant operation the board spent $7,341,757, while this year for that purpose $7,176,207 has been appropriated.

In a word, the instruction has been cut five times as much as the operation of the school buildings.

Theory and Practice.

It is accepted theory in industrial and commercial enterprises that the larger the business the smaller the overhead of business administration will become in comparison. But apparently that is not the way the school board operates.

The following table shows the expenditures for "business administration" over a series of years in comparison with the pupil membership in the schools:

Year.	Business Administration.	Pupil M'b'ship.
1923	$ 737,246	385,564
1924	732,639	404,492
1925	813,958	416,184
1926	872,917	426,777
1927	1,007,853	439,104
1928	1,184,707	451,166
1929	1,209,111	455,280
1931	1,232,740	470,423
1932	1,240,366	.....

The year of 1930 was omitted for the sole reason that the figures were not procurable yesterday. The 1932 figure is the appropriation for the year.

By examination of the above figures it will be reckoned that the board spent $1.91 a pupil for "business administration" in 1923, while last year the cost was $2.62, an increase of 37 per cent.

If the percentage cut applied to instruction had been applied also to the "business administration" and the "operation of plant," the board would have on paper the equivalent of the salaries for 429 teachers.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 13.—An airplane search of the African desert for the Vicomte and Vicomtesse Jaques de Sibour has been ordered by the French government.

The vicomtesse, who is a Chicagoan, the daughter of Harry Gordon Selfridge, former Chicago merchant, accompanied her husband on a flight from Dakar, in Senegal, West Africa, on Feb. 26, to assist the French aviatrix, Maryse Hilz, who had been forced down near Niamey, in French West Africa, by motor trouble. There has been no word of the Sibours since.

Both of the Sibours are experienced pilots and have made frequent jaunts over the face of the globe and at times before have met with unforseen and thrilling experiences.

In August last year the vicomte was lost between Peiping and Nanking in China, but soon put in his appearance to allay the report. In September, 1928, the couple started a flight around the world, visiting Chicago during their trip.

While here the vicomte was slightly injured when he twirled the propeller with contact made too soon.

The vicomtesse was Violette Selfridge, a daughter of the former Chicagoan. She was wed in May, 1921, in London to the vicomte.

COUNTY'S TAXES UP $30,000,000 OVER 1929 BILL

Levy Found Far Heavier than in Prosperity.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The tax spenders are now demanding the largest amount of taxes in the history of Cook county. The county bill for 1930, now in collection, will probably be $30,000,000 higher than the 1929 taxes, which became delinquent on May 15 last.

County Clerk Sweitzer has completed the extension of taxes on real estate and personal property. With the railroad levy estimated, the following tabulation shows a comparison between the county's 1930 tax bill and those of the two previous years:

REAL ESTATE.

	1930.	1929.	1928.
Country towns—	$ 37,747,708	$ 35,290,886	$ 31,178,291
Chicago—	183,704,371	167,130,641	137,321,503
Total—	$221,452,080	$202,421,527	$168,799,794

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Country towns—	$ 3,764,549	$ 3,119,223	$ 2,737,168
Chicago—	51,727,726	42,381,984	37,299,916
Total—	$ 55,492,275	$ 45,501,207	$ 40,037,084

RAILROADS.

Total—	$ 13,808,396	$ 12,621,934	$ 10,988,467
Grand total—	$290,752,751	$260,544,669	$219,825,345

The tax boost on real estate between 1930 and 1929 totals $19,030,553, or 9.4 per cent. The increase in personal property taxes is $9,991,068, or 21.9 per cent.

How Realty Taxes Grow.

In the last dozen years taxes on real estate have been boosted a yearly average of $14,258,000. For 1930 the real estate increase is $19,030,553, or a third larger than the average for the last twelve years. The business of the country was riding at high tide in 1928. Since then has come a depression of extreme severity. But the real estate taxes levied for 1930 are 31.2 per cent higher than for 1928.

To appease the real estate owners the taxing officials have added $9,991,068 to the taxes on personal property. County Judge Jarecki held that the 1928 and 1929 taxes were illegal and void because of the relatively small amount of personal property on the tax rolls. Of the amount which has been on the personal property roll George O. Fairweather of the joint tax commission has estimated that more than one-third is "dead or doubtful."

For 1929 the personal property taxes of the county were $45,501,000. According to the Fairweather estimate more than $15,000,000 of that amount was a mere paper levy. There are indications that a larger percentage of the $55,492,275 assessed against personal property for 1930 is likewise dead before the bills for it were sent out.

What the Mails Show.

County Treasurer McDonough has kept track of the returned mail carrying personal property tax bills within the city for 1930. In Chicago 196,625 owners of personal property were assessed for an aggregate of $51,727,726. Of these bills, 30,669 have been returned by the postoffice.

These persons and firms, assessed for $3,078,091, have either died, moved to the country, or gone out of business.

The number of persons assessed for personal property in each township within the city and the bills returned from each, together with the amount of the returned bills, are shown in the following table:

Town—	Owners Assessed.	No. of Bills Returned.	Amt. of Bills Returned.
North	10,678	2,084	$ 258,271
West	36,911	5,542	600,722
South	23,810	2,252	1,068,223
Rogers Park	10,051	1,317	56,791
Hyde Park	42,800	7,774	373,020
Lake	14,363	2,314	134,955
Lake View	32,776	5,739	393,421
Jefferson	24,236	3,647	192,688
Totals	196,625	30,669	$3,078,091

The 196,625, all that were assessed within the city, are called upon to pay $51,727,726, or an average of $267.65. The 30,669 who could not be found by the mailman were asked for $3,078,091, or an average of $103.60 each.

DEMOCRATS OPEN NATIONAL DRIVE FOR PARTY FUND

The Illinois Democratic Victory committee yesterday announced a "preparedness drive" for funds after receiving word from New York that enough money had already been pledged to wipe out the deficit of the last presidential campaign and the expenses of operating national headquarters since then. Funds collected from now on will be used exclusively for financing the 1932 campaign, according to Robert F. Carr, the chairman.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Chicago lawyer and grandson of the former Vice President of the United States, assisted by 46 division chairmen, will conduct the solicitation in Chicago.

STATE MOVES TO FOIL GARNISHEE BY AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Australia, March 14 [Monday.]—(AP)—Officials of the state government, escorted by police, today withdrew £750,000 from the Bank of New South Wales and more than £250,000 from a commercial banking concern (a total of about $5,000,000 at normal rates).

(The Australian parliament Saturday passed legislation attaching the New South Wales revenue to satisfy the state's default of $5,800,000 in interest to overseas bondholders).

Premier Belittles State's Move.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 14 [Monday.]—(AP)—Prime Minister J. A. Lyons said today the action of the New South Wales administration would not prevent operation of the new federal law compelling the state to meet its outside obligations.

INTEREST SHIFTS FROM LINDY JR. TO HINDENBURG

Telephone calls to THE TRIBUNE yesterday indicated a shift in the news interest of current events from the Lindbergh baby hunt to the German election results.

Something under 500 requests for information were received in regard to the kidnaping, according to Miss Anna Garrow, chief operator. This was considerably more than have been received in any day during the last week, and was due to a report, later denied, that the Lindbergh child had been found.

"We had more than 1,500 calls about the election in Germany," said Miss Garrow.

Most of the callers, operators reported, seemed to be pleased to learn that President von Hindenburg was leading in the returns.

SWANSON USES DEATH PENALTY TO CUT MURDERS

Slaying Rate Reduced in His 3 Year Term.

Rigid enforcement of the capital punishment law for murderers during the three years of State's Attorney Swanson's administration has steadily brought down the murder rate in Cook county. This fact was disclosed yesterday when the prosecutor issued a report showing the accomplishments of his office during the three years of his term in office.

JOHN A. SWANSON. [Melvyn Sykes Photo]

A review of the statistics of murder prosecutions in the Criminal court during the same period shows, the prosecutor said, that Criminal court juries have come to realize that execution in the electric chair for the ruthless murderers, when the evidence is available, is the only deterrent to this kind of crime. Death verdicts were imposed by juries in 17 of the 19 murder cases in which this penalty was inflicted in the three years ending Dec. 1, 1931. In two cases judges imposed the death penalty.

One Judge Imposes Penalty.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan is the only judge who during that same period imposed a death penalty which was actually carried into execution. Many murderers, who pleaded guilty during the same period or who decided to allow the judges to try their cases without a jury, received long penitentiary sentences, but escaped execution.

"During the three-fourths of my term seventeen murderers have been executed," said Mr. Swanson. "Two others, now under sentence of death, are waiting for Supreme court action. The records show that the largest number of men executed during a full four year term of any other state's attorney was fourteen. The increase in capital punishment cases in the three years is figured at 36 per cent."

Murder Rate Decreases.

This increase is comparable with the decrease in the murder rate as shown by police and crime statisticians. The latest figures compiled by Frederick Rex, municipal librarian, shows that in 1930 twenty-one cities of more than 100,000 population have a murder rate greater than Chicago's. His figures show that the homicide rate was 10.4 for each 100,000 population for the 1930 period. Previous figures issued by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, when he was coroner, show that on the same unit basis the rate was 15.8 in 1928 and 12.7 in 1929.

Among the outstanding murderers electrocuted in the last three years were Frank Jordan, who murdered two policemen; William Lenhardt, who murdered a restaurant keeper; Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan, who killed a north side restaurant manager; John Popescue and Charles Rocco, who murdered a South Chicago banker, and Ben Norsingle and John Reed, colored, slayers of a butcher.

Prosecutor Swanson's average has been better than five executions per year.

Executions Speeded.

Another improvement, according to the state's attorney's office, is the dispatch with which executions are carried out, compared with the dilatory tactics allowed during the administration of Len Small as governor. The present board of pardons and paroles passes promptly on appeals for executive clemency, it was pointed out, and Gov. Emmerson seldom, if ever, interferes with the verdict of his parole board. As a result fewer stays of execution are allowed.

The courts also, it was disclosed, have to a large extent stopped the tactics of lawyers who try to delay executions by filing last minute insanity pleas. Insanity petitions have not been successful since Swanson took office.

"Much of the credit is due to the citizens who are called to the courts to serve as jurors," said Prosecutor Swanson. "They realize that swift and sure punishment is the only deterrent to crime."

Convictions Increase.

Prosecutor Swanson also announced that his office during three years convicted 8,209 persons in the Criminal courts. The proportion of convictions as compared to acquittals has been 23 per cent higher during the Swanson régime than during any previous administration, the report says. This increase came without any appreciable additional cost to the taxpayer.

Auto Burns After Wedding Party; One Man Is Killed

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—An automobile in which four young men and two young women were returning early today from a wedding party in Sea Gate, Coney Island, swerved from the road on a sharp turn in Prospect park, Brooklyn, crashed into a tree, turned over, and burst into flames. One of the men was killed. The others were injured or burned.

MAYOR HITS BACK AT FOES CALLING HIM PARTY CZAR

Defends Slate Chosen by Regular Organization.

Mayor Cermak yesterday told why the Democratic organization indorsed a slate of candidates and discussed the charge that he is assuming the rôle of dictator. Opponents of the regular slate are attacking him because he had to discharge many job holders, the mayor said, and he explained why it was necessary for him to do this.

The Democratic organization was engaged over the week-end in preparations for regisration day tomorrow. Special delivery letters were sent to every precinct captain asking him to make a canvass to get every unregistered person on the poll books. There are at present 1,412,135 names on the voters' lists, but it is expected that a revision will show that at least 400,000 have moved. County Chairman Patrick Nash has instructed the workers to make systematic efforts to get their names back on the roster.

"This is not a year in which the choice of Democratic candidates should be left to chance or accident," said the mayor in a written defense of the Democratic organization. "Anticipating the success of our party, a host of unknown, selfish and greedy men have filed their petitions for every office in the hope that lightning might strike them and by accident one of them might be named. Some of the irregular candidates are good men but the party leaders refuse to assume responsibility for them.

"The hundreds of thousands of Democratic voters could not be expected to know personally all the candidates. Some authoritative body must be looked to for guidance. It would have been criminal neglect on the part of the responsible officials of our party if they did not indicate their choice. Some of the men who sought endorsement and failed to get it now find fault with us, especially with me.

A Persuader, Not a Czar.

"They charge me with being a czar. Frankly, I feel amused by it. Of course, it is not that I alone am responsible for the endorsements. The state central committee is made up of men who are not easily led.

"If my wishes prevailed with them I have every reason to be very proud. I admit that I used all the influence at my command to have the committee endorse the very men they did select."

After praising the men on the regular ticket the mayor continued:

"My reasons for endorsing a slate are twofold. First, I did not want to risk in the slightest way our chances for success in November. If I were prompted by selfishness I think I could have been the candidate for governor myself. Secondly, I wanted candidates for the various offices who are in sympathy with my program of economy which must be carried into effect if we are ever to be relieved from the crushing burden of taxation.

Tells of Tax Burden.

"Tax bills are now being sent out for 1930. With wealth and income dwindling, the public has a right to expect that tax bills would be materially reduced. Instead it will be discovered they have increased. It should be remembered, however, that the tax bills are for 1930.

"I became mayor in April, 1931, and found myself heir to more troubles and financial difficulties than any man who ever held the office. The money you are now called upon to pay was spent two years ago by my predecessor in his city and school administration.

"Our treasury is empty. Our credit is gone. Policemen, firemen, teachers, and other employés work without pay. Not only are the 1930 taxes still unpaid but the 1928 and 1929 taxes, in excess of one hundred million dollars, still remain unpaid, all because under my predecessor the cost of government so increased that it became impossible for the taxpayers to pay their bills. Since I have been in office I have done everything possible to reduce that cost."

Makes Plea for Horner.

Cermak then told of the necessity of having coöperation in Springfield in obtaining the necessary legislation for his economy program—coöperation he has not received, he said. It is for that reason he is interested in the election of Judge Horner as governor, he explained, and he said not even Judge Horner's opponents can find fault with him.

"Instead of finding fault with the candidate," Mayor Cermak added, "they are condemning me for ousting a number of jobholders. They are appealing to the prejudices of the unfortunate men who lost their jobs and in that way hope to get their support. But I feel confident that the great body of men and women of this community expected there would be a real change when I became mayor, and I shall not disappoint them. The best support that can be given to my program of retrenchment and lowering of taxes is in helping us elect Horner.

BRUNDAGE URGES 3% BEER, THEN A DRY REPEAL TEST

Lays Down His Wet Plank in Governorship Race.

Former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage yesterday proclaimed the formula for solution of the prohibition problem on which he will stand in his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor. He advocates the immediate legalization of 3 per cent beer by congress and the eventual submission to constitutional conventions in the 48 states of a repealer of the eighteenth amendment.

Legal beer, he holds, will strike a death blow at the major portion of the bootleg traffic and its attendant gang murders and graft payments to public officials. It is the bulk of beer, he points out, which makes necessary the armed escorts of gangsters and the widespread payments to police, prohibition agents, and politicians so that the illicit brew may be delivered without interruption.

Would Help End U. S. Deficit.

Further, Mr. Brundage contends, restoration of the internal revenue tax on beer would be almost sufficient to wipe out the deficit in the national budget, and legalization of the product would provide farmers of the country with a market for 100,000,000 bushels of grain annually.

Mr. Brundage's statement opened with an attack on the assertion that prohibition is a national question—outside the influence of the governor of Illinois.

"We know the governor commands a vast array of patronage," he said. "This patronage can be directed toward the selection of a dry candidate for governor of Illinois, as you may witness it now being employed. In the same manner this patronage can be directed toward the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention next June who will be in accord with the governor's views on the liquor question. The governor can use his patronage to defeat every opponent differing from him. It is a vast power and constantly utilized.

Mr. Brundage's Position.

"The people have a right to know how candidates view this subject. I state my position.

"No law, not even if a part of the constitution, is so sacred that it cannot from time to time be reviewed by the people. Written constitutions are not flexible. In the United States the people can only demand through their representatives in congress that they be given an opportunity to express themselves in the manner prescribed for constitutional amendments. That is, to submit the 18th amendment to the people of the forty-eight states of the union for their determination in state conventions called for that purpose.

Unless this is done it leaves many in the belief that the majority does not govern. One of the things the framers of our constitution sought to avoid in forming this American republic was to prevent the tyranny of minorities which had wrecked so many democracies of the past. . . . I say, let the 18th amendment be submitted by congress to the American people. The governor cannot do this, as one of my opponents says, but I say to you, he can lead political thought in this direction."

Predicts Modification Support.

Mr. Brundage called attention to the resolution adopted last week by the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, calling for modification of the Volstead act. He predicted that the United States Chamber of Commerce will take similar action.

Congress has the same power to define 3 per cent alcoholic content as the limit for nonintoxicating beverages as it had in fixing the present one-half of one per cent limit, he said. He then discussed the developments of beer gangs under prohibition, saying:

"When the Volstead act first became effective, bootlegging was sporadic. Individuals entered into the illegal enterprise but gradually by violence the trade became centered in organized gangsters and finally in one powerful organization. To make it possible to transport beer because of its bulk, automobile trucks were necessary and gangster escorts. The police became nonobservant and the malt fluid has been put upon the market, green and immature, but in volume sufficient to yield tremendous profits.

The Basis of Gangdom.

"It is the basis of organized gangdom. When the beer barons had paved the way for the distribution of their product the organization was extended to include gambling and vice in all its forms. It is still reaching further, and the crime that dominates our big cities has enormous profits from illegal beer as the sustaining power.

"Amendment of the Volstead act is not only the way to end organized gangdom, but would yield a revenue on the former basis of taxation almost sufficient to wipe out the national deficit. It would also create a market, it is estimated by one eminent authority, for the sale each year of more than one hundred million bushels of grain.

"The farmer today is hopelessly discouraged. Nothing but loss confronts him and there can be no return of prosperity throughout our nation until the former participates in it."

SWANSON HITS AT TACTICS OF JUDGE FEINBERG

State's Attorney John A. Swanson, candidate in the Republican primary for renomination, yesterday criticized the campaign tactics of one of his opponents, Judge Michael Feinberg. In one of his speeches Mr. Swanson touched on the banking situation in general and told of his own investigations.

The unprecedented number of bank closings has seriously affected the county, Mr. Swanson said. Under his direction 92 indictments have been voted charging 73 bank officials and their associates with various crimes. To avoid any political tinge, he has appointed Attorney Edwin J. Raber, who, he said, has no political affiliations, to prosecute the cases arising from the failure of the Bain banks.

"The statements of the judge candidate [Feinberg] have become of such a character as to seriously impede and bedevil the administration of justice in the community and is creating much harm to an already sorely distressed community," Prosecutor Swanson said.

"Certain of my opponents have in a general way attacked all bankers and bond and mortgage houses on unjust assumptions that they were all guilty of some criminality. This has been done by direct word or inference. It is not fair to blaspheme or attack a man who is a victim of circumstances over which he alone has no control. My actions against bankers have been on legal grounds."

The prosecutor said he is bringing bank debtors to his office and getting them to pay their debts without making them victims of unfavorable publicity, and without using those actions for political purposes.

SWANSON WILL TELL HOW CITY BROKE GANG RULE

State's Attorney Swanson, who is president of the National Prosecuting Attorneys' association, yesterday accepted an invitation to speak on "Politics and Crime" at the banquet next Friday evening, which will close a two day convention of the Wisconsin District Attorneys' association. The convention will open at the Lorraine hotel in Madison with an address of welcome by Gov. Philip F. La Follette. Prosecutor Swanson was asked to tell the Wisconsin prosecutors how the alliance of crime and politics was broken in Chicago after he took office by Prosecutor George A. Bowman of Milwaukee county, who is president of the Wisconsin association and also a member of the national association.

CUSTER PLEDGES ECONOMY IN HIS GOVERNOR BID

Carbondale, Ill., March 13.—[Special.]—Declaring that he would not seek a second term if elected governor this year, Omer N. Custer, Republican gubernatorial candidate, told an overflow audience at the Shyrock auditorium here that he did not want to be hampered by building up a machine for reelection.

Stressing reduction of expenses of the state, he said he would cut out overlapping commissions and organizations and, if elected governor, would put into effect a program of economy that would reach the pocket of every taxpayer in the state.

"If I am elected," he said, "I will not run for a third either, because I won't have a second term."

The meeting here ended his swing in southern Illinois. Mr. Custer ridiculed the slogan of "back to prosperity," used by his opponents, by saying such a man would be heralded as the greatest human being in the world if that man knew the supernatural secret to bring back prosperity. The candidate also flatly declared himself to be nobody's candidate, but was his own candidate.

Mr. Custer said he had not mentioned the name of any opponent in the campaign and would not.

3 Saw Way Out of Jail; One Slain, Others Caught

Kingston, N. Y., March 13.—[Special.]—Samuel Kline was shot and killed early today and two of his fellow fugitives from the Ulster county jail here were recaptured by a police posse an hour after they had sawed their way out of their cells, slugged a jailer into unconsciousness and escaped.

LINDY AND AIDS MAP NEW PLAN FOR BABY HUNT

Conference Held at Home Near Hopewell.

careful investigation was made of this man, who gave his address at 22 Boswell avenue, Camp Hill, Pa., and on word from people whom this party stopped with at Elliston, Va., that he had arrived at their home 6 p. m. Tuesday, March 1 [the night of the kidnaping] with the baby, this man was released."

Asked to Aid Kidnapers?

Calvin Petty, employed by the Princeton nursery, living in the edge of the village of Kingston, about twelve miles from the Lindbergh home, told the following story early tonight:

"Saturday night about 8:30 I heard my dogs barking and went out in the yard. I saw a man coming toward me from a big automobile parked on the public road about 125 yards away. He said to me:

"'Do you live here?'

"I told him I did and he said:

"'I don't know you and you don't know me, but I want you to take the Lindbergh baby back home Monday night between 10 and 11 o'clock in your car.'

Asks $20,000; Offered $100.

"The man then asked me how much I would want to do this and I told him $20,000. He said he wouldn't give me any such amount, but that he would have $100 in dollar bills in an envelope. Then he told me not to say anything to anybody or he would do away with me. He said: 'I know where you live and I can get you any time.'"

Petty was said by those who knew him to be a responsible resident of the community. He has lived in this vicinity for 18 years. Continuing his story, Petty said:

"The man appeared to be about 30 to 35 years old and was wearing a black derby pulled low over his ears and a gray overcoat. He did not speak with an accent of any kind. I would say he weighed about 165 pounds. O, yes, he had a black spot on his right cheek. I took it to be a mole.

Troopers Turn Him Back.

"I was bothered and did not even tell my wife, who is very nervous. I have no telephone and there is none nearby. This morning I tried to go to the Lindbergh home and tell them —I know Lindbergh slightly—but I could not get by the troopers. They turned me back and I came here and told Justice of the Peace Edward Whitehead about my experience. Whitehead told me to say nothing about it to any one else. Then I saw the reporters and I got to talking about it. I think I ought to have protection."

Prosecutor A. F. Weichel at Sandusky, O., has been requested by Col. Schwarzkopf to investigate a possible clew to the kidnapers there, it was learned tonight, as the result of a telephone message from Sheriff John W. Parker. No details concerning Parker's information were available.

There was also a weird story about four rough appearing men having been seen on the Stroudsburgh road exchanging bundles. Two men ran out of a dense wood and took a package from one of the four men in the car. The car then sped away toward Princeton. No one in the neighborhood attempted to follow either the car or the men who went into the woods.

Only News Men Busy.

Sunday is Sunday in Hopewell, kidnaping or no kidnaping. Virtually all activity except that created by the hundred or more newspaper people still quartered in the village, was shut down.

Meanwhile, there are no new developments this afternoon outside of the board of strategy meeting at the house and a minimum of authentic information has been gleaned concerning that.

There is, however, a persistent report from New York City that the turn in the case will come within three days. There have been such guesses every day since the kidnaping and nothing except hope has come from them.

Each day that the child remains missing reduces the actual chances of recovery.

New Clew Discovered.

York, Pa., March 13.—(AP)—An osteopath's story of how a patient exhibited "the Lindbergh baby" and then ordered him at pistol point to telephone a ransom demand to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N. J., today was being investigated by authorities.

The osteopath, M. B. Shellenberger, said that as he ushered the man out he saw a woman companion in the waiting room with a child resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

Tan man turned, Shellenberger declared, and said:

"Do you know whose baby that is? Well, that is the Lindbergh child, and you are just the man I am looking for. You call up Col. Lindbergh's home and tell him to leave the ransom money at ——— and the baby will be turned over to him at ———."

Shellenberger said he did as he was bidden, while the woman took the child out to a coupé.

Two other automobiles, the osteopath said, trailed the first car as it departed.

TWO WRECKERS HURT.

Frank Zick, 36 years old, 2231 West 26th street, and Stanley Pyrinock, 32 years old, 3638 South Western avenue, were slightly injured yesterday when a wall collapsed in a building at 1640 Walnut street. The two men were at work wrecking the structure at the time.

85 YEARS OLD

[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Three of Chicago's oldest native sons, all of whom were born close to the loop in 1847, are planning a little get-together tonight. The occasion will be the 85th birthday of one of the trio.

He is William P. Henneberry, retired founder of the Henneberry Printing company. His two guests, both bosom companions, are John D. Haggard of 159 North Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, president of the Haggard and Marcusson company, and a civil war veteran, and Howard Henderson of 4109 Grand boulevard, attorney and former president of the Chicago Bar association. Mr. Haggard will be 85 years old Dec. 4, and Henderson will be 85 May 15.

The celebration, in the form of a quiet birthday dinner, will be held at Mr. Henneberry's home, 3300 Sheridan road.

Mr. Henneberry was born on Clinton street; Mr. Henderson on Sangamon street, and Mr. Haggard on Ohio street. Mr. Henneberry and Mr. Haggard were early deliverers of THE TRIBUNE. They used to maintain delivery routes, distributing TRIBUNES before breakfast.

EDUCATORS HERE THIS WEEK FOR TWO GATHERINGS

U. of C. Dedication Draws Important Speakers.

Leaders in education from twenty states, including many college presidents and doctors of philosophy, will gather in Chicago for two educational events this week. Some 1,500 are expected for the four day, thirty-seventh annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which opens tomorrow at the Stevens hotel.

DR. H. P. RAINEY.

The other event of importance to education is a conference this morning on the dedicatory program of the new graduate education buildi. g at the University of Chicago, built at a cost of $610,000.

Five Distinguished Speakers.

Five distinguished speakers, all doctors of philosophy and alumni of the university's education department, will be Homer Price Rainey, president of Bucknell university; Prof. James Bartlett Edmonson of the University of Michigan's education department; Prof. Ralph Winfred Tyler, Ohio State university; Douglas Edgar Scates, director of the bureau of school research, Cincinnati, and Lloyd E. Blauch of the American Association of Dental Schools.

Prof. William Claude Reavis of the university will lead the doctors of philosophy in a discussion this morning on practical applications of the science of education in various institutions, and this afternoon Prof. Beardsley Ruml will lead in a discussion of teacher training.

Prof. Thorndike to Speak.

Prof. Edward Lee Thorndike, Columbia university's renowned educational psychologist, will speak at a session this evening. President Robert Maynard Hutchins will preside at a conference tomorrow morning on higher education, and he and Mrs. Hutchins will receive at a social function tonight.

Among the speakers on the program of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools are H. W. Chase, president of the University of Illinois; A. G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan; Walter A. Jessup, president of the University of Iowa; L. D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, and G. W. Rightmire of Ohio State. Overemphasis on athletics, the proper sizes of classes, and probably the financial plight of Chicago's public schools will be discussed.

JUMPS FROM ATTIC; DIES.

Martin Kuldanek, 52 years old, 2416 Clarence avenue, Berwyn, a welder, committed suicide yesterday by leaping from the attic window of his home. Members of his family told the police they knew of no motive for his act.

MINISTERS ATTACK AID OF UNDERWORLD IN LINDBERGH CASE

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Public sympathy for Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh in their misfortune was a credit to the American people, but the dickering with gangsters was "public humiliation" and the public hysteria a reversion to the primitive, according to sermons heard here today.

DR. J. H. HOLMES.

"The Lindbergh kidnaping stirred a sentiment of sympathy which was a credit to the American people, but it also stirred an excitement of hysteria which shows America at its worst," said John Haynes Holmes in the Community church. "In our hysteria we become savages again."

"What are we to think, for example, of the hysterical resort to prayer to God for the finding of the Lindbergh baby? This was superstition of the craziest and crudest type. For it is only the primitive man who believes in a God so small that he can have personal part in the incidents and accidents in the life of a single individual on this tiny planet."

Dr. Minot Simons, speaking at All Souls Unitarian church, said:

"The increasing power of the underworld is giving us some bad moments of doubt about the security of modern life. No one is safe if he has anything to lose. Life itself is cheap if it stands in the way of what the modern bandit is after."

WOMAN CLAIMS BABY HELD FOR TIME AS LINDY'S

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Virginia Hashagen, 18, said tonight that a baby detained in Crossville, Tenn., and believed for a time to be the missing Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., undoubtedly is her 16-months-old son, Billy Robert Reed. The child resembles in many ways the Lindbergh heir, she said.

Mrs. Hashagen said her mother, Mrs. Daisy Jones, and a Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mitchell disappeared with the child near Dwyer, Mo., while she was on an automobile trip with them seven months ago. The woman who gave her name in Crossville as Mrs. Young probably is her mother, Mrs. Hashagen said.

Mrs. Hashagen said she would ask the sheriff of Kalamazoo county to request Crossville authorities to hold the child until it can be returned to her but that she does not wish to prefer charges against the baby's grandmother.

Near Dwyer, Mo., Mrs. Hashagen said, the touring party ran out of money and she started into Dwyer to get food for the child. When she returned the others had disappeared, taking the child. Efforts to find them since proved unavailing, although she said she had received a few letters from her mother.

Mitchell, she said, was a baker in St. Louis when she met him. She could not identify the man giving his name as Young. Mrs. Hashagen is a waitress but is not now employed.

DROP IN DIVORCES AND MARRIAGES SHOWN IN 1932

Reports on First Quarter Given by Court Clerks.

Weddings and divorces continued to dwindle in Cook county during the first three months of the fiscal year, 1932, according to reports made public by Thomas O. Wallace and Frank V. Zintak, clerks of the Circuit and Superior courts respectively.

FRANK V. ZINTAK.

From the comparisons it appears that for the second year within the history of the county since official records have been kept both the divorces and marriages will show decreases. The only other year in which this condition was found was 1931, when both the marriages and divorces showed substantial decreases from the 1930 and 1929 totals.

Marriages dropped to 6,631 for the period from Dec. 1, 1931, to Feb. 29, 1932, as compared with an average of 8,000 for the same quarter last year. The decrease amounted to 30 per cent. This percentage, according to Marriage Clerk Sidney Summerfield, will not hold throughout the year, however.

Divorces for the Quarter.

In the Circuit court only 615 divorce suits were filed during the quarter and the Superior court report discloses only 854 divorce actions for the same period. These figures show a 24 per cent decrease for the Superior court and a 25 per cent decrease for the Circuit court.

During the quarter three wives received divorces for every husband who was granted a decree. This is the normal ratio. The alimony paid in each court diminished in proportion to the decrease in divorce actions. The total weekly alimony paid on the Superior court divorces averaged $550, while in the Circuit court the average was $410.

Leading Divorce Grounds.

Thus far 615 children have been involved in their parents' divorces in both courts. The usual charges of desertion and cruelty continue to be the most frequent of Illinois' seven divorce grounds. These two allegations comprise almost 80 per cent of the charges filed.

In the state as a whole only 17,000 marriages were recorded during the 1932 quarter. This is at the approximate rate of the 1931 marriages, when the state total reached only 68,732. In 1930 the state recorded 79,691 marriages.

WOMAN BEATS ALLEGED RAPIST DURING SHOWUP

Mrs. Violet Mignois, 900 Wilson avenue, identified a youth at the detective bureau showup yesterday as a robber and a rapist and severely beat him before policemen could interfere.

The man beaten is Clarence Flynn, 20 years old, 4500 Jackson boulevard. He and Arthur Amevery, 26 years old, 5026 Berenice avenue, were arrested early yesterday by Sergt. Patrick Griffith and his squad.

Mrs. Mignois and her husband, Peter, attended the showup looking for the two robbers who had entered their flat while a party was in progress Saturday night. They said that the two men carried pistols and that one herded all the guests in the living room while the other forced a niece of the Mignoises into a bedroom and attacked her. The girl, who is 20 years old, was present at the showup and also identified Flynn and Amevery.

Lieut. John L. Sullivan had called Flynn down from the platform for further questioning when Mrs. Mignois began beating and scratching him.

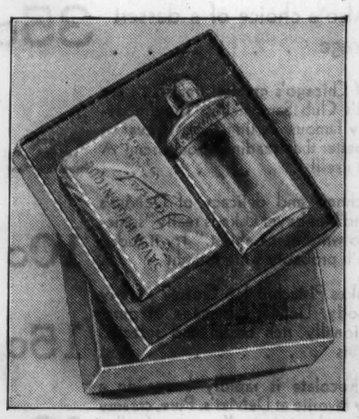
MME. JAQUET is an illustrious Frenchwoman who has spent her life bringing beauty to gentlewomen in Europe and America. She is known on two continents for her charm and magnetism and her name is a grateful memory to thousands of women because of the happiness she has given them.

Every day next week—from Monday to Saturday—the Toiletries Dept. at Stevens will have a message and offer this gift from Mme. Jaquet to you.

FIRST FLOOR



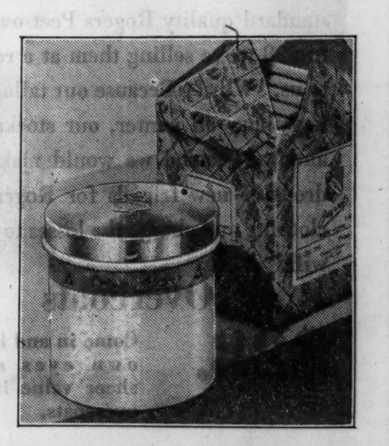
SAVON HYGIENIQUE is blended of mild oils and treated with milk. It cleanses your skin gently and effectively, leaving it smooth as satin. Cleansing with this pure soap is the first step in the care of your complexion.

REFRESHENER is a fragrant lotion to clear the pores and to remove excess oil after cream has been used. It leaves the skin exquisitely refreshed and ready for cosmetics, and it is invaluable for a quick clean-up when you want to renew your make-up.

Mme. Jaquet's Gift—A full size cake of Savon Hygienique, the famous complexion soap treated with milk, and a dainty bottle of Refreshener, the new fragrant toning lotion, two of the three steps in Mme. Jaquet's simplified treatment to keep your complexion clear and fine textured.

Mme. Jaquet's gift will be presented to you through the courtesy of Chas. A. Stevens & Bros. with the purchase of a jar of Creme Filaree—the third step in the Simplified treatment. In this way Mme. Jaquet makes it possible for you to have her entire simplified treatment for the coat of Creme Filaree alone. This is the ideal all-purpose cream and is $1.25 for a large jar.

FIRST FLOOR



CREME FILAREE is a pure sterilized cream with three functions—to loosen dust particles deep in the pores, to nourish slightly, and to refine the texture of the skin. It is to be applied after cleansing with Savon Hygienique.

There is a practical little folder in Mme. Jacquet's gift package which explains her simplified treatment and how to use it. If you will give yourself this simple care daily, your complexion will retain the appearance of fine grooming which every fastidious woman insists upon.

NEW OUTBREAKS TURN JAP TROOPS TO MANCHURIA

Division to Quit Shanghai for North.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 14 [Monday].—Outbreaks in Manchuria following the creation of the new state of Manchoukuo have caused the Japanese to send there troops now at Shanghai, it was learned today. It is likely that the 9th division and 24th mixed brigade, which were announced recently as scheduled for removal to Japan, will be the troops selected for new duties.

No official Japanese announcement was made but subordinate officers of the 9th division said that at a high military conference aboard the flagship Idzumo, it was decided to release a number of units for service in Manchuria. Transports which brought reinforcements here from Japan during the past two days will be used.

Rumor Fighting in Manchuria.

Rumors immediately spread among the troops that serious fighting in Manchuria is imminent. According to reports from Nanking revolts against the new Manchurian regime have broken out in Manchuli, at the western end of the Chinese Eastern railway, Itung and Weighiatun, on the South Manchurian railway between Szepingkai and Changchun, Ilan, on the Sanguri river east of Harbin, Taheiho, on the Amur river opposite Blagoveschensk, and at several points on the eastern branch of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Massacres of Japanese residents are reported at Manduili and Taheiho. Japanese consular officials are said to have fled across the border into Russia.

It is also reported here that revolts in which bandits participated occurred in the Mukden Chinese city and Hsinmin, west of Mukden.

Li Ming-sin, a representative of the so-called volunteers of Heilungkiang province, arrived yesterday at Loyang, temporary Chinese capital, and reported to the national government that there are now 30,000 so-called rebel troops in north Manchuria which have refused to submit to the Japanese demands to join Manchoukuo, the new state.

Urge Army to Recover Manchuria.

Li Ming-sin urged the national government to appoint either the Christian general, Feng Yu-Hsiang, or Marshal Wu Pei-fu, former north China war lord, as head of a new army to recover Manchuria. He said that such a move would not be difficult due to the opposition of the 30,000,000 Chinese to the new regime. All consider the present government as merely a step toward attempted annexation by Japan.

The national government yesterday issued a statement that the "Japanese government must assume full responsibility for the establishment of the puppet state in Manchuria. The Japanese not only have illegally invaded and occupied Manchuria but have impressed Chinese citizens and utilized the services of a handful of rebels to set up illegal organizations.

"All who participate in the new state will be regarded as traitors, but the Japanese are the real instigators since the authority in Manchuria is actually wielded by a large number of Japanese 'advisers' who are backed by the Japanese army."

The Chinese government was unable to instruct its delegate, Dr. W. W. Yen, to vote for the resolution passed by the league of nations assembly last Friday on the Sino-Japanese trouble because of faulty cable facilities, it was explained today.

The national government late last night wired Yen instructing him to agree to the resolution and at the same time explain the reason for the delay.

Squabble Over Peace Terms.

SHANGHAI, March 13.—(AP)—Sino-Japanese peace negotiations struck another snag today despite the efforts of neutral mediators to avoid it.

The difficulty apparently was over an interpretation of withdrawal of the Japanese forces as provided in a league of nations peace plan last week.

The Chinese stand is upon the firm contention that there must be complete withdrawal of Japanese forces from the Shanghai area without any conditions whatever.

The Japanese negotiators emphasized there are discrepancies between the Chinese attitude and the league resolution, pointing out that the word "complete" does not appear in the resolution in connection with the withdrawal of Japanese forces.

Foil Chinese Plot in Shanghai.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, March 14.—[Monday.]—A daring Chinese plot to seize Nantao and other parts of the native area of Shanghai not occupied by Japanese troops was believed frustrated tonight when international settlement and French concession police made four simultaneous raids netting twelve Chinese conspirators.

From the quantity of badges, passes and documents seized, it is believed that had the coup been successful the conspirators intended immediately declaring a greater Shanghai allegiance to the new Manchurian government headed by former Emperor Henry Pu Yi. It is understood that the settlement and French police acted upon secret information from Chinese sources.

The seized documents reveal the existence of a secret organization called the "southwestern self-defense army." Chinese officials of greater Shanghai refused to be quoted on the situation, but some declared that several government officials are involved.

17 YEAR OLD GIRL RAPED; 3D HAWAII CASE IN 2 WEEKS

HONOLULU, March 13.—(AP)—A 17 year old Chinese girl was brutally assaulted late last night near Waikiki beach in the third attack upon a woman in Honolulu within two weeks.

Two hours later police arrested Joseph Young, Corean-Hawaiian, whom the girl identified as her assailant. C. F. Weeber, the city's new chief of police, said he would attempt to have him hanged.

Badly bruised and showing evidence of having been choked, the girl, Bernice Lum, said she left a private dance shortly before midnight with Gilbert Halm, Chinese, for a walk.

There were sitting on the steps of a nearby residence, the girl related, when Young approached. The girl and her escort said that Young, a huge fellow, told Halm to "scram." Halm, a youth of slight stature, departed.

Young, police were told, then choked the girl and attacked her. Neighbors, attracted by her screams, arrived after her assailant had fled.

Halm and Edward Lau, a Chinese friend of Young's were also taken into custody.

Weeber, appointed police chief when the department was reorganized six weeks ago, following recent disorders, recalled the indictment and sentence to life imprisonment ten days ago of John Fernandez, who admitted attacking a Japanese woman.

"The only way to deal with this situation," he said, "is to hang the criminals guilty of assaulting women. I believe in the salutary effect of the noose."

Capital punishment in such cases was provided for in a measure passed by the recent special session of the territorial legislature.

The assault upon Miss Lum occurred just two weeks after Mrs. Kathleen Hope, wife of a naval enlisted man, was attacked in her home, which is in the same neighborhood—near Waikiki beach.

REAL TEST VOTE ON PROHIBITION IN HOUSE TODAY

Drys Dread Disclosure of Losses.

ing. A majority of the full house is 218. If the wets were to number as many as some of the hopeful think they may, it would not take many absentees on the dry side to spell a wet victory.

It is recalled that when the house passed the Volstead act over President Wilson's veto, more than 180 members found themselves called away on other matters.

A victory on the resolution itself is admittedly out of the question. Since the measure calls for a constitutional amendment, a two-thirds majority would be required.

With the showdown in immediate prospect, Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], one of the leading wets, in a statement tonight recalled figures which he said "make the printed record of our 'noble experiment' read like a horrible recital of ruthless slaughter, destruction, and disregard of the sacred rights of our citizenry."

He showed that from January, 1920, to July, 1931, federal officers arrested 681,657 persons for prohibition violations; convictions were obtained in 499,911 individual cases and 171,205 persons received jail sentences; 291,181 stills for the manufacture of illicit liquor were seized and 266,790,612 gallons of liquor, mash, etc., were confiscated; 77,707 automobiles were seized and 6,809 vessels and boats were captured; $60,003,344 was collected in fines and penalties while 35,365 premises were padlocked.

Tells of Record of Graft.

"While these astounding figures were accumulating," the Chicago congressman declared, "dishonest and grafting federal prohibition agents were collecting their filthy percentage from their unwary victims; thus 1,604 of them were summarily dismissed 'for cause' and another 11,982 were merely 'dropped' from the service.

"The dollar cost of this unholy enforcement was approximately 370 million dollars and the loss of revenue to the treasury was approximately $10,984,000,000, a very large percentage of which went directly into the pockets of the bootlegger, the racketeer, and the rum runner.

"When the division of profits with grafters and gangsters took the big money and the thrill out of rum and beer running, the bootlegger and the racketeer switched to kidnaping, bank robbing, and other forms of getting 'big money' quickly."

He concluded with the warning:

"Any member of congress who tomorrow by his vote refuses to allow his constituents and mine to vote on an amendment to the 18th amendment which would give the states of the union the right to regulate their own beer and alcoholic traffic within their own borders, will certainly stand in a sorry light when he appears before his people in the November elections asking for their vote for his return to congress for another two years."

SWEDEN GRANTS KREUGER FIRMS A MORATORIUM

Stock Exchange Shut Indefinitely.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 14. [Monday. — (AP) — Both chambers of the Swedish riksdag today adopted a bill authorizing the government to grant companies or persons a short moratorium on payment of debts, if necessary to combat a panic as a result of the suicide in Paris yesterday of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match trust head.

The Stockholm stock exchange last night was ordered closed until further notice.

Minister of Finance Bamrin opened the debate in the upper chamber and emphasized that the powers conferred in the moratorium measure would be employed with the utmost caution and with respect to national as well as private interests. Premier Ekman made a similar statement in the lower chamber. The debate in each chamber lasted only a quarter of an hour.

The cabinet met immediately after the measure was adopted and considered a request from the Kreuger & Toll company for a moratorium on their obligations until March 31.

Text of Request.

The request was phrased as follows:

"On account of the death of Ivar Kreuger it is necessary for the directors [of Kreuger & Toll] to make an investigation and to survey the company's engagements. In order to be enabled to do this without disturbance and having regard for the firm's large operations, the company requests the government to grant a respite until the end of March for payment of the debts of the company.

"The same respite is requested for certain affiliated companies and certain persons in the Kreuger & Toll company who are personally liable for some of the company's engagements."

Request Is Granted.

After some debate, the government decided to extend a moratorium to Kreuger & Toll as well as to three smaller connected concerns of Kreuger's heirs and to four of his associates, including Deputy Director Littorin.

Some newspapers today said it had been known for some time that March or April would find Kreuger & Toll in financial difficulties and that several weeks ago the government had drafted a bill for authorization of a moratorium in the event of necessity.

Svenska Morgenblad, regarded as the official mouthpiece, said in an editorial that the activities of the Kreuger & Toll combine had not always proved entirely advantageous to the country—on the contrary, they had involved danger on certain occasions—and that there would be no reason to regret winding up the concern's affairs, providing it did not take the form of a catastrophic collapse.

Reports current here today said Kreuger had insured himself with a Swedish company in 1925 for a big sum—probably between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000. In cases of suicide, Swedish companies usually follow the rule that insurance is paid to beneficiaries if more than three years have elapsed after a policy is taken out. Kreuger's family is said to be his beneficiary.

have been possible without a collapse of prices ensuing.

This would have meant a heavy loss to big holders of Kreuger stock, but would have saved thousands of dollars for American investors who loaded up on Kreuger yesterday. Whether the sales came from those in Paris who knew of the suicide or whether there was a mysterious leak which the police could not stop is a mystery which may never be cleared up.

Body Lies Alone.

In contrast with the tense international drama going on around the ruins of Kreuger's life, the match king's body is lying alone without any pomp on the bed in the little apartment where he ended his life yesterday.

At the Swedish consulate tonight it was not expected that his sister would come to Paris after him, and plans are being made to ship the body to Sweden for burial on Wednesday. He is survived by his father, wno was 80 last Tuesday; his mother, four sisters and a brother.

The inquest into Kreuger's death was officially closed today when police turned in the coroner's report pronouncing suicide.

European Bankers Meet.

BASEL, Switzerland, March 13.—(AP)—Governors of central European banks here for the Bank for International Settlements board meeting met today to discuss possible financial repercussions from the death of Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish match monopolist. They decided to await events before going deeply into the matter.

This nerve center of world banking appeared greatly concerned over Kreuger's suicide in Paris yesterday, but apparently no other action was taken, other than the central European bankers' meeting.

Ivar Rooth, governor of the Bank of Sweden, and Oscar Rydbeck, Kreuger's right hand man, both of whom were here for the international bank meeting, started for Stockholm an hour and a half after Kreuger was found dead.

No Bearing on United States.

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Wall street leaders today viewed the situation arising from the death of Ivar Kreuger as of little direct bearing upon financial affairs in the United States.

Bankers acknowledged that the psychological effect on world financial centers was undoubtedly adverse, but it was believed that neither Kreuger nor the Kreuger companies had outstanding bank loans in the United States.

Offices of Lee, Higginson & Co., New York banking representatives of Kreuger & Toll Co., were kept open during the day, while some of the partners met to receive any further advices from Stockholm.

See No Need to Act.

Officials of the New York stock exchange did not feel that the situation in the Kreuger issues listed here called for any action on the part of the governors of the exchange, at least before the opening of European markets tomorrow. No meeting of exchange governors was called, and so far as could be learned, there were no meetings of financial leaders, save for the gathering of some of the Lee, Higginson partners.

Bankers who discussed the matter informally pointed out that the Kreuger issues had never been an important factor in the New York stock exchange.

Some banking leaders felt that Kreuger's suicide had thrown his companies into an unjustifiably bad light.

CHARGES G. O. P. CUTS OUT MENINGITIS FUND URGED BY ROOSEVELT

Albany, N. Y., March 13. — (AP) — Democrats charged tonight that the Republican-controlled legislature took $25,000 from Gov. Roosevelt's budget, which he had set aside for experimental work on spinal meningitis, and used it to finance the legislative investigation into Mr. Roosevelt's administration.

Irwin Steingut, Democratic assembly leader, said the transfer had been made in the Republican fiscal committee treatment of the budget, the $25,000 being cut out of the budget and later appropriated for the investigation.

Steingut said the investigation was "an attempt to put Gov. Roosevelt on the spot." He declared the Republicans were "short of campaign funds" and would "use the taxpayers' money for this purpose to create political ammunition" by the investigation into the eighteen state departments under Mr. Roosevelt's jurisdiction.

"This investigation was ordered by official Washington," said Steingut, "because the Republicans know that the loss of New York state to Herbert Hoover would cause his defeat for reëlection."

SALES TAX MAY UPSET REVENUE BILL'S PASSAGE

Concessions Probable to Stave Off Defeat.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Debate will be resumed on the billion dollar tax boost bill tomorrow with the Democrats facing the first serious crisis in their leadership of the house.

CHAS. R. CRISP. [Harris & Ewing.]

The Democratic membership of the house is badly split on the question of the manufacturers' sales tax, designed to raise 600 millions of the one billion 241 millions necessary, as now estimated, to balance the budget next year. About as many Democrats are against it as are for it.

The Republicans are also divided but not so seriously, a large majority of them being in favor of the sales tax.

Concessions Seem Necessary.

Democratic leaders tonight are confessing to doubts that the sales tax can be passed in the form recommended by the ways and means committee. It looks they admitted, as if it would be necessary to make concessions to the opposition to get through any kind of a sales tax. Speculation is beginning to revolve around the extent of the concessions it will be necessary to make.

Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the ways and means committee, confronting the storm of opposition in his own party, has been forced to assent to modification of the measure in order to procure enough Democratic votes for its passage. At present, however, he is saying that the maximum concession he is disposed to make is the elimination of the tax on canned goods estimated to yield 10 of the 600 millions. Other Democratic leaders are less sanguine of success at so little a sacrifice of the structure of the bill.

Firm on Balanced Budget.

"I do not know what the fate of the manufacturers' excise tax will be," said Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority leader of the house, tonight, "but one thing is certain: The budget is going to be balanced. Members of the house are going on record in the debate in overwhelming number in favor of balancing the budget not later than the next fiscal year. They may differ on the means but they are a unit as to the end. The budget is going to be balanced either by the sales tax or by revival of the war time nuisance taxes. If the sales tax is rejected our only alternative will be to reimpose war taxes and place the responsibility for that necessity squarely where it belongs."

From present indications, however, it will be impossible if the sales tax is rejected, for the Democrats to blame the Republicans for revival of the war taxes. If the sales tax is beaten or emasculated it will be because of Democratic defections and the responsibility will rest upon the Democratic party.

First Hurdle for Democrats.

Up to date the Democratic leadership of the house has had clear sailing. The Democrats have been a unit in their stand on legislation and they have been the subject of much favorable comment respecting their capacity for handling public affairs.

Those who had prophesied that the Democrats would betray an abysmal imcompetence and would only succeed in rocking the boat, were being confounded. It was widely said that the Democrats were commending themselves to the people in a manner that would stand them in good stead in the presidential elections.

Speaker John Garner's boom for President is due in no small measure to the Democratic performance up to date. The Democrats have gone off on no wild tangents. They have not consorted with Republican radicals, for which reason the oft predicted radical balance of power in the closely divided house had never materialized. Garner is given the credit for this state of affairs. It has been said he held the Democratic majority to a man in the hollow of his hand, that he was proving himself a real leader—the kind of a leader that is needed in the White House, his admirers averred.

Great Political Significance.

If, however, the sales tax feature of the tax bill, which was sponsored by the Democrats, should go on the rocks, the Democrats in general and Speaker Garner in particular, would suffer a tremendous loss of prestige. Some think it might be fatal to the Garner presidential boom.

The tax issue has brought to a focus the financial predicament of the country produced by national prohibition and government extravagance, and brought the drys and wets into collision on the question of what to do about it.

The wets contend that but for prohibition the government would be receiving one billion dollars in liquor tax revenue a year—enough to balance the budget without any additional taxation at this time.

That source of revenue cannot be tapped to that extent short of the repeal of prohibition, pending which, however, the wets are pressing for legalization of 2.75 per cent beer and a tax thereon of $5 a barrel, which it is estimated would yield 350 millions, or more than half the yield expected from the sales tax.

The drys of both parties bar the way to recovery of that source of revenue and at the same time constitute the main resistance to the sales tax. The drys, who are mainly from rural constituencies, are in favor of deriving most of the revenue for support of the government from income taxes and excise taxes that are paid chiefly by urban dwellers.

Live Stock Organs Protest.

Because the pending bill would tax lard, cooked meats, canned meats and sausage, live stock organs, claiming a membership of 160,000, protested today against the sales tax. The protest was signed by the Iowa Coöperative Live Stock Shippers' association, National Grange, National Duroc Record association, American Poland China Record association, National Association of Swine Record, Chester White Swine Record association, National Poland China Record association, Hampshire Swine Record association, Chicago Daily Drovers Journal, and the Pennsylvania Farmers.

Declaring that his first concern is for the country and the necessity of preserving national credit, Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic national committee, said tonight he is advising Democrats to vote for the sales tax because there is no feasible alternative.

"Personally," he added, "I am in hearty accord with those who would so change our laws as to permit the manufacture of beer with the alcoholic content of approximately 3 per cent, and would place upon this beverage a tax sufficient to secure a sum virtually equal to that contemplated from the manufacturers' tax. It seems improbable that a majority of congress will assent to such a program.

"Suggestions have been made of a number of so-called nuisance taxes and of specific taxes of high percentage upon certain things classed as luxuries. Very possibly it may be necessary to enter those fields. Certainly it will be unless congress adopts economy measures of the strictest sort. But the conclusion is forced that in present circumstances there is no alternative to the manufacturers' tax, and that congress must pass that tax if it is going to provide the revenues necessary to balance the budget. Moreover, assurance of a balanced budget by 1933 must be had if he are to escape the danger of disaster in government finances."

3 Firemen Hurt as Fire Destroys Ohio Theater

CITY ECONOMY PROGRAM UP TO COUNCIL GROUP

Mayor Cermak's request that the city council pass an amendment to the continuation ordinance under which he would have authority to discharge city employes as an economy measure, will be considered tomorrow by the finance committee of the council.

The committee meeting was called by Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, not only to consider the amendment, but to discuss the ordinance providing for the discharge of 2,479 employés. The committee also will try to arrive at an estimate of the city's revenues for this year and plans to hear representatives of teachers' organizations on the pay question.

Meanwhile Mayor Cermak is working with department heads in compiling a list of employés whose services may be dispensed with under present financial conditions. If the committee decides to invest the mayor with the authority for which he has asked it is regarded as likely that a special meeting of the council will be called to confirm the action, since the next regular council session will not be held until March 23.

FLEET ON GUARD AGAINST ATTACK BY SHAM FOES

U. S. S. California, at Sea, March 13.—(AP)—There is Sunday routine in the fleet today, war or no war.

The only evidence of the existence of the current mock misunderstanding between this blue fleet, and the black fleet, defending the west coast of the United States, is the presence of a skeleton gun crew at each gun of the battery. A Sunday surprise would be just as unwelcome as a work day coup.

Our destroyers are out on their distant stations. The cruisers are disposed so as to hurry to their aid if the enemy is sighted. As a final argument in a gun debate, our battleships are so placed that they can be interposed between our vulnerable troop ships and the enemy's men-o'-war.

Druggist and Preacher Shot by Negro Robber

A Negro bandit, described by police as unusually vicious, shot a white pharmacist and a colored preacher in the drug store at 2500 Lake street last night because of anger over the smallness of his loot. Neither victim was seriously injured. They were Jacob Sakofsky of 4935 North St. Louis avenue, store owner, and the Rev. Rufus Carson, 2556 Washington blulevard.

ROMANCE SHOVED ASIDE AS FAMILY SQUABBLE RAGES

Titled Italian and U. S. Girl Meet Obstacles.

ROME, March 13.—(AP)—The frustrated romance of the young titled Italian, the Marchese Lorenzo Solari, and Alicia Rodgers, granddaughter of the late American ambassador to Italy, today apparently had become an inter-family dispute.

The family of the 18 year old Miss Rodgers said the young couple ran away last Wednesday and would be married as soon as the necessary formalities could be arranged.

The marchese's family apparently was standing on its assertion of yesterday that the young people had not eloped, and that there would be no marriage.

Both Young Persons Home.

The only agreed facts are that the marchese and Alicia are back at home with relatives.

Miss Rodgers is with her grandmother, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, widow of the late ambassador, and her aunt, the Contessa Brambilla.

The contessa said she regretted the publicity in the affair but felt that in fairness to Alicia, the family is obliged to explain the situation.

"We really opposed the marriage," the contessa said, "only because we had no desire for Alicia to marry into a family that objected to this marriage.

"Youth Is Youth."

"But youth is youth, and the young people, because of opposition from both sides, took matters into their own hands and ran off together Wednesday.

"We would have preferred a normal, dignified wedding, of course. Since the young people are in love with each other, we expect they will be married shortly.

"The young marchese is 22 years old, and therefore, over the age of the recent marriage law and needs no parental consent. He is now with the militia, but various formalities, such as publication of the banns as required in Italy, doubtless will be arranged soon."

Disagree on Age of Marchese.

Yesterday the lad's father, head of the Marconi interests in Italy, insisted the marchese is ill and under his care, adding that elopement reports are absolutely false.

"I am unalterably opposed to any such marriage and it will not take place," he said, "my son has not tried to get married. He is only 20 and has military service to do."

The two families apparently disagreed as to the youth's age.

DISTRIBUTION OF ILLINOIS RELIEF TO START SOON

Distribution of the $18,750,000 state relief fund to needy communities will start soon, according to an announcement yesterday from headquarters of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Preliminary work of setting up a staff to handle administration of the fund has been completed and already some assistance has been extended to these communities. Twenty-one counties have applied for help.

No cash will be distributed, the announcement said, the relief taking the form of payment of bills incurred with merchants who supplied relief material in the various communities. A field representative of the commission will be sent to each county which has asked for aid. Then the local county board will name a committee of not more than five representing social and civic interests, to serve with one county board member as the agent of the relief commission in that area.

MINERS TO MAKE FRESH START ON PAY PARLEY HERE

The joint wage conference of Illinois coal operators and miners, who for the last week have been negotiating a wage scale agreement to replace the contract expiring March 31, will reconvene tomorrow morning at the Majestic hotel.

The committees adjourned Friday following a week's discussion of general economic conditions without actually getting down to a discussion of the wages. It was understood the miners' representatives requested the adjournment in order to return to their unions for further discussion.

In a series of demands, adopted two weeks ago at convention in Springfield, the miners outlined a five day week and requested a raise in the basic scale and other modifications. The operators indicated that all Illinois mines would shut down unless a wage reduction were effected.

'PHANTOM GANG' OF STORE THIEVES ELUDES POLICE

One of the boldest gangs ever to operate in Chicago, according to the police, has been raiding loop stores in the early morning hours for the last two months. Special details of policemen and squads have been unable to curb the raids although they have fired on the robbers several times.

Capt. Jack Horan of the Central police said yesterday the gang consists of 12 men, who usually ride in two fast automobiles. After the robberies the cars, found to be stolen, are abandoned.

Among the police the raiders are known as "the phantom gang." Striking in or near the loop, Capt. Horan said two members of the gang, armed with sawed off shotguns, are usually stationed beside the door of the place to be robbed. The others, the captain said, gain entrance by smashing a window and carry away the loot in a few minutes.

Greeks in U. S. to Observe Independence on March 25

Greeks in Chicago will join in a nation-wide celebration March 25, in which they will combine observance of the bi-centennial of George Washington's birth with the 111th anniversary of independence in Greece. Mayor Cermak and Gov. Emmerson have issued proclamations recognizing the celebration. The bells of Greek Orthodox churches throughout the country will announce the opening of the day's ceremonies.

BERWYN DRIVE LAGS; 7 SCHOOLS REMAIN CLOSED

The prospect for reopening seven Berwyn schools in district 100, which were closed a week ago for lack of funds, still appeared remote yesterday.

According to Otto J. Jabureck, chairman of a citizens' committee which is trying to sell $120,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants for school purposes, only $15,597 worth of the warrants have been sold. Thus far 1,473 potential buyers have been solicited, with 301 subscribing. At this rate, Mr. Jabureck said, only $60,000 of the warrants would be ultimately sold. He said, however, that the committee is still hoping for success in its campaign.

In north Berwyn, the five schools of district 98 are still functioning. Two of the schools, the Lincoln and the Havlicek, are operating on funds raised by pupils and others. The parent-teacher associations of those schools have raised a fund of $400, from which the teachers are allowed to draw small sums. The plan will be extended to the other three schools, William J. Hawks said. He is superintendent of the district.

EX-SENATOR REED IS RECOVERING AFTER OPERATION

Rochester, Minn., March 13.—(AP)—James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, was reported in a satisfactory condition here today after an operation for a serious gall bladder condition. The operation was performed Friday.

His surgeon said tonight that progress so far had been very satisfactory and complete recovery was expected unless unforeseen conditions develop.

Mr. Reed, who was 70 years old last November, was accompanied here by Mrs. Reed and his secretary.

PARTY GUESTS ROBBED.

Three bandits took $13 early yesterday from guests at a party at 900 Wilson avenue. One of the men, who were intoxicated, attempted to attack Grace Aucanas, 19 years old, in whose home the party was held.

TOWARD FAMINE.

Spokesmen for the live stock exchanges in Chicago and elsewhere testified before the house committee on agriculture that the operations of the farm board are destroying the business of the exchanges. This is no doubt true. It is also true, as Mr. Fred Olander of Kansas City said, that the method of live stock marketing developed by private initiative over the years is more advantageous to the farmers than anything the farm board has devised.

While true, these assertions will carry no great weight in congress because the number of voters engaged in the marketing of what the farmers have to sell is relatively negligible. If all the members of all the exchanges dealing in all kinds of farm produce were voters in a single ward of Chicago they might conceivably have some influence in the election of an alderman, but scattered over the whole country as they are their influence counts for next to nothing in Washington.

Fortunately for the welfare of American agriculture, the opposition to the farm board is not confined to these few despised middlemen. The farmers themselves are up in arms against the board. The National Farmers' Grain Dealers' association, with a membership comparable in numbers to that of the Farm Bureau federation, is demanding the liquidation of the board as a menace to the farmers of the land.

The dealers' association is made up of the farmer-owners of country elevators. The association reports that the farm board, instead of encouraging the operations of these long established coöperative elevators, has actually sought to stifle them. In some instances the board set up rival elevators. It also brought about changes in grain classifications which cut into farm income. The president of the dealers' association, Mr. Tom R. Cain of Jacksonville, Ill., put the matter succinctly when he said:

"We don't want to sell out to a system over which we have little or no control, and which has not proved itself more economical than our present marketing system."

The farm board, by hoarding grain and cotton, has kept a supply hanging over the market which is effectively preventing a rise in prices. If it were not for the board's accumulations, wheat today, in the opinion of market experts, would be considerably higher as a consequence of unfavorable weather in the winter wheat belt. Whatever the farmers may have gained as a result of the board's buying they have now lost, and they will continue to pay for the board's speculations until the board's holdings have been liquidated. The farmers have lost heavily, and their loss is pyramided on that of the taxpayers, who must pay the costs of storing the grain hoard and for its heavy depreciation in quality while in storage.

The costly failure of our farm board is not without a parallel. The Russian government, which likewise has sought to control the merchandising of wheat, has so thoroughly disrupted the normal movement of crops that famines are reported over a wide area in southern Russia and Siberia. We may be headed in the same direction. If the meddling of the United States government in the grain trade continues much longer this country, too, must expect to experience the complete disruption of its hitherto orderly marketing system. If the farm board is liquidated promptly it may be possible to salvage enough of the marketing machinery to avert chaos.

A CANDIDATE WHO SAYS WHAT HE THINKS.

Judge Horner's speech at Benton was a strong summary of the case against prohibition.

"The economic loss to the country," said Judge Horner, "the loss of life and liberty of thousands of our citizens, and the decaying moral strength of the growing generation are too great a price to pay for the doubtful benefits we receive from prohibition." But Judge Horner had the courageous good faith to declare that even if the claims of prohibitionists as to the benefits of the experiment were substantiated he would still be against it as an improper invasion of individual liberty. That is the viewpoint of all opponents of prohibition who take into consideration the nature and limitations of law and cherish intelligently the system of civil rights which is the American people's heritage from centuries of struggle for freedom.

Whether the people indulge in alcoholic beverages or abstain is of relatively little importance compared to the issue of free conscience and free judgment, which prohibitionism overrules.

But popular discussion is chiefly concerned with the objective effects of prohibition, and Judge Horner's remarks upon the revenue aspect of his subject express the increasing prominence which the fiscal difficulties of government have given it in the public mind. "The cost of the futile attempts to enforce these laws," he said, "and the loss of revenue to the federal government in excise taxes alone almost offset the total revenue derived from the federal tax on individual incomes. The national appropriation for enforcement, deducting some $4,000,000 in fines, is over $40,000,000. The loss annually in federal revenue from beverage taxes is very conservatively 860 million dollars. These terrific losses, if obviated, would greatly reduce the tax burden upon our industries, and this of itself might prove a sufficient stimulant to start them on the road to recovery. It is estimated that if we manufactured legally the spirituous beverages consumed by our citizens we could give employment to a million and a half people in the country."

The crisis in the fiscal situation of the national government, confronted as it is by the necessity of imposing new taxation at a time when taxation ought to be lightened; the crises of other governments, state and local, created by the expenditures which present revenues are not sufficient to meet, give the revenue aspect of liquor control an emphasis which only ignorance or blind fanaticism ignores. Judge Horner does well to insist upon its consideration by the voting public, and his whole discussion of prohibition is not only pertinent to his appeal as a candidate but a useful contribution to public discussion at this critical time. He refuses to evade these questions of great moment or trade his convictions for votes.

HOW PATERNALISM GROWS.

A reader in sympathy with THE TRIBUNE'S views on bureaucracy sends us the following clipping from Hide and Leather, a trade publication:

"Dr. Olson, director of bureau of agricultural economics, presiding. Present: Dr. Kitchin, assistant director; Mr. Whalin, Mr. Gibbons, Mr. Romberger, representing the grading and marketing of hides and skins; also Dr. Veitch, Mr. Frey, and Mr. Smoot of the bureau of chemistry, representing the takeoff and cure of hides and skins, improvement work.

"In this meeting there was a strong expression that our industry had not availed itself of facilities offered, and unless there is a prompt realization of these facilities and an active interest shown therein there is great danger that these projects will be discontinued by the government."

This illustrates one way in which bureaucracy grows precisely as private enterprise grows, by stimulating demand for its services. Another way was illustrated Thursday in the senate, when a new job was created at the organized tobacco growers' request. They wanted the taxpayers to tax themselves $15,000 annually to maintain a foreign representative for the tobacco industry. The senate committee on appropriations complied. That the industry ought to support its own representative is a thought which did not appeal to the committee.

These processes of growth, from within and without, are showing their power more strikingly now than in times of prosperity. The process exemplified by the tobacco industry is, of course, the more potent and the more difficult to organize against. Each special interest defends its own draft upon the public funds, its own government aid, while demanding retrenchment which will hit the other fellows.

Business organization must deal with this shortsighted and selfish resort of groups within and without their membership. They must be ready to resist and defeat the special privileges obtained by pressure. They must put vigorous and consistent support behind all legislators or officials who are really trying to bring about retrenchment and general relief from destructive taxation. But every American citizen should take a hand in this fight. He can do so directly by letting his legislative representatives know that he demands real retrenchment and will support representatives who resist special grafts like that put over by the tobacco growers. The legislator who resists such demands invites the hostility of organized interests while the general interest has been largely inarticulate and unorganized. Most legislators yield naturally to the pressure that is practically applied and thus retrenchment remains a theory while government bankruptcy is the condition we shall soon be confronting.

A SAP PRESS AGENT.

The wine producers of Europe, particularly of France, have been under the persuasion, evidently, of a high pressure press agent, executive secretary, or organizer. In convention they considered means of getting the United States off Volstead, all of which may be regarded as supplies of ammunition for the American prohibitionist. The French press agent, in earning his subsidy heretofore, has tried the dumb chicane of asserting that the opposition to the Volstead act in the United States was promoted by him, thereby creating the W. C. T. U. legend that American newspapers had been bought by French wine funds.

In convention the winemakers discussed an economic boycott as one means of coercing America and a propaganda fund as an instrument of persuasion. Wine is supposed to be the beverage of an intelligent people. As such it could be recommended to the executive secretary of the French national wine bureau, who apparently takes something headier. A little European meddling in the American liquor issue will raise two more American generations on white mule, alky, and needled beer.

Editorial of the Day

BILLIONS FOR ROADS.

[Sioux City Journal.]

A bill introduced in the senate by Senator Brookhart providing that 2 billion dollars be spent on a system of national highways surely cannot be given serious consideration in congress at this time. It would be lovely to have the roads the Iowan has conceived, and the time will come, no doubt, when they will be constructed, but one would have a hard time finding arguments to support the contention that they should be undertaken now.

The high cost of government, state and city as well as federal, throughout the Union in recent years has been due in large part to the building of roads and streets. Many billions of dollars went into the paving program of the country in the last ten or fifteen years. Today no country so large in any part of the world has better avenues of travel.

It has been suggested variously in the last two years that the cost of government be reduced everywhere. The federal government cost is around 4 billion dollars a year, and state and city government adds an even larger amount. That is what is eating up taxes faster in some instances than they are being collected. Economists have pointed out that many states with good highway systems could save money by waiting until a more propitious time for further road construction. Uncle Sam would do well to balance his budget before he undertook to build such a grand system of highways as Senator Brookhart advocates.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE NEW U. S. BUREAU OF HITCH HIKING.

Why not! They're running out of ideas for new bureaus down in Washington, and so why not have a Bureau of Hitch Hiking? Now that we've suggested it, we haven't the slightest doubt that congress will grab it and that a great new white marble and emerald building will immediately be erected in Washington in Lafayette park or just the other side of the Smithsonian institution.

Good old parental Uncle Sam, with several thousand bureaucrats and clerks in the new department, can send out millions of circulars, letters, and print sheets telling our hitch hikers how to hitch; they won't care to know anything about hiking. That's one thing they never do.

First the new bureau can send out circulars with neat diagrams telling the hitch hikers just how to wriggle their thumbs when demanding a ride. There's so many ways of wriggling one's thumb that the thing ought to be standardized. Many motorists have gone insane from seeing thumbs wriggled in so many different ways. Then the government should advise the hitch hikers not to carry luggage. A good many of the smarter ones know that now, and they look as though they just wanted to go to the postoffice or the village store about a mile away. After they grab a ride it usually turns out that they intend to go to San Francisco or Mexico City or Quebec.

Then the new Bureau of Hitch Hiking could elaborate on this important matter in this way: "Carry no baggage; put your toothbrush and your other shirt (if a gentleman hitch hiker) in your pocket. Motorists are nervous people and sometimes suspicious, and if they see you with a suitcase they may think you have a blackjack, a gat, or a hunk of lead pipe in the bag and that at the first lonely piece of road you'll soak him, chuck him out and drive off with his car. We regret that this has often been done. So to allay suspicion do not carry a bag. We trust you do not have a gat or a sandbag, as we deeply deplore their use. And, anyhow, there's usually a monkey wrench in the car."

The Bureau of Hitch Hiking should also invent some new stories for thumb wrigglers. Walking home to a poor old dying mother or trudging back to college to get a good education and be something in the world were fairly good in their time, but they are getting frightfully frayed and motorists sometimes burst out sobbing when they hear them and get so blinded with their tears that they drive the car into the ditch and the hitch hiker has to get out and flag another car, which, of course, is most annoying.

But why tell a government bureau at Washington what to do? A Washington bureau can think up more ways of spending money in a minute than the average family of five could in a year. They're wonderful that way.

WHEN.

When a hurdy-gurdy
Doesn't make me start
On a quest for moonlight
For my silly heart,

When the moon is heart-blown,
Mad for missing Pan,
And I feign indifference—
That is, if I can.

When I'm through with watching
Down the little street,
And no rain-drenched lilacs
Haunt me, bitter-sweet,

When I want no lovers
Knocking at my door,
I'll know what's the matter—
I'll be sixty-four!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

IN QUINCY, ILL., they've cut down a giant linden tree under which Lincoln and Douglas met in one of their historical debates to split into firewood for the unemployed. Hush, censure not, or lisp the harsh word "vandalism"; it was without doubt the only tree within two hundred miles.

THE W. K. CHICAGO ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCE has declared for 2.75 per cent beer. Listen, C. of A., couldn't you please make that 3.75 or 4.75 per cent? There isn't much kick in 2.75 beer, hardly anything more than a gentle shove.

THE ENDING of the chilly weather and the return of our regular tropical climate is so sudden that the hot rays of the March sunshine make us keep well over on the shady side of the street. However, as we often say to the winter tourists from California, no matter how warm it is in the daytime one always needs two blankets at night.

THE JEFFERSON LADS announce with glee they have already collected $555,000 for their victory campaign next fall. What the Democrats need most of all right now is not that half million bucks but a big, fat peace dove with a blue ribbon tied to its tail that will go back and forth between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith saying "coo, coo, coo" in a soft sweet tone the while.

Close to their hearts
And gently rock to sleep.

Dreams are doll-babies
Spinsters often keep Closed in their hearts—
And NEVER—rock to sleep.

CODFISH CAKES.

PERSONS buying codfish cakes had better eat them on the premises where they are cooked, and not too long thereafter. These cakes are made of codfish and white potatoes, mashed and mixed, and then cooked. Mixtures of meats of different sorts and potatoes, flour, or meal cooked together make very palatable and highly nutritious dishes, and are wholesome. As a rule they taste very good when cold and they are rather readily transported. There is much to be said in favor of this group of dishes, and they merit a wider use than they have. In order to get it they must have a fair break. They cannot withstand the reputation of having caused any disease.

Dr. Ellis Kellert reports a small outbreak of food poisoning due to codfish cakes. A food dealer made some codfish cakes one hot June morning. He put them in an open tray on an open counter in his store. Several people bought them in the forenoon and served them at noon. By night those who had eaten them developed diarrhea, vomiting, cramps, and prostration. In all probability there was some fever and general aching. These symptoms persisted for several days and then cleared up. Every poisoned person recovered without after effects.

These symptoms are typical of a food poisoning due to some bacterial contamination. The time of onset was about right. The symptoms indicated that there was something in the digestive tract that was quite irritating. Other symptoms showed a mild degree of general poisoning. Fortunately, in this type of poisoning the symptoms come on promptly, they give warning that something is wrong, and the vomiting and diarrhea have the effect of ridding the system of the poison.

Dr. Kellert secured some of the cakes, made cultures of them, and got a bacillus which is capable of producing just the kind of food poisoning present in these cases.

With a few precautions this accident could have been avoided. In the first place, the temptation is strong not to heat codfish cakes very long or very thoroughly. They are made of ingredients that have been cooked previously, or pretty well preserved otherwise. It would be safer to give them a longer cooking, even though it be at low temperature, in order to kill bacteria, and then finish with the usual browning.

The browning-cooking processes have their place, but they are not satisfactory as germ killing procedures because the heat does not penetrate well. In the second place, the cooked foods should not have been exposed unwrapped in an open tray. Had these cakes had a more thorough cooking, and had they then been individually wrapped, they probably would have been safe and wholesome.

CURING WINTER ITCH.

M. M. writes: Just a word about winter itch. I was away for six months, near a lake, and in a cool climate when the itch started on my back, arms, abdomen, and legs. I tried Epsom salt baths which relieved me somewhat. I then mixed 3 parts of olive oil with 1 part of glycerin, and proceeded to rub myself with it. It must have cured me, for the itch has gone.

SALTLESS FOODS.

Mrs. L. A. S. writes: Please print a list of foods that may be eaten by a person on a saltless diet.

REPLY:

We will save space by turning your question around. Do not eat salted dried fish, nor salted meats of any kind. Instruct the cook not to salt your foods before cooking them. Avoid salted butter and cheeses. Do not use salt at the table. Avoid the use of sauces and salad dressings, since these generally contain salt.

If you pursue this plan you may not get as much salt as you need. Certainly your taste will call for some more salt.

THERE IS SOME DANGER.

Mrs. R. D. N. writes: There is a brother-in-law in the family who has syphilis. Do you think the rest of the family will be endangered in any way?

REPLY:

If he is careless there is some danger. If he is careful he should not endanger any one.

SUBTERFUGE FOR USURY!

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had an accident with my car and went to a finance company to get money to have it repaired. I got $60 and they charged me $15 for the use of that amount for six months. If I am from one to three days late in paying a note they charge 25 cents; four to seven days late, 50 cents; eight to twelve days, $1. Am I being charged too much for the use of the $60 for six months? And if so, what shall I do about it?

M. C.

If, as seems probable, you could convince a court that this charge was in substance a cover for usurious interest rather than a legitimate commission you could resist liability for the entire excess above the actual principal that you borrowed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TOO LATE TO RECOVER.

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1916 I surrendered a five year insurance policy and only got $35 for it. In later years I found out that I was cheated and upon taking the matter up with the company I ascertained that the policy had a surrender value of $112 with interest. Now they tell me I had a $75 loan on the policy! I never realized that a loan could be obtained on it and certainly never asked for one. Looks as though they are covering up. What can I do to recover my money?

A. L.

If they are willing to give you the details you should try to obtain such details. The statute of limitations has run so that you are not in a position to collect by court proceedings.

WATCH BULLETIN BOARD.

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—Does the civil service commission take every third man on the list according to what rating they receive? Are the other two disqualified, or do they make a new list until they are all appointed? When will the next list be posted, and where could I see it? C. S.

On all original entrance lists certification is made strictly according to average or standing on the list. The results of the examination just completed for patrolman cannot be posted for some time. When posted, lists are publicly displayed on the bulletin board in this office.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Not even the Corean question and the Chino-Japanese war rivals in interest news regarding the health of the czar, which is causing alarm throughout Europe. He is suffering from complications which followed a severe attack of influenza which he incurred last January, and his anxiety over the war has tended to make his condition worse. The czarevitch is not credited with having as much strength of character as his father and his possible ascension to the throne in the present crisis is regarded with some apprehension. Prof. Leyden, Berlin specialist in brain and spinal diseases, is attending the czar at Stala.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—It is rumored that the Japanese have effected a landing on the coast of Shanghai Tung promontory to the northward of Chefoo. Advices from Peking say that there is great anxiety there among the foreign population and at Tientsin the foreigners are actively organizing for defense of their quarters.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Japan, according to reliable authority, if victorious over China, intends to divide China into three independent kingdoms which will be placed under the rule of native princes, one of whom will be Li Hung Chang.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30.—Owing to the protest of Great Britain, the tsung li yamen has ordered the release of the British steamer Pathan, recently seized by a Chinese warship on the suspicion that it was carrying contraband of war.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A Chefoo dispatch says that Japanese cruisers are sighted daily off that port and this news tends to confirm reports that the Japanese have effected a landing to the northward of Chefoo.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 14, 1904.

LONDON.—The Daily Mail dispatch boat entered the mouth of the harbor of Port Arthur on March 12. The town was on fire in three places, the forts were apparently abandoned and there was no sign of life or the flutter of a flag. A dispatch from Tokio says: "It is asserted here that the Russians virtually have abandoned Port Arthur."

TIENTSIN.—An unconfirmed report has reached here that Port Arthur has fallen.

TOKIO.—It is persistently rumored here that the Russians have virtually evacuated Port Arthur and that Dalny has been destroyed. Private telegrams received here show that during the latest attack on Port Arthur by the Japanese two Russian torpedo boat destroyers were sunk and great damage was done to the docks, forts and arsenals, including the explosion of the powder magazine. The bank and military headquarters were destroyed. Another report states that the Japanese bombardment was so furious and so effective that a number of guns were dismounted and the garrison driven out of the works, while the European quarter of the town was in flames. Trustworthy information is that Russian troops are concentrating hurriedly at Fulanton and Funchau, north of Port Arthur, on the west coast of Liaotung peninsula, evidently in anticipation of the Japanese landing. Vice Admiral Togo's report on the battle at Port Arthur shows that the Japanese fleet came out of the combat practically unscathed. Nine men were killed, five seriously wounded, and seventeen slightly hurt.

CHICAGO.—George F. Moore, traveling auditor of the Chicago and Alton railroad, comes 487 miles from Kansas City every Sunday to superintend the Sunday school of the Washington Park Congregational church and the next morning is back at his desk in Kansas City, a round trip of 974 miles. That has been his program since Jan. 1.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 14, 1916.

WEATHERFORD, Tex.—Bridge 268 on the main line of the Texas and Pacific railroad, which was 365 feet long, was burned tonight. It was directly in the route of seven troop trains, carrying from nineteen to twenty-two cars, being rushed to the Mexican border. Twenty bridge gangs are working in an effort to have the bridge replaced by tomorrow. Brig. Gen. Pershing, who will command the Mexican expedition, transferred his headquarters to Columbus, N. M. A Mexican sniper was arrested at El Paso, after he had fired on a sentry at Fort Catton, near El Paso. President Wilson granted Carranza the right to pursue outlaws across the border, but the statement indicates that the United States considers it likely real intervention must come in Mexico. Reports indicate Carranza forces on the frontier are restless and may cause trouble. Maj. Gen. Funston is ready to give the order for the invasion of Mexico the minute plans for backing up the expeditionary force are completed.

LONDON.—The German attack on Verdun has halted temporarily, the official statements from Paris and Berlin indicate. The only activity last night and today was confined to artillery engagements which were heavy along the whole French front as well as around Verdun. In upper Alsace, Paris reports, the French repulsed German efforts to retake trenches east of Seppois, with heavy losses to the Germans.

PETROGRAD.—The war office gave out the following report on Caucasus operations: "We have again driven back the Turks in the region of the Kalapotamos. In Persia, in the course of the operations against Kermanshah, our troops captured eight cannons."

BERLIN.—The losses of the British forces in Mesopotamia in the recent battle near Felahie are estimated by the Turkish war office as at least 5,000. The Turkish statement issued March 12 also states that in Arabia, on the Yemen front, a British detachment of 6,000 infantry, supported by 600 cavalry and twelve centimeter guns, was driven back with heavy losses.

INCIDENT IN THE FIFTH GRADE.

Evanston, Ill., March 10.—This evening when my son, aged 10, and a fifth grade pupil in Washington school, Evanston, arrived home it was with a tale such as I have never heard before. I thought, when I learned last week that each Thursday morning one period is devoted to "jokes and riddles," that I had heard the latest form of higher education. This afternoon the fifth grade of the above mentioned school was visited by a lady and gentleman. This gentleman drew from under his arm a large cardboard box in which, he stated, were contained many experiments showing the evil effects of alcohol.

After the children were moved about the room until they occupied positions from which they could better hear this enlightening lecture the professor started his experiments. He showed the children pieces of meat submerged in both alcohol and water; wax that had become useless because of the alcohol, grass, bread and candy. In the latter case a piece of bright red candy was used, as "it looked much prettier."

After these most entrancing bits of hocus-pocus had been viewed the professor waxed eloquent and told the story of a motorist who had partaken too freely of alcohol and while driving along a road thought he saw two warning signs [really there was only one], and in trying to pass between the two signs his car left the road and went into a river. Later, another man [this one sober] came along the same road and, seeing no sign at all, he too went off the road and took a dip. Moral: Wear a bathing suit when motoring.

The narrator then went into another bit of story telling, this time about a farmer who, upon selling his load of farm produce in town, immediately took on another load, whisky, and driving home was knocked off the wagon seat and the horses trotted on home unguided. The writer has heard this story with variations and in dialect and it was then much funnier.

After this came the recitation. "There was a little girl who had a little curl," etc., etc., and finally the great educator took his departure.

The reason for writing is this: The above took place at a time ordinarily devoted to arithmetic, a subject in which my son, so I am informed, could be more proficient. What I would like to know is this: Is the person who lectured the fifth grade pupils at Washington school today an employé of the Evanston school district and, if so, what percentage of the relief fund now being solicited will be used for the hire of this person and his kind? If the eminent scholar is not on the district pay roll, what organization so thoughtfully supplies this form of entertainment for our 10, 11, and 12 year old children?

READ THE EDITORIAL AGAIN.

Chicago, March 3.—The federal government finds and taxes the incomes from supposedly elusive personal property (ask Capone), but THE TRIBUNE discounts Mr. Jacobs' ability to find the source of these incomes. What is THE TRIBUNE trying to do now? Pave the way for Mr. Jacobs' failure? Is it preordained that Mr. Jacobs is to fail? Chicago is entitled to nothing less than a frank statement of all the facts in the tax crisis. Come on, TRIBUNE, out with it!

A. A. FAIR.

CUTTING GOVERNMENT COSTS.

Chicago, March 9.—There have appeared in the columns of THE TRIBUNE several dispatches from your Washington bureau to the effect that today Senator So and So—or Rep. This and That—has been successful in having restored to the budget items that the committee in charge of the budget, etc., had originally planned to eliminate, etc.

In THE TRIBUNE of March 9 there appeared, in a dispatch from Washington, a statement to the effect that Representative Bryns of Tennessee, chairman of the house finance committee, bewailed the lack of coöperation on the part of the various heads of bureaus, together with a lack of appreciation on the part of several members of congress, in the matter of the urgent necessity for trimming the federal budget.

Mr. Byns also related that of all the bureau heads only one had voluntarily come to him and offered to reduce the amount of funds desired! And who is this paragon? None other than Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau. How does Mr. Hines propose to reduce the expenses of his department? By reducing the salary or compensation of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines or the compensation of any other highly paid official of the veterans' bureau? Nay! Nay! Mr. Hines proposes to voluntarily reduce the compensation of disabled veterans and then qualifies the statement by adding "in some cases."

I have no doubt that this suggestion on the part of Mr. Hines will find favor with certain members of congress and that if the disabled veterans and the ex-service men in general are not alert it will be done.

In my opinion the place to start the restoration of prosperity is at the bottom. And also in my opinion the proper place to reduce the expense of the bureaus in general and the veterans' bureau in particular is at the top. To that effect may I suggest that the various veterans' organizations suggest to congress that the compensation or salary of the several high officials of the veterans' bureau be drastically reduced and in the case of Brig. Gen. Hines be eliminated altogether?

EX-SERVICE MAN.

SMOKING IN THE BUSES.

Chicago, March 9.—In THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of March 4 there appeared in your column an article regarding smoking in the buses of the Chicago Motor Coach company.

We have had this matter up with the officials of the company and have called their attention to the need of adequate ventilation in the buses in which smoking is permitted. The officials stated that they are at all times anxious to coöperate with the board of health in maintaining satisfactory air conditions in their buses, and that in the future they will be continually on the alert to accomplish this end.

HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,
President Board of Health.

A 50 PER CENT REDUCTION.

Chicago, March 9.—At these trying times would it not be well for the city of Chicago to accept a 50 per cent discount on real estate taxes as an inducement for all taxpayers to pay taxes, and all creditors of Chicago to accept a 50 per cent discount on all bills payable and start off on the right foot again? I am sure it would be an impetus to all.

U. S. READY FOR LAST RUSH TO FILE INCOME TAX

Deadline for '31 Returns Is Tomorrow.

The department of internal revenue, located on the fifth floor of the federal building, will remain open as long as necessary tonight to accomodate taxpayers who have not yet filed their returns, according to Gregory T. Van Meter, collector for the Chicago area. The deadline for filing the 1931 tax returns is tomorrow at midnight. Thereafter, taxpayers will be assessed a 12 per cent penalty on delinquent payments. Those failing to make any return at all will be penalized 25 per cent a year.

G. T. VAN METER.

"Although we have handled a normal number of returns so far," Mr. Van Meter said, "we are drawing employés from all departments to help in the usual last minute rush."

Deputies to Aid.

Deputies, he said, will be on duty in the lobby, the second floor, and in room 555. Others have been placed in 28 banks to help taxpayers make out correct returns. Two have been posted for that purpose in THE TRIBUNE public service office at 1 South Dearborn street. No charges are made for this aid.

"So far we have noticed a decided increase in the number of claims for stock losses and depreciation of property and real estate value," Mr. Van Meter remarked. "Exemption on income is the same as last year. Single persons with incomes of $1,500 or less are exempt from tax, as are married persons with incomes of $3,500 or less. An additional allowance of $400 is made for each dependant under 18 years of age.

May Deduct for Taxes.

"Deductions may be made from income for all taxes paid, including real estate, water, personal property, state and city automobile license, gasoline tax, and on stock of domestic corporations up to $10,000. Special assessments, however, such as levies for street paving, lighting, or any municipal improvements in which abutting owners pay part, are not deductible. On net incomes there is a tax of 1½ per cent on the first $4,000, 3 per cent on the second $4,000, and 5 per cent on the third $4,000. Corporations are assessed a flat 12 per cent on income."

TWO HELD AS SHOPLIFTERS.

James F. Kelly and Robert Luther Norman, both of 2210 Prairie avenue, were held yesterday on charges of shoplifting by Evanston police.

CARDOZO TAKES PLACE ON U. S. SUPREME COURT BENCH TODAY

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(AP)—Unlike the average man taking a new job, the latest member of the Supreme court, Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, will begin intensive work tomorrow almost immediately after taking the oath.

BENJ. CARDOZO.

There will be a brief interim while the court delivers opinions. After that is over, however, three suits are set for hearing in which Cardozo's opinion could easily be the deciding factor.

One suit is the claim that the Texas election law gives the Democratic party in the state authority to prevent Negroes from voting in party primaries.

Another is whether Georgia and other states may tax receipts from copyrights and whether the government may tax income from oil and gas leases on school lands in Oklahoma.

Cardozo will also participate in a decision on the packers' suit. It is whether a lower court had the power to modify the decree under which four big packing firms agreed to handle only meat and related products. The modification—if the highest court upholds it—will allow them to handle other foods as well.

The court, during its recess ending tomorrow, has been busy preparing opinions. It has 37 cases ready for decision.

Baby Pulls Pot of Soup Off Stove; Burns Fatal

Euthimus Maimonis, 14 month old son of Mrs. Chrissula Maimonis, 5556 Milwaukee avenue, died yesterday of scalds suffered on Wednesday. Sitting in a high chair near the kitchen stove at home, the youngster pulled a pot of boiling soup toward him and turned it over his legs. Pneumonia, which developed after the accident, was a complicating factor in his death.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Emily Emery, 86 years old, died of heart disease yesterday at the home of her son, Jack, 2334 East 70th place. She was the widow of Joshua Emery, former manager of the paper box department of Sprague, Warner & Co.

19-25 N. STATE ST. STORE OPEN 9:30 TO 6

THE SPRING EXPOSITION BEGINS TODAY!

Drawn for us in Paris by Erickson

All the blues for Spring appear in the backgrounds of our State Street windows.

Agnes fabric hats are the talk of the season.

The one pictured is of black and white striped fabric trimmed with black and red galalith.

Gray beige is the smart beige.

You see a great deal of flame color in Paris—these Spring evenings.

Lelong says daytime colors for Spring are either very dark or very bright.

The buffet-dinner gown is the newest version of the formal dress with jacket.

You're going to see more costume flowers.

We repeat . . . Fabric Hats are GOOD.

Fashion Right!

In a woman it's the ability to select perfect clothes down to the last accessory . . . in a store it's the same ability. In a woman it's intuition . . . in a store it's actually being in the know. Every hour . . . every moment we are just cable-length from our Paris organization which is always right on the scene. We bring out fashions for the few and fashions for the many. We predict important trends a season in advance . . . but do not forget them when they become the rage. This is what we mean by fashion-rightness . . . the most important job of the retail store today.

BUILDING TRADES START TODAY ON FIVE DAY WEEK

Short Hours, 20% Pay Cut Affect 100,000.

The first general five day work week for the Chicago construction industry will start this morning. Approximately 100,000 building trade workers are affected by the reduction in working hours from 44 to 40 and the average wage cut of 20 per cent.

The agreement, binding members of the Building Construction Employers' association and all except four of the building trades' unions, was officially placed in effect Friday morning. Under the new ruling Saturday was a holiday and this week will be the first entire one under the present code.

Three of the four unions which have not signed the agreement are expected to do so this week. They are the marble setters, mantel and tile setters, and the terrazzo mechanics. Technicalities in their international agreement have hindered the negotiations. The electricians negotiated a separate contract, providing wage reductions of 10 per cent for new work and 27 per cent for renovations, with the Electrical Contractors' association.

The exact wage scales for the unions which have signed the five hour day agreement are made public today. They are shown in the following table:

Trade—	Hourly scale.	Weekly scale, 40 hrs.
Architectural iron workers	$1.31¼	$52.50
Asbestos workers	1.37½	55.00
Bricklayers	1.37½	55.00
Bricklayers, fireproofing	1.37½	55.00
Caisson diggers	1.12½	45.00
Caisson, windlass men	.97½	39.00
Carpenters	1.31¼	52.50
Cement finishers	1.31¼	52.50
Composition floor finishers	1.31¼	52.50
Composition floor laborers	.88¾	35.50
Elevator constructors	1.35	54.00
Elevator construction helpers	1.00	40.00
Glaziers	1.42	56.80
Hoisting engineers	1.31¼	52.50
Laborers, common	.82½	33.00
Laborers, plasterers	.88¾	35.50
Lathers	1.37½	55.00
Machinery mover foremen	1.25	50.00
Machinery movers	1.17	46.80
Painters	1.40	56.00
Pile drivers	1.31¼	52.30
Plasterers	1.37½	55.00
Plumbers	1.37½	55.00
Roofers, composition	1.37½	55.00
Roofers, slate and tile	1.40	56.00
Roofers, slate and tile helpers	.89¼	35.70
Sheet metal workers	1.37½	55.00
Sprinkler fitters	1.37½	55.00
Sprinkler fitter helpers	.95⅝	38.25
Steamfitters	1.37½	55.00
Stonecarvers	1.40	56.00
Stonecutters	1.20	48.00
Stone derrickmen	1.06¼	42.50
Stone planermen	.94	37.60
Structural iron workers	1.35	54.00
Tuck pointers	1.37½	55.00

Under the terms of the agreement all unions accepting the new wage standard automatically accept the five day week. The agreement will be binding for one year. At the end of this time the unions will revert to the wage scale in effect at the time of the signing.

ASKS RETENTION OF TWO SLIPS FOR BARGE TERMINAL

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, announced yesterday that he will immediately notify the state department of purchases and construction of an action of the council which he considers important in the development of the lakes-gulf waterway.

The council has adopted a resolution requesting the state department and City Commissioner of Public Works Sprague not to issue permits for the filling in of two slips near the proposed barge terminal at Damen avenue. If the slips are filled in, according to Ald. Rowan, the proposed barge terminal will lose some of its effectiveness in the waterway transportation program.

An application had been made to the war department for permission to fill in the two slips. The war department held that it had no jurisdiction and referred the application to the state department of purchases and construction. It is hoped by Ald. Rowan that the council's action will be the means of retaining the slips as a part of the barge terminal's facilities.

INDIAN GOES ON TRIAL TODAY FOR CO-ED'S MURDER

Globe, Ariz., March 13.—(AP)—The life of Mac [Golney] Seymour, 21 year old White River Apache, will be demanded in court tomorrow by the United States government, seeking a forfeit for the slaying of Henrietta Schmerler, college co-ed.

The plea at the trial will hinge on the assertion that the Redman misunderstood the flirtations of a sophisticated college girl which involved him in a situation from which his primitive mind could find but one escape.

Miss Schmerler, whose attainments as a student won her a fellowship in anthropology at Columbia university a year ago, was killed on the White River Apache reservation last July 18.

Ends Stomach Torture at Once

Mrs. Elmert B. Hall of Chicago says: "I had suffered from indigestion for several days. Then tried ACIDINE. I took three doses, and, Presto, I was feeling fine."

"I suffered tortures with acid stomach for four years. During the past three weeks I have taken ACIDINE," says W. Wilcox, Pasadena, Cal. "Have had no trouble during this time. I have tried many medicines and all failed to help except ACIDINE."

"I suffered sour stomach for three months. Nothing would relieve me," says Mrs. M. Ambrogio, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Then I tried ACIDINE. It may seem impossible, but I can truly say I haven't had a sour stomach since."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

15 MORE BUILDINGS ARE CITED IN WAR TO END SMOKE EVIL

Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, will warn representatives of fifteen buildings today at a hearing in his office against violating the city's smoke abatement ordinance. Those named in summonses issued for appearance at the hearing are:

Chicago Metallic Manufacturing company, 3711 South Ashland avenue.
McKey & Poague, 5246 Cornell avenue.
J. P. Niles, 1603 East 53d street.
Illinois Central railroad station, 1538 East 53d street.
Holland hotel, 1526 East 53d street.
One East Oak Street hotel.
Griffiths laboratories, 1415 West 37th street.
Volunteers of America, 2841 Washington boulevard.
Mutual Box corporation, 1500 Harrison street.
National Meter company, 1455 Congress street.
Cook County Juvenile home, 2250 Roosevelt road.
Boston Store Service station, 23d and Federal streets.
Aetna Auto Parts company, 2213 Federal street.
Hotel Lexington, 2135 South Michigan avenue.
Swan, Lorish & Caspers, Inc., 1526 East 65th street.

Deputy smoke inspectors compile lists of buildings from the stacks of which they have noticed dense smoke coming. The representatives of the buildings are warned to correct furnace defects that cause the smoke.

COPS SCOOPED BY REPORTER IN THEIR OWN JAIL

John Perry's conscience goaded him last night and he walked into the detective bureau determined to settle an obligation with society. He confronted a group of detectives.

"I want to be arrested," he announced. They merely grinned and motioned him away. Perry approached a sergeant and repeated his announcement, but with the same success. Finally he addressed another man.

"Arrest me," he pleaded.

"That's out of my line," informed the man, somewhat surprised, "but I'll oblige."

He guided his voluntary prisoner to Clarence Hayden, secretary to Chief of Detective Schoemaker, and Hayden made the arrest formal. Perry, who is 37 years old, and an electrician part time employed by the Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 Michigan avenue, said he had passed a bogus check for $30 recently, that he wanted to give up, and square his social debt. He had served time at Leavenworth and Joliet, he added, and feared that unless he checked himself now, he would eventually resort to the gun.

His story was verified in police records. The policemen who refused to make the voluntary arrest grinned in chagrin. The man who made the arrest grinned too, but not in chagrin. He was a newspaper reporter.

SECOND FIRE HITS BUILDING.

Fire believed to have started from an overheated salamande used to dry plaster caused damage estimated at $100 yesterday in the basement of the six story building at 167 West Lake street, occupied by Pellas & Alex, restaurant outfitters.

BOYS LEFT ALONE TOY WITH PISTOL; ONE NEAR DEATH

Edwin Petencin, 14 years old, and his brother, Leonard, 6, were left alone in their home at 3411 North Lowell avenue Saturday night when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Petencin, went to Fox Lake for the week-end.

Edwin was given charge of the household and, of course, of Leonard. At the accustomed hour he saw that his brother retired. He, too, retired, but before doing so he concealed a revolver belonging to his father beneath his pillow "just for protection."

The brothers arose on time yesterday. Edwin went to the corner, returned with the Sunday paper, and read the jokes to Leonard. Then he suddenly remembered the revolver under his pillow. He got it. But Leonard saw the weapon. To appease him, Edwin held it out for inspection. Suddenly the revolver was discharged. The bullet struck Leonard in the left side beneath the heart

Missouri Political Leader Is Feared to Be Drowned

Versailles, Mo., March 13.—(AP)—Dr. A. W. Nelson, 56, Democratic candidate for governor of Missouri in 1924 and prominent central Missouri political leader, was believed to have been drowned and his son-in-law, W. D. Semple, 31, Cooper county prosecutor, died of exposure after being rescued from an overturned motorboat in which the two men had been fishing in the Lake of the Ozarks this afternoon.

VIOLET RAYS FOUND AID IN TRACING MONEY

A method by which police may use the ultra-violet ray, similar to that generated by "sun bath" machines, was pointed out yesterday by Charles M. Wilson of the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory.

The rays, invisible to the human eye, may be used to detect secret markings on money. Currency, untraceable by ordinary methods when the precautions demanded by kidnapers in payment of ransom are complied with, may be marked with ordinary petroleum jelly.

The marks become invisible in ordinary light as soon as the oil has dried, but as soon as the marked currency is placed under an ultra-violet ray, the markings glow like a light. The ultra-violet ray machine, Mr. Wilson pointed out, is already in use to detect counterfeit money, forgeries, spurious painting attributed to old masters and paste jewelry.

Feel Old At 40?

Getting Up Nights, Backache, Leg Pains, Loss of Energy, Often Due to Kidney Acidity.

There are few things that sap your energy more, and make you look and feel years older, than functional Kidney inactivity and excess Acidity. These are also often the causes of other troublesome and worrisome complaints such as miserable Backache, Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Sore Joints, Circles Under Eyes, Headaches, Muddy Complexion, Burning, Smarting, and Bladder Weakness.

To combat these conditions you really need two different kinds of medicine, because you need two results in fighting these troubles. First, you need a medicine to act as a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, to help them in their function of filtering and purifying the blood, thus reducing acidity. Second you need another medicine to soothe and heal irritation and give nature a chance.

These two special kinds of medicine, known as Cystex, now may be had from your druggist under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. They are in tasteless tablet form, easy to take, and pleasant to young or old, yet work so fast they start circulating thru the system in 11 minutes. Sufferers say they begin to feel marked improvement in 24 hours.

Your own druggist—the man you know is reliable—can tell you that these are established facts, and that Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) is a splendid medicine, containing purest ingredients, which have proved a blessing to many of his customers.

This much is certain: If Cystex makes you feel years younger and stronger by combating these conditions, the small cost of 75c is a trifle, but if not completely satisfied, merely return the empty package and get your money back. Why suffer from delay and neglect? The Guarantee protects you. Get Cystex from your druggist today.

● There's only one thing that will chase a morning grouch quicker than a warm shower. And that's a cold one. With a Chesterfield to follow. And even if you're rushed . . . there's time to appreciate Chesterfield's better taste.

● One man likes his coffee weak. Another likes it strong. But it's dollars to doughnuts both want mild cigarettes. And that means Chesterfields. They get you started on the right foot. They're good anywhere. Anytime.

● And later . . . in the office when the phones begin to buzz and the big boss begins to shout . . . put Chesterfield on the job. It starts out cool . . . stays cool . . . and keeps you cool in a hot spot till the final whistle blows.

● It's going to be a big evening. So change your clothes and step out. And don't forget your Chesterfields. You'll need them. And if it's mixed company you'll want to take an extra pack. Their purity is their password . . . wherever people are particular.

● Chesterfield has never failed to make its contract. It bids a grand slam for mildness and better taste . . . and comes through with all the honors every time . . . Because every shred of Chesterfield leaf is carefully selected . . . and by men who "know."

● One more Chesterfield and you can call it a day. And notice . . . the last one tastes just as good as the first. That's no accident. That's the sum and substance of Chesterfield's popularity . . . told in two words . . . "They Satisfy."

IRISH PLANNING GAY OBSERVANCE OF ST. PATRICK'S

Secretary Hurley to Speak Here March 17.

In churches, banquet halls, ballrooms, and elsewhere, Chicagoans of Irish birth and extraction will celebrate St. Patrick's day next Thursday. The morning observances will be fundamentally religious, broadening out by night into festive gaiety.

Thousands of real shamrocks, imported from Ireland, will be available. One batch of 50,000 will be distributed by the United Celtic Societies of Chicago at the annual Celtic ball at White City Thursday night. A guest of honor at this dance will be Patrick J. Nolan, dean of the Dublin council.

Service at St. Patrick's.

The outstanding religious celebration will be at St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets, at 10:30 a. m. The Rev. William J. McNamee, pastor, will say mass. The Very Rev. Francis V. Corcoran, president of De Paul university, will preach. Extra cars will operate on the surface lines to handle the crowds.

An outstanding observance will be the Irish Fellowship club's banquet in the ballroom of the Palmer house. Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, and United States Senator Otis F. Glenn will be the speakers. Joseph P. Savage, club president, will preside.

Hibernians to Celebrate.

At the same time, the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Chicago, founded here in 1845, will hold its annual celebration at the Great Northern hotel. Probably the largest night celebration will be the White City dance, which is expected to attract 15,000.

Other affairs include the meeting of Edison post, American Legion, in the Edison lunchroom at 8 p. m., at which members, Irish or not, will wear green neckties and shamrocks, and the annual informal reception of the Associated Clubs of St. Henry's church, Devon and Hoyne avenues, at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

DECLARES U. S. HIDES 'GREWSOME WAR PICTURES'

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(AP)—The war department was critized in a statement today by George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, for refusing to release for publication pictures depicting the grewsome results of war.

Putnam quoted Maj. Gen. Irving J. Carr, chief of the signal corps, as saying readers may see the photographic records of the "pretty" side of war but not the horrible aspects because that would be against public policy.

The publisher said in his statement he thought the pictures should be available "to any reputable citizen ready to pay the routine fee for their use" and that it "seems unsound that the army should decide what war photographs a publisher may use."

SKY HARBOR CLUB ORGANIZED TO CUT EXPENSE OF FLYING

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, former world's altitude record holder, now manager of Sky Harbor, yesterday announced the formation of the Sky Harbor Flying club. The organization plans to have 500 members and own a fleet of 20 planes, ranging in size from light, open ships to large, cabin craft. Maj. Schroeder will be president. He is a member of the Chicago Aero commission.

The membership of the club will be composed of persons learning to fly as well as those who have pilots' licenses, Maj. Schroeder said. With a large membership, the club expects to cut to a minimum the cost of flying for the sportsmen pilots and students.

Pilots who own their own planes and wish to join the club will be given 10 per cent discount on all service, and the membership fee also will be reduced for them, Maj. Schroeder said. Headquarters of the club will be at Sky Harbor, in Northbrook. The downtown offices will be in the Merchandise Mart.

"The purpose of the club is to bring flying within the means of the average person," Maj. Schroeder said. "I think that can be accomplished. The club is incorporated, for a profit, and will assure the members of a stable, responsible organization. We are starting with three planes, and will increase that number as the membership grows."

DR. STONE HAILS THE MERGER OF TWO SEMINARIES

The recent merger of the Lane Theological seminary of Cincinnati with the Presbyterian Theological seminary of Chicago has strengthened materially Chicago's position as a leading center for the training of the clergy, Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Chicago seminary declared yesterday. Lane seminary is located at Cincinnati.

Following a decision of the Ohio Court of Appeals, which permitted Lane's assets to become the property of the combined institution, the merger was completed on March 1. The agreement between the two schools was made a year ago. The consolidated institution will take the name of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, which is situated at Belden avenue and Halsted street and now has the largest enrollment of the denomination's schools.

Dr. Stone said that a new building, Alumni hall, will be erected within the next two years to provide room for the increased number of students that will result from the merger. There is no immediate plan, he said, for the disposal of Lane seminary, but Lane's library of 30,000 volumes will be transferred to Chicago.

KILLED BY KNIFE WOUNDS.

William P. Corston, 44 years old, 2122 North California avenue, a truck driver, died yesterday in the county hospital of knife wounds he suffered on March 9. He was found in a lot at 2521 Fulton avenue unconscious and was unable to give a statement to the police, who believe he was a robbery victim.

10,000 WORKERS TO OPEN DRIVE FOR MORE JOBS

Legion Campaign Starts Tomorrow.

Ward by ward and block by block an army of 10,000 men and women will search Chicago, beginning tomorrow, for idle assets that may be used in the campaign to reemploy men and money. Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, is chairman of the drive, which has established headquarters at 10 South La Salle street, with the Illinois Joint Emergency Relief.

In a final meeting yesterday to complete plans and to map routes, the triple purpose of the drive was emphasized for the workers, who are drawn from the Cook county council of the American Legion, principal sponsor, the Chicago Association of Commerce and forty affiliated chambers, the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Chicago Federation of Woman's clubs, the Chicago Advertising council, Western Society of Engineers, and the Chicago Building Construction Employers association.

While the chief aim of the campaign is to find employment, temporary or permanent, for the thousands out of work, appeals will also be made to property and home owners to pledge repairs of their buildings, and to the employed, to pledge themselves to make purchases to the extent of their financial ability, thus putting funds in circulation again.

This plan for improving the general conditions in the city has been used in a number of communities by the American Legion, which is promoting a national employment stimulation movement. It is the one most successful elsewhere.

Oscar W. Rosenthal of the National Association of Building Trades and Employers, told a gathering of volunteer canvassers that, "This is not merely a job finding project. Jobs mean purchasing power, and purchasing power will put business back on its keel. Money earned by the men thus put to work will go back into the stores."

FILIPINO RADICAL GROUP PROPOSES BOYCOTT OF U. S.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, March 13.—A further massmeeting of radicals and malcontents for the purpose of protesting the action of the Philippine mission to Washington and to attack the present proposals was held today and culminated in the formal threat of a boycott in a cable directed to President Hoover.

The Philippine Civil union resolved to demand for the last time "prompt fulfillment of the promise of independence as embodied in the Jones law before we take the bitter step of boycotting American imperialist products and businesses," said the message.

The large producing and merchandising interests of the Philippines are not represented in this union and therefore the talk of boycott does not imply probable action.

Meanwhile Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, is undertaking a series of conferences with responsible leaders, chiefly those interested in Philippine sugar, for the purpose of discussing the limitation aspects of pending legislation, proposing that a suitable limitation would be 20 per cent of American consumption.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation—you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them, 15c, 30c, 60c.

What does Supercharged power feel like?

—THOUSANDS ARE ASKING THIS OF THE NEW SUPERCHARGED AIRMAN

Try it

IF you have driven a fast speed boat—or a racing car—or the modern airplane—or a custom-engineered motor car—then you know what supercharged power feels like. If not, you have an exciting new thrill coming to you when you drive the new Supercharged Airman. Try it.

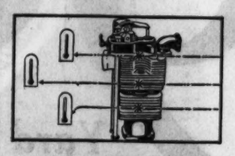
The sensational Franklin Supercharger packs the ingoing charge of gas into each cylinder equally—and in maximum quantity. In other automobile engines gas is sucked in only. In the Franklin airplane engine it is forced in under pressure. No more starved cylinders. No more gasping acceleration. No more lumpy performance. Now the smoothness of turbine power, a dashing pick-up possible only with supercharging, and a new conception of engine economy.

Even without the Supercharger, the new Airman would still be the engineering sensation of the year. The Franklin airplane engine combined with spot-controlled temperature and pressure air-cooling presents the most progressive power plant known to engineers.

We know you will be enthusiastic about the new Supercharged Airman. We know also that you will say there is no performance comparable to Airman performance. Again we invite you to try it.

SUPERCHARGER

By forcing in the gas the supercharger smooths out and evens up a responsive flow of extra power. The effect is especially noticeable in acceleration and hill climbing.



SPOT-CONTROLLING

Each spot on each cylinder is the same temperature as the corresponding spot on all other cylinders, possible only with air-cooling and resulting in maximum power.

City Churches Made Beautiful by Memorials

Many Gifts in Honor of Chicagoans.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"All who enter here may find that peace which the world can neither give nor take away."

DID you ever borrow a few minutes from a busy weekday to meditate in one of our city's houses of worship? Right now, in the midst of the Lenten season, we are in the churchgoing mood, but any day or month, it is good for the soul.

This short prayer I found the other day inscribed on a memorial in one of the north shore's fine churches. It seems to express so completely the reason we rear these handsome edifices—that we provide them with windows of stained glass, and altars of incomparable beauty.

Most of these appointments are memorials—many among the finest to be found on this continent. I will tell you of some of those in our Episcopal churches for I visited several after seeing the charred memorials and relics that were removed fro.. Grace Episcopal church when its former home on South Wabash avenue burned 17 years ago. Recently these pieces were discovered in the vaults at Spaulding Gorham's and shown to Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, for most of them are memorials to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, who were members of the south side congregation for years.

Pieces Can Be Restored.

"They are not harmed in any way," said one of the heads of the jewelry shop as he produced a sooty black font cover. "All of the pieces—the two prayer desks valued at $1,000, the pitchers and vases—all except the marble font bowl are of brass and can be easily restored."

It is expected that the altar pieces will be placed again in the new Grace church on Indiana avenue where the gallery is a memorial to Mrs. Hibbard.

On the north side of town the church memorials range from the impressively simple. St. Andrew's chapel adjoining St. James' church to the elaborate 35 foot reredos in St. Luke's, Evanston. St. Andrew's marks the exact spot where the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was organized and was given by James L. Houghteling in memory of his father, founder of the brotherhood.

"To the greater glory of Almighty God and in loving memory of William P. Gunthorp" is the inscription on the great reredos. [Noah Webster defines the term as the screen or partition behind the altar.]

I spent some time in the Evanston church. It is a noble example of 14th century English Gothic architecture of that Cistercian abbey style so familiar to visitors to Fountains, Ripon, Tintern and other of the great English abbeys. Entering the west porch you find yourself taking in the whole church at a glance. In the distance is the reredos in all of its carven loveliness, the tone of the sandstone used being distinguishably softer than that of the limestone in the walls. In front stands the altar, a solid monolith [ten tons] of marble, a memorial to the first rector of St. Luke's.

Color Effects Beautiful.

Above the reredos is the great east window setting forth in gorgeous coloring the Revelation of St. John the Divine. From the west end the details are indistinguishable, but the color effects suggest the beauty of the windows in Chartres, or Laon, or Sainte Chappelle in Paris. Between you and this east window hangs the great rood with the Calvary group executed by Kirchmeyer, perhaps the greatest of all woodcarvers since the middle ages.

"But the great cross obstructs the view," I objected to an attendant.

"That is the intention," he replied seriously. "The Cross of Jesus Christ is obtrusive. It is central to Christianity and hangs at the crossing."

A word about the font before leaving St. Luke's. It is a lovely piece raised upon a marble base in the center of the baptistry—a memorial to Charles Francis Marlowe. The font, you know, marks the initial rite whereby one is christened or "Christianed" and becomes a member of the church by being "born again of water and of the spirit." It is octagonal in shape, since in church symbolism the figure eight [two times four] means new life. Four is the mystical number of man—three is the mystical number of God.

Beautiful Altar at St. Chrysostom's.

Back in town at St. Chrysostom's, there is the beautiful and elaborate altar dedicated to the memory of Capt. Henry Blair Keep. It is a unique work of art, entirely hand carved. The table proper and the canopy are, architecturally, in Gothic. The reredos is a triptych with the Crucifixion for the subject of the central panel. Even more interesting, perhaps, is the chalice veil made of lace from Mrs. Keep's mother's wedding veil, a part of the memorial to Capt. Keep.

Of the altar pieces in Chicago, the city takes great pride in the Jenny Lind chalice and paten treasured by St. Ansgarius' Swedish church. Eighty years ago when the famed Swedish Nightingale was in Chicago she presented the pieces to the church.

The chalice is of silver with the Last Supper engraved around the cup. The foot is the tree of life with its roots in the ground and a serpent twined about symbolizing the devil whose power was crushed by Christ through his death and resurrection. It is used—only on the most solemn occasions.

Paris Gives Black Organdy Satin Sheen for Formal Evening Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Evening fashions are bright and shining this spring. Fabrics that have a satin sheen are stylish for formal evening wear. Paris is not content to make dresses and wraps of familiar satins in order to achieve this effect, smart as it is. All sorts of strange materials have taken on a satin like luster and are thus made appropriate for the chic evening dress.

Organdy, which has been treated to a new kind of lacquer, comes into the foreground for evening dresses, and chiffon, too, now boasts a satin sheen. Black, satin surfaced organdy, girls, is about the most ravishing fabric in the world for the summer evening dress, and it is this material that makes the frock shown in our sketch.

As you can see, this material is cut and draped exactly as if it actually were satin, and it gains distinction by this device. The tricky decollete of this Bruyere dress is quite as effective in satin surfaced organdy as it would be in the real thing. The crossed, pointed ends of the front bodice are hitched to the straight, high back bodice on the shoulders, and the sides of the front bodice cross at the back of the waistline and become a sash with a bow at the left side.

The skirt has a circular godet from a triangular yoke in front, and is shirred from the waistline in back.

New Fashions for Women Force Hotels to Enlarge Closets

Because the ladies are wearing 'em longer and wider, and more numerous than in several years, feminine skirts are going to cost hotels of the country in excess of a million dollars in the next few years for remodeling of closet space to accommodate their demands. The theory belongs to A. G. Pulver, manager of the Hotel Sherry, who advanced it yesterday at a meeting of hotel owners.

Already, he declared, hooks and hangers have been elevated to conform to the longer dresses, and shelves have been ripped out and raised in hundreds of rooms.

In the days of the knee length skirt and the sixteen ounce ensemble of not so long ago, he added, minimum closet space was all that was required for the baggage of the woman traveler. Now she arrives not with a single overnight bag for a brief stay, but with several bags and frequently a trunk of generous proportions, which when opened claims a large share of the available space in guest rooms.

To accommodate all her trappings and the additional baggage required for the multiplied accessories now carried, closets are being remodeled daily to larger scale and will continue to be expanded while present modes rule the feminine world.

Fashion Shows Give Welcome to Springtime

Visits to Stores and Shops Urged by Expert.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SPRING is officially here, at least in the shops, where all is restrained but fermenting excitement. All is in readiness—the new spring clothes have been unpacked, the mannequins have rehearsed—every smart Chicago shop invites you to be their guest at the first formal spring fashion shows. This is the time to see the new models, the new colors, new fabrics, and, newest of all, the spring silhouette, which is by far the most feminine, the most charming, and the most becoming that fashionable women and designers have ever devised.

If you are tall and slender you can watch for models with a similar build and see what and how they assemble their clothes and accessories, what colors accentuate, what shades contrast and what styles are especially your kind of styles. If you are short and not slender you will be able to see how cleverly the designers solve the problems of making clothes for just such short and merry persons. If you are not either thick or thin, nor tall or short, you can choose from a great assortment of flattering fashions that will be the very clothes you have dreamed about.

Correct Clothes to Be Shown.

These fashion shows are as fascinating as they are interesting and educational. Many of them display the original models that created such a furor during the most recent showings in Paris. Many of the dresses that you have seen illustrated in fashion news will be modeled while you watch. During the same showing you will see countless American adaptations, smarter than the originals, in many cases, and always infinitely more wearable for American women.

You will see correct foundation garments that will achieve the sleek unbroken line so necessary for these clinging clothes of 1932. You will see lovely lingerie, cleverly cut on the bias, closely fitted to the figure, all especially designed to wear under the new clothes, and so made that the smallest bulge will be smoothly eliminated.

You will see what the well dressed woman wears for town and country, what to wear for active or spectator sports events, what to wear for afternoon and evening and just how few smart but well chosen things go into traveling baggage this year.

New Coats Will Be Modeled.

New coats with or without fur will be modeled with the properly matching or contrasting accessories—spring suits, spring dresses and frocks, ensembles for street, as well as innumerable lovely things for afternoon and evening wear. These shows will engage your attention and help you assemble a wardrobe, with every detail perfect.

Are you curious about the newest colors well dressed women will wear this spring? These fashion parades will leave no doubt in your mind as to the supremacy of blue as a first favorite. All shades and tones of blue will be shown, as well as brown, beige, and black.

Complete and correct costumes will be assembled for you—costumes in every color, with the right gloves, hat, handbag, hose, and shoes—costumes that you can wear anywhere and everywhere.

Wardrobes have been planned and will be shown for every clothes allowance, whether it be a small and very modest sum or the rarer, larger amount that needs the same expert suggestions that is accorded the lesser.

Paderewski Proves Advancing Years Are Nothing to His Art

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Advancing years mean nothing in the spirit or progress of that great man of the piano, Ignace Jan Paderewski. When he appears on the stage he becomes an event.

From several points of view it was comforting to be inside the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon. Paderewski and his piano were, if not exactly on the stage, at least on a platform built over the orchestra pit to bring them into closer contact with the audience, and the audience surged into every seat in the house, leaving a clamorous fringe on the outside who came too late to buy tickets. Here was a great musician and a great audience, and in times of financial depression, too.

If some of the principles of stage management, the hushed, darkened house, the belated, stately arrival on the stage, the rise of the audience to its feet, are part of the famous Pole's unfailing success, no one ought to carp. For Paderewski is a towering personality and forever impressive, at the keyboard or away from it.

When he plays, it is with the grand manner. He has an extraordinary ability in impressing the belief upon his hearers that an interpretation is the only correct and logical one because he has done it that way. In cold blood and away from the theater one may venture to disbelieve this, but not at close range and under his dynamic spell.

So the Bach-Liszt Prelude and Fugue in A minor, the Liszt Sonata in B minor, event the Mozart Sonata in A—he is the only one who plays this without tinkling it—were gorgeous and impressive and magnificent as they seldom become. After a rest there came the Schubert Impromptu in B flat and a long group of Chopin, these and many encores. It was piano playing in terms of vast and spacious drama. You may perhaps at one time or another hear a more brilliant technician than this statesman-philosopher-pianist. You will probably never hear a weightier or more commanding personality.

Paderewski's first part consumed too much time to make it possible to hear the singing of Marion Schroeder Booras, soprano, at the Playhouse on the other side of the loop. The little theater was reached, however, in time to hear Sidney Silber, pianist; Sol Nemkovsky, violinist, and Frank Sykora, cellist, give an exhilarating performance of a trio by Charles Wakefield Cadman. The piece is full of stirring melodies, and the three artists played with excellent tone and much spirit.

Among the other scheduled musical events of the day were a song recital by Maria Parissi, soprano, assisted by Andrea De Parry, at Lyon & Healy hall; another song recital by Edouard Dufresne, baritone, at Kimball Recital hall; and a chamber music program by the Joseffer String quartet at the Cordon club.

Rev. G. A. Papperman Is Named Pastor of Irving Park Church

The Rev. Gustav A. Papperman, D. D., formerly pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church at Decatur, has accepted a call to the Irving Park Presbyterian church here, and has already arrived in Chicago with Mrs. Papperman. Installation services will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in charge of the presbytery of Chicago, with the Rev. W. Clyde Howard presiding.

Dr. Papperman has served as a trustee of the synod of Illinois, and is now a trustee of the James Millikin university at Decatur. For four years he preached in the auditorium of the university while the Westminster church was being erected at a cost of $200,000. He has also held pastorates in Lockport, N. Y., and Winchester, Ind., and was executive secretary of the Buffalo presbytery. He is a graduate of Delaware university, attended Princeton, and was graduated from the Presbyterian Seminary of Chicago with the degree of B. D. Wabash college conferred the degree of D. D.

Reproduce Rooms Used by Lincoln for World's Fair

Reproductions of buildings and rooms which played a prominent part in the life of Abraham Lincoln, from the humble log cabin at Hodgenville, Ky., which is preserved as his birthplace, to several rooms in the White House, will be one of the attractions at the 1933 World's Fair. The fair administration announced yesterday that it has given the Congress Construction company, headed by Lawrence Heyworth, permission to erect a Lincoln group adjoining the Fort Dearborn reproduction. The reproductions of the White House rooms and rooms of the Lincoln home at Springfield will be housed in a replica of the old Wigwam at Lake and Market streets, where Lincoln was nominated in 1860.

Vatican Confirms Reports of an Early Consistory

[Copyright; 1932; By the New York Times.]

ROME, March 13.—A consistory for the creation of cardinals will be held in the near future, it is now confirmed at the Vatican. Among those regarded as certain to receive the red hat is Msgr. Pietro Fumasino-Biondi, the apostolic delegate in Washington. According to a report circulating in Vatican circles, an important mission will be entrusted to him, immediately after he is elevated to the cardinalate, and he will be appointed papal legate to the Eucharistic congress.

Engagement of Ann Ashcraft to Raymond O. Mitchell Told

Third Announcement of Exciting and Romantic Week-End in Society Circles.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN M. ASHCRAFT of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann, to Raymond Otis Mitchell of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond Mitchell of Minneapolis.

The above interesting news, which was revealed yesterday to friends of Miss Ashcraft and her fiancé, is the third romantic announcement concerning last year's debutantes to come to light over the week-end. It reached this desk immediately after the exciting announcement of Caroline Smith's impromptu wedding to George S. Chappell Jr., and Jane Martin's engagement to John B. Wing.

Miss Ashcraft was graduated from Farmington in 1930 and made her debut in the fall of the same year. Among other affairs given for her during her debut season was a New Year's ball at the Blackstone, which was one of the prettiest and gayest of that winter's parties. She is a popular member of the Junior league and the Service club.

Mr. Mitchell prepared at Taft and was graduated from Yale in 1928 and from the University of Chicago law school in 1931. No plans have been made for the wedding.

Martin-Wing Engagement.

Jane Martin's engagement to John B. Wing, son of Luman B. Wing Jr. of Evanston, was announced on Saturday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Martin of Highland Park. Miss Martin, like Miss Ashcraft, was a bud of the season of 1930-'31, and made her bow at a garden tea at her parents' residence. She is a graduate of Rosemary Hall at Greenwich, Conn., and of the Finch school in New York City. She is affiliated with the Junior league and the Service club. Mr. Wing attended the Asheville school.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyell H. Ritchie gave a small tea yesterday afternoon at their apartment at 179 East Chestnut street for Mrs. Ritchie's brother, A. Mackay Stoddard, and his bride, the former Katharine Campbell Godard of Swampscott, Mass. Mrs. Stoddard is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Campbell of Chicago. The Stoddards are residing at the Ambassador until they find a residence of their own.

The official program for Paul Claudel, the French ambassador, on his visit to Chicago this week includes flying visits to most of Chicago's high points of interest between business and social engagements. He is to arrive by plane with Patrick Hurley, secretary of war, on Thursday, and will spend most of the day planning the French exhibition at Chicago's World's Fair of 1933. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes will give a dinner for the ambassador and Mr. Hurley in the Administration building of the fair.

On Friday morning M. Claudel will visit the Board of Trade before attending a luncheon to be given by Robert Hall McCormick. In the afternoon he will call on Mayor Cermak and Cardinal Mundelein, and make trips to the Art institute, the Field museum, the Oriental institute, and the universities. On Friday evening there will be the large dinner and reception at the Palmer house with the 13 French societies as hosts. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey will give a dinner for the ambassador at their residence at 1507 North State parkway.

Gordon Kelleys Are in Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kelley [Hortense Henry], who have been in Florida since their marriage in January, are now at the Hotel National in Cuba and are not expected to return to Chicago until mid-April. They plan to go back to Florida for a few weeks more and then go to New York before opening the house they have leased for the summer in Lake Forest.

The Friends of China announce a lecture by Berthold Laufer on "Paper and Printing in Ancient China" on Wednesday, March 23, at 4 o'clock at the Newberry library. The meeting will be held in the exhibition room on the second floor, where a selection from the Chinese books belonging to the library will be shown.

Mrs. Henry Hooper has gone to Aiken to be the guest of Mrs. Robert R. McCormick for about 10 days.

News Items from Florida.

News of Chicagoans from Florida: Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard and Mrs. Joseph B. Long were judges at the annual costume ball held last week at the Everglades club. . . Mrs. Chadwick, whose house, Villa Today, is the object of rhapsodic comments by lovers of modern architecture, invited the Romany chorus last Thursday evening to pitch their gypsy tents, build their camp fires and hold the wedding ceremony of two Romanies on her west terrace in the presence of a few friends of the Chadwicks. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Henry were hosts at a colonial costume dinner party last week at which the guests included the Henry C. Bartholomays, the John Eliot Warners, and the Frank Ketchams of Winnetka. . . . The Windsors have a new yacht and are planning a fishing cruise among the keys. . . . The Cyrus Hall McCormicks, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Hubbard, have gone to visit John D. Rockefeller at his Ormond Beach residence. . . . The Kenneth Smiths have returned to their villa at Palm Beach after a ten day cruise in their yacht, Kencora II.

Mrs. Henry K. Chapin and her son, Charles, who is a student at the University of Chicago, are planning to leave next Thursday for a motor trip to Washington during young Mr. Chapin's spring vacation from his studies. The junior H. K. Chapins have moved recently from 401 Fullerton parkway to 2600 Lake View avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland have returned from a brief visit to the John Bordens at their Mississippi plantation and the A. Watson Armours, who also have been visiting the Bordens, are expected home this week.

Miss Jessica Hambleton, daughter of the Chalkley J. Hambletons, is spending the early spring on a ranch near Tucson, Ariz. She will return about the middle of next month.

Mrs. Paul Butler, Mother Leave.

Mrs. Paul Butler and her mother, Countess Filipponi, have left for Los Angeles to spend two months with Mrs. Butler's grandmother, Mrs. John W. Ford. Some of the Butlers' polo ponies have been shipped west so that Mrs. Butler may enter the women's polo matches there.

Additional boxholders for Maurice Hindus' lecture on Russia on Wednesday evening at Orchestra hall, under the auspices of the League of Women Voters, include Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. John V. Farwell, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs.

Mrs. Philip Miller [Florence Lowden], Mrs. Frank R. McCulloch, and Mrs. George R. Wilson are members of a special committee of the Chicago Woman's club arranging for a dinner on Thursday evening at which Dr. Moises Saenz of Mexico will speak on "Social Trends in the Andean Countries." The dinner is being given by the national and international affairs committee of the Chicago Woman's club in collaboration with the Chicago committee on cultural relations with Latin America.

National President of Business Women Guest in Chicago

Mrs. Geline McDonald Bowman of Richmond, Va., national president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women, was the guest of honor yesterday of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago at a tea at the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Delegations of members from Gary, Champaign, and various other centers in Illinois and Indiana attended the tea, which was held in connection with the observance of national business women's week, although the official program closed a day earlier.

Mrs. Bowman, who was accompanied by Miss Emily Kneubuhl of New York, executive secretary of the national organization, is on a three weeks tour of the central west. Her association with both men and women prominent in business in the cities already visited, she told the 200 members present yesterday, has revealed a surprisingly optimistic attitude toward the future. She has also noted considerable interest in the forthcoming Century of Progress, in which the federation will participate as one of the member groups of the National Council of Women.

Miss Elizabeth Eckert, president of the Chicago Alliance, received with the national officers at the tea.

Agate Club Luncheon.

The Agate club, the oldest advertising club in America, will hold a luncheon meeting today at the Medinah Athletic club.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—The secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills have with them for the week-end the latter's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell Jr. of New York, and Philip S. Fell, younger son of Mrs. Mills, who returned last week from a visit to her grandfather, P. S. P. Randolph at Pinehurst. Miss Dorothy Fell joined her mother today after a visit at Aiken.

Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley were guests of honor at dinner last evening of Maj. Gen. James E. Feehet, U. S. A., and Mrs. Fechet. Secretary Hurley will go to Chicago Wednesday to attend the banquet of the Irish Fellowship club there.

Senator and Mrs. James Couzens of Michigan were hosts at dinner last evening in honor of the French ambassador and Mme. Claudel.

Senator and Mrs. Edward P. Costigan of Colorado were entertained at dinner last evening by Representative and Mrs. Guy U. Hardy of Colorado.

Andrew W. Mellon, newly appointed ambassador to London and former secretary of the treasury, is again in his apartment, 1785 Massachusetts avenue, after several weeks in the south. Mr. Mellon's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, who were with him in the south, are in their home in New York and will come to Washington for a visit this week.

Dr. A. M. Brodie was joined yesterday at the Mayflower by Mrs. Brodie, who spent last week in Chicago en route from California, where she and Mr. Brodie have been for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Parsons, who spent a month at the Mayflower, are now in their Chicago home. Mr. Parsons will come to Washington again this week to continue his work in connection with his plans for the enlargement of the capitol grounds and the architecture of the new conservatory for the Botanic garden which the government is building.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French, now at Tuxedo Park, will sail for Europe on April 22.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Shelby Carter returned today from an extended trip through Cuba and Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Gwynne have left for Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Booth and Miss Frances Booth returned today from the West Indies.

Mrs. Albert Waycott has left for Pasadena, Cal.

Mrs. Edward A. Deeds has returned from Havana.

Will James to Get 3-Way Play in Films

Helps Direct His Stories, Rents Ranch.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 13.—Will James, cowboy writer and artist, has signed a contract with Paramount which plunges James into the movies in a triple capacity. Not only is the studio buying rights to film all eight of James' books about the west, but James himself becomes a technical and literary assistant in the transferring of his stories to the talking screen. In addition, like a good bargainer, James figured that the film company would need some place outdoors to shoot his stories and drove a bargain to have Paramount send its company to his 15,000 acre ranch fifty miles south of Billings, Mont., where James will have his own cow hands, Indians, ranch buildings, mountains, cattle and horses ornament his own stories.

The first James story to be done will be "Lone Cowboy," and Randolph Scott, the Virginia born Georgia collegian who recently was welcomed as a new movie "find," will enact the main rôle in this and presumably in subsequent James screen stories. Scott came to Hollywood only two years ago, did some minor stage bits for the Pasadena community playhouse and then played the aviator in the west coast stage run of "Broken Wing" before some one in the movies saw him and induced him to take a screen test several months ago.

Tom Mix's ex-father-in-law, parent of his recently divorced wife, Victoria Hanneford, remains on the Mix pay roll. Mr. Hanneford is one of the business managers with Mix in the company now filming "Death Valley Tom" for Universal. This situation is remindful of the occasional luncheon reunions at the Brown Derby that Gloria Swanson's ex-husbands, Wallace Beery, Herbert Somborn and the marquis have been known to hold.

Lawsuits that bobbed up on the Los Angeles court records over the week-end reveal that Bob Armstrong was sued for $300 by an erstwhile friend, Day Tuttle of New York, who claims he lent that sum to Bob as a stake to help him break into "the acting business" in New York in 1927. Another courthouse record shows that Paul Lukas has been ordered to ride in trolleys for sixty days as a result of being overhauled by a cop who informed a judge Lukas was speeding at seventy miles an hour.

And Gwen Lee [real name Lepinski], blond charmer of ever so many movies, recorded a horrified protest over an action filed by her mother, Mrs. Etta Lepinski, last week seeking to have the Superior court of California take from Gwen her control of her own business affairs and appoint a guardian for Gwen. The suit won't stay on the court files long, according to Thomas Higgin, attorney for the actress, who said the mother and daughter have patched up their differences.

Romance May Break Up Over Money Lending

Unwise for Boy to Borrow from Girl Friend.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"René's" beau is out of a job, and has been for months. "René" has helped him a bit financially, she tells. He accepted the money as a loan and intends to pay her back.

Last Sunday said beau dined at the girl's home. "Everything was splendid," René reports, "until evening came and we went out. He did not have enough money, so I gave him the rest."

Now, here comes the rub with René. "It isn't the money part that got me sore," she confides. "It was the fact that he suggested going out when he had not the money to go with. He could have remained at home for the evening. It would have been all right with me. I know how things stand with him at present.

"At first I acted as congenial as ever, but during the show I felt I was just wasting my time on him, and that made me disagreeable for the rest of the evening, and on the way home we quarreled. The worst of it is that the fellow had no idea how a girl might feel under the circumstances."

In case there are other girls being "tapped" for money loans, or even feeling the impulse coming on to lend the boy friend money, let me remind that there is only one word of advice to cover the case—the good old reliable "Don't!" You can't afford to take the chance. Dine the boy at home, wine him, cheer him, jolly him—but don't let there be any money exchanged between you two. Or, if you do act on the urge to play the Lady Bountiful, don't complain later of your changed feelings or of the young man's actions.

And don't blame the young man, if you have lent him money, for what follows. It's human nature to lean on the giver, once the money prop is established. And it's the woman's nature—the nature of most women, that is—to resent the man who takes the money.

I know I am going to hear from readers that I'm wrong in the "don't lend" advice. They'll relate experiences to bear them out. But for one happy experience a hundred are reported of an entirely changed face on the romance. So, I repeat: "Don't lend the boy friend money!"

Harbor Springs Indians Organize Social Club

Harbor Springs, Mich., March 13.—[Special.] — The Tomahawk club, a newly organized association of the local Indians of this vicinity, has held its first meeting and elected officers. Frank Leo, one of the prominent members of the tribe formerly a resident of Cross Village, but now of Harbor Springs, was elected president. James Bradley, a half-breed and and graduate of the local high school, was elected vice president, and Jonas Shawanesse, secretary and treasurer.

The purposes of the club are social affairs and the advancement of the Indian. The next meeting will be held in the home of Robert Abinaw of Indian Village.

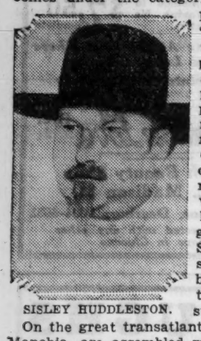
Sea Voyagers Bare Troubles in New Novel

Huddleston Puts Varied Types Together.

"The Captain's Table," by Sisley Huddleston. [Lippincott.]

SISLEY HUDDLESTON, author of that enchanting volume, "Paris Salons, Cafés, Studios," has written a book whose subtitle is "A Transatlantic Log," and which loosely comes under the category of fiction.



SISLEY HUDDLESTON.

He says: "... I have, with a dim perception of artistic propriety, scrupulously refrained ... from the easy device of making my men and women, fellow passengers on the S. S. World, sit down one by one to tell their stories."

On the great transatlantic ship, the Manchia, are assembled many of the great and the near-great of the world. There are an ambassador, a Russian grand duke, a famous lawyer, a radical editor and publicist running away with his secretary, a world known German scientist, a pugilist, buyers of various sorts, a little French girl, a woman of the world who is getting old and fat, a movie queen and her prince, a bishop, a Ukrainian Jew, a French novelist, an engineer on his way to Russia, and the narrator himself, Peter Vernon, who writes books. These people, oddly assorted as they are, feel the pressure of a close and intimate contact that is to last for days. They must eat at the same table, dance in the same ballroom, walk the same decks, watch the same games and in general be subjected similarly to the whims of the sea.

An Interlude in Their Lives.

The atmosphere of this small community is on the whole static. Every one knows that what happens will be excused, later, on the basis of the strangeness of any sea voyage. There are a few mild flirtations. The woman of the world is pursued by the pugilist. The French girl falls in love with a colonel. The narrator succumbs to a dress buyer. But each person knows that the spontaneity of such affairs is only due to the lull in the "sturm und drang" of life. This interlude of the suspension of life is only temporary. And when the shore is reached activities and interests will again be resumed.

Sisley Huddleston uses his material somewhat symbolically. He says: "That is how life is; we meet a man or woman at, say, New York, and we pursue our little path together; and we learn, bit by bit, something of his character, his inclinations, his sorrows, and his secrets; he begins to grow vivid and we like him; and then we suddenly leave him at a ragged end. And it seemed to me that nothing symbolizes our broken relationships better than a conveniently long, but not overlong, ship voyage." This, of course, is not a startlingly new observation. Many of us have felt and talked this way. Unfortunately Huddleston goes little further. He backs up his main contention with many and not originally phrased platitudes about life and love. Not only the narrator but also the characters in the book indulge only too frequently in pallid and on the whole dull observations.

Characters Tell Their Troubles.

The author states quite seriously in his dedicatory preface that he will refrain from having his characters sit down and reveal themselves. But one by one, it seems, they pour out their life stories to the "doctor-narrator." Kessner, the ostracized editor, elaborately details the adventures and misfortunes of a struggling professor misunderstood by a shrewish wife. Steiner, the scientist, tells the short story of his tragic bereavement. The Ukrainian Jew discloses several misfortunes that befell him. The famous lawyer reveals the publicity stunts that the movie queen and her prince must endure.

The woman of the world describes how she got that way. In fact, one by one, with a few exceptions, the characters regard the narrator as an understanding man to whom the symptoms of their lives must be disclosed. A few of the stories are interesting as expositions. But most of them are dull primarily because the characters never for once seem more than puppets or more than stereotyped specimens of humanity into which the author attempts to inject a stream of life.

The subject matter of this book could have been handled dramatically and vividly. Sisley Huddleston is perhaps not adequately enough experienced in the novelist's technique to create a book that is stirring or memorable. However, in its quietude, in its representation of expository technique "The Captain's Table" achieves a certain charm.

Dillwyn Parrish Writes Novel.

Dillwyn Parrish, the brother of Anne Parrish, has written a novel, "Praise the Lord" [Harpers] that is set in the almost fabulous city of Los Angeles. The author, trying to make some money, ran a small café under the shadow of a famous evangelist's temple. His story deals with the influence the temple and its "priestess" exercise over the people. Not entirely a fictional plot, it contains the personality of a well known woman, described as "a gigantic woman, a woman of bewildering contradictions."

Desire to Sit Without Budging Sure Sign Old Age Is Creeping

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In an article in one of our popular weeklies telling how grandmothers can remain young, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of New York's famous governor, recalls the danger signals which older women, inclined to rotundity, must be on the lookout for.

If you get yourself comfortably set in a chair and hate to pry yourself loose—that's one signal. If you've lost the muscle elasticity that permits you to bend over and pick things up from the floor quickly—that's another. And if you call the youngsters to run up and down stairs instead of running the errand yourself—that's still another.

When you detect any of these symptoms as growing ones, you have to go into conference with yourself and order a new program of living and eating. Fewer hefty portions and more leg activity is the way in which I interpret the governor's lady's message. She would put it much more dignifiedly, naturally, yet I insist that leg activity is a good phrase.

We have comparatively little of it in the average middle-aged woman's life. She's forgotten that legs were made to walk with. To step around lively on. And that's why you hear her complaining of middle-aged spreads and swollen ankles, and talking of the good old days when she had as neat a pair of ankles as any one. Why she still hasn't them isn't hard to understand, what with her penchant for riding where e'er she goes.

Is it any wonder she is short-breathed? Can't take the stairs on the run to save her life? Won't take them on the walk if she can get some one to run up and bring down her coat and hat. I know a professional woman who is nearing 60 and who can run—and I mean RUN—up five flights of stairs and finish her conversation without a tremor of breath. She raises Cain with the younger women in her organization when she catches them taking the elevator. Her theory is that a busy business woman has to grab at every single opportunity during her day to exercise.

No one will ever hear her telling her children or her children's children that she used to have neat ankles.

Demands Education That Makes "Man" and Not Technician

Urbana, Ill., March 13.—[Special.]—Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist church of St. Louis, opened the thirteenth annual vocational conference on the University of Illinois campus tonight when he addressed an all university service in the auditorium.

The vocational conference will extend through Thursday under the sponsorship of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and campus churches. Nearly sixty vocational counselors, among them six officials in national church organizations, business and professional men, and faculty members will be available for interviews by students.

Speaking on "The Carpenter," Dr. Jones declared it is not simply the tendency of the world to think of men in terms of their callings and professions, but, with the whole trend of the educational world making experts, specialists, and technicians, out of boys and girls, it is increasingly hard to resist.

"It is not simply hurtful to personality, but deadly in its social implications," declared the clergyman.

"The purpose of any education should be first to develop manhood. His work should be only one mode for the expression of his life. He is more than doctor, preacher, or merchant."

Women Supporters of N. U. Clinics Will Meet Today

The Women's Faculty club of Northwestern university will hold a monthly meeting at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Northwestern medical school. Dr. William H. Holmes will speak as a contact member of the medical faculty, coördinating the work to raise funds for furthering the work of the clinics. The club was organized last fall by wives and friends of the medical faculty to raise funds to care for 13,035 new patients at the clinics last year. The club hopes eventually to raise a permanent endowment fund.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Voodo is an entrancing subject, both for folklorists and for the plain people who are inclined to suspect, now and then, that there are more things in heaven and earth than dreamt of in their philosophy. "Zombie," which came to the Adelphi theater last night, is a voodoo play—so prepare for a few agreeable shudders.

If the element of terror that is one of the drama's legitimate weapons had not been blunted and twisted into grotesque comedy form by the so-called "mysteries," which began with "The Bat" and have kept on flourishing, this "Zombie" might have been a truly bloodcurdling affair. If it had been written for the Grand Guignol of Paris, in the good old days when the "théâtre d'épouvante" was in fashion, instead of for the American Punch and Judy audience, "Zombie" would have given its first nighters permanent pompadours.

But even as it stands, with the crazy "mystery" curse upon its head, it is several cuts above the many shrieking pieces of hocus-pocus with which it is allied. It is much better than the average "mystery" not only because it celebrates the Great God Voodoo but also because it contains a certain amount of persuasiveness, and a folklore background.

To get the right slant on "Zombie" you should follow the author's example and give W. B. Seabrook's "The Magic Island" a devout reading. That work is a comprehensive first hand study of the strange sorceries practiced by primitive blacks in Haiti, and its chapter on zombies, or the "culte des morts," obviously inspired this contribution to the theater. The dialogue quotes Seabrook, now and then, almost directly.

The play passes through a slow, plodding phase in its first act, as it laboriously instructs its audience in the zombie cult, telling how Negroes who have died and been buried are often found, in this weird land of Haiti, toiling in the fields like human cattle—corpses that move and walk and drudge. But then its thrills begin to function, with a certain degree of effectiveness. The zombie business gets hot and the audience becomes pleasantly bothered. The play, in spite of its cast of second rate actors, clicks in a stirring manner when the zombies begin to drift across the stage in their mortuary manner.

There is a secret in the plot of "Zombie" that I shall not reveal, following the old American custom of "mystery" show reviewing. It deals with the master mind or voodoo adept who is behind the zombie traffic in that section of Haiti. It's a good trick; at any rate, I did not see it coming, and I was greatly comforted when the wizard was exposed and slaughtered. But before that came to pass he had the dead walking in every direction, and there was much ghoulish glee in the audience.

Pauline Starke, who had a neat career in the films before they began to talk, is the heroine of the proceedings. She had the lovely head of a Hollywood queen, but her acting proves that she is still in her novitiate as far as the stage is concerned. George Regas is decidedly effective as a voodoo spellbinder, working his magic in disguise as an oily plantation overseer. Peter Clarke, without a word to say, contributes a striking impersonation of a black zombie, and Etta Moten, who was one of the famous "Porgy" cast, is excellent as a terrified quadroon.

Good morning!

Well, little Miss Nancy Carroll, how about it?

Is "Wayward" the best story they could find for you, and have you put your most honest work into it? If so, we're sorry. For it's not much of a picture.

Surely there's dry rot somewhere when the old triangle of the youth, his ex-chorus girl wife and his hating, conservative Main street mother must be dragged out and retrundled across our screens! If the backward child only had some new clothes—or bright paint on its perambulator . . . !

Being unable to honestly sing praises for acting, direction, dialogue, or anything else about this movie, I'll save THE TRIBUNE some space and you some eye strain by signing off.

See you tomorrow.

Go Lightly on Gushing Praise; Child Hates It

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"In a household where children learn little songs written by their elders and sing them they usually can be heard singing little songs and making up their own words and melodies. They often recount adventures in verse that put a ballad to shame. These songs will continue to be produced if adults appear not to notice them.

"Children are very sensitive about their imaginings. A roar of laughter over one of their songs, too much praise, recounting the tale to a neighbor in the child's presence—all these act as effective checks to pre-school creative art.

"If they sing the song for us, which they usually don't, we can say, 'fine, that's a good song' and then cease. Children usually hate gushing, especially over something original.

"Not all children hate gushing, but the sensitive youngsters who have really excellent creative ability usually become self-conscious under it, so it behooves adults to learn to have a bit of dignity in dealing with the very young songmaker."

It seems to me that this quotation from a booklet called "Songs and Rhythms for the Child in the Home," which I will describe in a later article, has a kernel of wisdom worth the thought of mothers of little children.

With the little child who lives so much of the time on a plane of his own, we must be careful not to jar or break into what comes to the surface in song or self-communing—in soft conversations with himself or his animals. What we need mostly is just to be there—to be on tap when we're turned to—to be responsive, but not noisy or emphatic in our interest.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Faire Chapelle is the stepdaughter of Ma Chapelle, who owns Flaxen's casino, a café of ill repute, near the waterfront of Port Bal. Faire and Aya, Ma's daughter by her first husband of dubious color, have been trained to assist in Flaxen's. The Chapelles are looked upon as outcasts by respectable island residents, and Faire feels their attitude keenly, because her father was of unimpeachable antecedents. He had brought her as a little girl into these unsavory surroundings and left her there at his death. She has kept aloof from all that Flaxen's represents.

Sir Philip Persian is governor and commander-in-chief of the Tama islands: Bai and St. Rosario. His young secretary and ward, Robert Grand, is involved in an affair with Mira Worcester, a faded beauty. Her husband has become suspicious. Malise Bookes, aid de camp of the governor, to avert a scandal asks Faire, as a favor to the governor, to clear Mira by proving it was she who'd been meeting young Grand secretly, threatening to close Flaxen's and have the Chapelles deported unless she consents. Sir Philip is furious with Bookes when he learns that Faire has been forced to accept Mira's guilt. He sends for Faire to try to make amends.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

MAKING AMENDS.

The car climbed through the town into the avenue of mahogany trees before Government house.

The native footman held open the car door. Faire stepped out, bareheaded, in her old suit. Not thus did ladies visit the governor! The native butler was at the massive entrance door, receiving her. She was taken straight into the one room that she knew already; the governor's study, large and high monastic. It was empty. The green shaded lamp brooded over the portrait of the woman on the desk.

She stood by the open windows. The moon was rising over the bay. Ten years on this little island—ten years, with the island robbing her every year, robbing her of dreams, beliefs, hopes, all the rights of the spirit, and now battering at her pride, her cleanness, wanting that! There was a sound behind her of a door opening and closing. She turned. Little Grand stood there, fair and grave, pale.

"How d'you do?" he said, coming forward. "The Governor sent me." He held out his hand, and she put hers into it. The next moment he bent and kissed her hand. She drew away. "Faire," said the boy steadily, "I want to thank you for all you have done. I realize you've been fine, and I know there was a reason for what you did for me, though I've not been told what it was."

Whatever had called their eyes to each other sent her into his arms.

"The reason doesn't matter any longer."

"Well, it all seems to matter a good deal," said the boy huskily. "I am here, before you see Sir Philip, to ask you to marry me."

"To marry you!"

"If you will."

"Do I have to do that to save Lady Mira?"

Little Grand turned scarlet: "Please!"

"I will not marry you unless that, too, is part of the bargain. But I was not told of it."

"It—it isn't part of any bargain. It's just what I—what any decent man would feel he—owed you."

This pale burning girl spoke very quietly:

"You surely did not feel like that the night at the bungalow."

"The night at the bungalow I didn't know . . . didn't know you shouldn't have been chosen; shouldn't have been asked."

"How do you know it now?"

He hesitated. "Please, Faire——"

"Why did you come and speak to me at the polo?"

He hesitated, "I brought a note."

"A servant could have brought that. Why did you come?"

"Sir Philip——"

"And Sir Philip sends you here to me now?"

"Sir Philip and I have had a talk."

Their voices came fast.

"With the result that you decide to whitewash the little girl from Flaxen's."

As little Grand cried out, dismayed: "Faire! Don't!" a sense of urgency more imperative than his shocked voice seemed to strike the room into silence. The boy had hardly cried out his protest when another voice spoke sharp as a whipcrack, and yet not without gentleness:

"I'll talk to Miss Chapelle alone, Robert."

The governor stood in the window, silhouetted against the night.

Persian had that strange, fatal and exalted feeling which he had felt as he turned his eyes over the heads of a fighting crowd down on the quay, to the eyes of a girl who stood watching him. Here she stood looking at him again.

"Shall I go, sir?" little Grand asked miserably.

Persian broke the spell of that mutual look roughly, by movement. He walked in. "Wait a moment, Robert. Miss Chapelle, Robert Grand is my ward, my friend and my secretary. We have talked this matter out between us. I am sure he has by now told you that he will be proud to make you the sort of amends that a man should make."

The girl laughed her hard laugh, and little Grand saw Persian wince slightly under it. He himself flinched too. It was the laugh of a woman who, herself outraged, in turn longs to violate the most sacred soul peak of men's pride.

"Am I obliged to marry him? Do you order it?"

Persian answered quietly: "You misunderstand. It is a reparation that we offer you."

"No," she flared, "it is an insult. The other night was a bargain—a dirty one, but a bargain. This is just an insult."

Little Grand drew himself up with some dignity.

"I am very sorry."

"I am sorry too, Robert," Persian said levelly. "If you wish to go now, I'll see you again later."

Grand bowed to the girl, and went out.

"Don't hurt the boy," said Persian quietly. "He's had a bad time. Hurt me. I can stand it."

"And me," she said. "I am to stand it too? It does not matter how much I am hurt."

She laid her hands on her breast, unconscious of the gesture, as if she cried mutely: "Here is your human sacrifice." But suddenly, as she looked at him she grew afraid and astonished. She wavered. She was stricken dumb. For he became just a man, a young man, not the governor, not the inhuman robot, but a man who suffered and flamed, was sorrowful and desperate, even as herself. While the barrier was thus down he stepped forward, and took her crossed hands from her breast, and held them against his own breast. "Faire!" he whispered.

And then whatever had called their eyes to each other, on that day of the harbor fight, sent her close into his arms now, in a passion of weeping. He held her, and stroked her bowed head, and looked over it at the pictured woman at the desk, his own face very still.

He put her into an armchair, and knelt by her, and stopped her crying, and dried her eyes. Just as he had held her at dawn in the boat with strong hands, he held her now, only the hands were not so quick and calm.

"Child," he said, "listen."

"Yes."

"If I could undo what has been done I would undo it. Do you understand how it happened?"

"It can't matter now."

"Yes, child, it matters. Terribly. And more to me than to you." Her tremulous mouth, twisting in an unbelieving smile, close to his own, made him sigh. He sighed like any young man hungry for kisses. "Listen to me. I had to go to St. Rosario. You know that. When I came back that day it was only to arrange necessary affairs here and go back. I left matters to Bookes. He was certain he could manage it all easily. There was official prestige at stake. It had to be done."

She nodded, the little smile twisting her mouth.

"O, yes. And I have no prestige."

"I did not dream it would be you."

"You . . . didn't know . . .,"

He felt her narrow hands on either side of his face. They looked again deeply into each other's eyes, searching truth like two children. The governor on his knees beside the girl from Flaxen's.

"No! my dear! NO!"

"He said your instructions were that I should do it, or you'd close the café," she said under her breath.

The governor was no longer like a humble child. He drew her hands down, gripping her wrists hard, his face dangerous.

"Did he say I chose you, Quick; tell me."

She thought aloud: "I can't remember. Perhaps not exactly. I understand that it was to be me. Well, Aya would not have done so well . . ."

"O, child," Persian groaned.

"It can't be undone," she said. "I know that. Even if it could be—you have—as you say—official prestige to think about. It's your duty." All the while the sad scornful smile curved her mouth.

He urged: "You really understand that?"

She nodded. "I understand. The cause against the individual, especially an individual of no account, like me."

He silenced her. "You're punishing me pretty badly."

"I—punishing—you!"

"Yes. Punishing me. What do you think I am?" he said huskily.

"The governor of the Tama Islands."

Persian stood up, and moved away.

"Tell me something," he heard her almost whisper. "You do know that I'm not the sort of girl your Malise Bookes wants to think me?"

"My dear! For God's sake say no more!"

A spring tonic is rhubarb. In fact, the food value of rhubarb seems to consist almost entirely in its tonic properties obtained from the mineral matters which give it its acid quality. Some varieties of rhubarb are grown especially for the medicinal properties which are extracted from the roots.

But we need not associate this fruit so closely with spring any longer. There is quite an industry that has grown out of and around the early efforts of growers to cultivate and force rhubarb until now these long pink stalks are on the market all the year. Before the time the forcing system was developed and practiced to such an extent, rhubarb was found only during the early months of spring. It grew in such profusion and with so little attention [that is, the uncultivated plants] that it was almost like a weed.

Just plain stewed rhubarb [the common ordinary way of cooking it] will satisfy this craving of ours just as much as if prepared in some "fawncy" manner. Or stew it with strawberries, with enough sugar to sweeten for the sake of a change.

If you have great quantities of it in your own garden patch, preserve some by canning or by making marmalade.

RHUBARB MARMALADE.

Wash, peel, and cut up the rhubarb. Weigh and put in a preserving kettle and stew gently until tender. Add sugar pound for pound and cook slowly, stirring frequently. Remove from the fire when a few drops of the sirup jelly when placed in the refrigerator on a cold saucer. You may add broken English walnuts to the mixture if you desire. This makes it very much like a conserve, but none the less delightful.

RHUBARB PIE.

2 cups rhubarb, cut up.
3 tablespoons flour.
1 cup sugar.
2 eggs.

Line a pie pan with plain pastry. Wash and peel the rhubarb, cut it into small pieces, and dredge with flour until each piece is white. Mix the egg yolks, sugar, and rhubarb, and place in the pie pan. Dot with butter. Cover with a top crust. Bake in a hot oven first, and then turn it down and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

For extra special occasions you might make little individual tarts. There is always something partified about them, although you use exactly the same recipe. This quantity will make six tarts. Instead of a top crust you may use a meringue made of the egg whites, or make a lattice top with strips of plain pastry or even leave the pie entirely open. We'll leave it up to you.

PIE PLANT CHARLOTTE.

Wash and cut the pie plant in small pieces, cover the bottom of a baking dish with a layer of pie plant and sugar, then a layer of bread crumbs and bits of butter. Repeat this until the dish is full, using crumbs for the top layer. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. The proportion of sugar for fruit allowed in this recipe should be pound for pound, too.

Straight Panel Front with Shoulder Straps Feature of Attractive Apron

WOMAN'S OR MISS' APRON.

Any woman, doing her housework, will look attractively garbed if she wears this pretty apron. The straight panel front, held by shoulder straps, is effective, and a partial belt caught in at either side of the front panel, holds the apron close to the figure at the waistline. The lower side sections are slightly circular.

The pattern, No. 3047, comes in small, medium, and large sizes. The medium size requires 1¼ yards of 35 inch material with 8¾ yards of binding.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Lack Confirmation Dresses.

"My sister and I are to be confirmed on Palm Sunday and we haven't white dresses to wear. We have no way of getting them, as our father is not well and hasn't worked for a year and a half, and there are five children in the family. I wear size 18 or 20 dress, as I am short and stout. My sister wears size 14. We will need shoes, too, sizes 5½ or 6 and 4½ or 5. Do you think you could get us some bedding and towels, also? A. R."

On this eventful occasion it will be a pity if the R. girls aren't equipped with the proper sort of dresses. Perhaps your young daughters have white ones, outgrown, which they may have. Worn linens with mending possibilities would be most welcome here, too.

A Chance to Help.

"I am a tuberculosis patient in the southwest and have not been able to work since 1927. I have no way of getting any of the things I want and I am badly in need of clothes. I would appreciate it so much if you could get me a suit, size 38; some shirts, 15; a pair of shoes, size 9, and a cap, size 7. "M. R."

Can you provide this invalid with these articles of clothing which he needs so badly and is unable to secure himself? Anything in his size which you may be discarding will be most acceptable. He writes to us from New Mexico.

Humane Education.

A monthly meeting of the Chicago Humane Education society will be held at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon at the Palmer house.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

The squeeze play seems to be about as popular on the stock market as it is in the game of bridge. If we are to believe the papers there are a whole lot of people known as bears that are being perpetually squeezed.

Contract bridge has one great advantage over the stock market. At one time you may be the squeezer, but at another you will be the squeezee. One does not have to be always on the wrong end of the squeeze simply to inspire onlookers. Yesterday's play-a-problem was passed along to me by my friend, E. J. Tobin, who remarked that it was the prettiest squeeze hand he had ever seen. I quite agree with Mr. Tobin. This was the hand:

NORTH.
♠—10,9,4
♥—7
♦—9,8,7,6

WEST.
♠—K,Q,3
♥—6,5,4,2
♦—A,3,2
♣—K,10,3

EAST (Dealer).
♠—A,J,6,5,2
♥—A,9,3
♦—K,10,4
♣—A,4

SOUTH.
♠—8,7
♦—Q,J,5
♣—Q,J,9

East dealt and bid a spade. South overcalled with two hearts. West raised to two spades. North passed. East bid three spades. South passed and West bid four spades, which closed the bidding.

South opened the ♥ K, dummy played the 2, North the 7, and declarer took the trick with the Ace. Declarer then led the ♠ 2, which dummy took with the Q and led back the ♠ K and followed with the ♠ 3, which declarer took with the ♠ J. To the next trick declarer led the ♠ A, and to the sixth trick led the ♠ 6. At this point South held three diamonds, three clubs, and two hearts, having discarded the 8 and 10 of hearts in the last two trump leads. The squeeze is on! With a sigh South discarded a diamond, and to the seventh trick declarer led the ♦ 4, which dummy took with the ♦ A and led back the ♦ 3, which East took with the ♦ K. If South had discarded a club East's lead would have been a club instead of a diamond. Declarer then took in his ♦ 10 and followed by leading the ♥ 9, which South captured with the ♥ Q. South returned the ♣ Q, which dummy took with the ♣ K. Dummy then led the ♣ 10 and declarer took the trick with the ♣ A and led back the ♥ 3 to dummy's ♥ 6 for six-odd—the game and two extra tricks.

Now let us go back to trick six. Here, if South seeks to protect both his diamonds and his clubs and discards another heart, dummy will then make the ♥ 5 and ♥ 6, and six-odd will be made by East and West by simply taking in their tricks. South may vary the play, but he will never wiggle out of the vise. Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—A,8,4,3
♥—5
♦—4,3
♣—10,9,8,5,4,3

WEST.
♠—K,J,9,5
♥—K,Q,J,10,7,6
♦—K,10
♣—6

EAST.
♠—6,2
♥—9,8,2
♦—Q,J,8,7,5
♣—A,7,2

SOUTH (Dealer).
♠—Q,10,7
♥—A,4,3
♦—A,9,7,6
♣—K,Q,J

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly-looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—erases stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean.

Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

VETERAN RECTOR OF HOLY NAME CATHEDRAL DIES

Msgr. Michael FitzSimmons Pneumonia Victim.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael James FitzSimmons, vicar general emeritus of the archdiocese of Chicago, and for 40 years rector of Holy Name cathedral, died late Saturday night of pneumonia at the cathedral rectory. He was 81 years old, and would have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination in August of this year.

Msgr. FitzSimmons was born in Chicago. He studied under the Franciscan fathers at Teutopolis, Ill., at St. Viator's college in Bourbonnais, and at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore, Md. He was ordained in Holy Name cathedral by Archbishop Feehan in August, 1882.

Transferred to Cathedral.

After serving for a few weeks as an assistant at St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue, he was transferred to the cathedral as an assistant. Two years later he was appointed chancellor of the archdiocese, and in 1888 he became rector of the cathedral. Later he was appointed vicar general of the archdiocese.

When Archbishop Quigley died in 1915 Msgr. FitzSimmons served as apostolic administrator of the archdiocese until the appointment of the new archbishop, the present Cardinal Mundelein, in February, 1916. He resigned his post as vicar general in 1924, becoming vicar general emeritus, and was forced by ill health to retire from active service as rector of the cathedral in February, 1928.

Cardinal to Conduct Rites.

The body will lie in state in the cathedral from 4 o'clock Thursday until after the funeral at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Cardinal Mundelein will preside at the funeral mass, and the sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. Msgr. Francis M. O'Brien, former assistant to Msgr. FitzSimmons. Burial will be in All Saints' cemetery.

A sister, Miss Mary FitzSimmons, survives.

FIND 6TH VICTIM OF RED'S GUN IN BOULEVARD RIOT

A sixth victim of communist gunfire during the anti-Japanese demonstration Saturday north of the Michigan boulevard bridge was discovered yesterday when Tony Kaspar, 40 years old, 1210 South Morgan street, applied for treatment at the Norwegian-American hospital.

Kaspar was wounded in the right ankle. He is unemployed. He denied that he was one of the demonstrators who fought with police. He was passing when he felt a sting in his ankle, and did not stop because the disturbance was then at its height, he said. Three policemen, a woman radical and her son were treated on Saturday for bullet wounds, all alleged to have been caused by the fire of Steve Chuck, one of the radical demonstrators. The bullet taken from Kaspar's ankle was of the same caliber as others fired from Chuck's gun.

Chuck, who is charged with assault to commit murder, and 28 others, including four women, charged with disorderly conduct, assaulting policemen and illegal assembly, will be arraigned today in the Boys' court.

Hold Funeral Services for Dr. Kendric Babcock

Urbana, Ill., March 13.—[Special.]—Private funeral services for Dr. Kendric Charles Babcock, dean emeritus of the college of liberal arts and sciences and former provost of the University of Illinois, who died early Friday morning, were held this afternoon. Only the immediate family and close friends attended the services, which were in charge of the Rev. M. T. Kennedy, pastor of the First Congregational church of which Dean Babcock was a member. The body was taken to Chicago for cremation.

Autos Found Leading Cause of Accidents to Children

Automobiles are the leading cause of accidents to children, an analysis of the first fifty letters received by the Chicago Safety council in a school children's contest disclosed yesterday. Eighteen children of the fifty who described accidents in which they were hurt were struck by automobiles. Six fell while roller skating. Other causes were falls downstairs or from porches, cuts from broken bottles and other objects and playing about bonfires. One young writer was hurt in a fall from a piano stool.

Retired Episcopal Canon Dies Watching Ball Game

Tampa, Fla., March 13.—[Special.]—While watching the opening innings of a ball game between the Brooklyn and Cincinnati clubs at Plant field this afternoon, Dr. L. M. Robinson, retired former canon of the Protestant Episcopal church of America, was seized with a heart attack and died en route to the hospital. Dr. Robinson, 74 years of age, was an enthusiastic baseball fan and attended all games played here.

Child Falls in Tub of Hot Water; Dies from Scalds

Patricia Stevens, 2 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stevens, died in the Midlothian hospital yesterday of scalds incurred Saturday when she tripped and fell into a pan of boiling water which had been set on the kitchen floor of her home at 14814 44th avenue, Midlothian.

SEIZE 3 COUPLES IN HEADQUARTERS OF HOLDUP GANG

Police lay in wait early yesterday in a flat at 2238 North Austin avenue, which had been named as their headquarters by three bandits captured early in the night by Du Page county deputy sheriffs, and arrested three couples who appeared at the place. Two of the men arrested admitted that they had taken part in the Du Page county raid, in which seven men were involved.

Du Page authorities shot and critically wounded Glen Waller and Nick Shrynick, both of the Austin avenue address, in a seven mile automobile chase between Addison and Ontarioville, in which fifty rifle and pistol shots were exchanged. They also arrested Stanley Kurlo, 2345 North Meade avenue. The gang was identified last night in two Chicago robberies.

Those arrested when they drew up before the flat in a taxicab are Michael Smith, Edward Burke, and Frank Faifer, all residents there. With them were Mrs. Betty Gianoni, alias Betty Reed, 372 North Avers avenue; Miss Stella Klemus, 2050 North Hamlin avenue, and Miss Martha Smith, 1021 North Lorel avenue.

Burke and Faifer admitted that they were with the gang pursued in Du Page county, but Smith denied participation. Loot from a clothing store robbery was found in their flat.

WOMAN CASHIER FACES COURT ON SHORTAGE TODAY

Miss Laverne Lindgren, who was promoted from telephone operator to cashier of the now defunct People's State bank of Maywood, is scheduled to appear in Judge John Prystalski's Criminal court this morning to find out whether she is to be prosecuted further for her alleged share of the blame for the $173,000 shortage which was discovered when the bank closed. Elmer P. Langguth, president of the bank, was sent to the penitentiary last Friday to serve a 1 to 10 year sentence for embezzlement.

The assistant state's attorney who had charge of the original prosecution, said that he would recommend that Miss Lindgren be prosecuted on some of the four indictments pending against her. She was tried jointly with Langguth and convicted in September, 1930.

The case was carried to the Supreme court and affirmed as to both defendants. On a rehearing petition, however, the reviewing court granted a new trial to Miss Lindgren.

GEO. L. BOLLARD, CAFE OWNER, IS HURT IN CRASH

George L. Bollard, 5541 East End avenue, one of the owners of the Bollard and Frazier restaurant at 18 West Lake street, received a severely wrenched back yesterday when his automobile was knocked into the ditch and overturned by another car near Lockport.

County highway police arrested three youths from New Lenox, Ill., who were riding in the other car, on charges of reckless driving and assault with an automobile. They charged that the trio, Joseph Liberty, Jacob Haan and Harvey Studer, failed to stop for a traffic signal at 159th street and Wolf road, where they struck the Bollard car.

Mr. Bollard was also cut about the head. He is 70 years old, and it was feared that his age might add to the danger of his injuries. His wife, Mrs. Belle Bollard, received minor bruises. Their chauffeur, Richard Lertzell, escaped injuries.

There were no auto deaths in Cook county yesterday, the toll for the year remaining 211.

5 YEAR OLD BOY INJURED IN FACE BY A PITCHFORK

Belle Fourche, S. D., March 13.—[Special.]—"Never cry, always be brave," Horace Genre once told his son, Warren, 5, and so tonight despite long hours of acute pain there were no tears in Warren's blue eyes.

The boy is in a hospital here in a critical condition from a wound caused when his father accidentally drove a pitchfork tine into his face. The accident occurred near Albion, Mont., on the Genre ranch.

Genre said he was forking hay and turned suddenly with the fork upraised. Warren ran into the fork. A tine entered his nose and came dangerously near his brain.

Physicians said tonight he has a chance to recover, despite loss of blood on the long trip from Albion here in subzero weather. The highways in some places were almost impassable, because of deep snow, Genre said.

Negro Shot Trying to Rob Cop in Civilian Clothes

Policeman John O'Brien of the Stanton avenue station, dressed in civilian clothing, was attacked at 33d and State streets last night by a Negro who attempted to rob him. In the struggle O'Brien shot the Negro in the abdomen. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where it was said his condition was critical. He is Cleveland Ruffin, 38 years old, 3518 Vernon avenue.

ACT OF CHARITY SEVEN YEARS AGO SOLVES MYSTERY

An almost forgotten act of charity on the part of H. J. Lossau, 711 South Lombard avenue, Oak Park, a jewelry dealer, kept the wires busy for a time last night between authorities of Texarkana, Ark., and Oak Park.

The reason was two-fold. First an unidentified man, about 45 years old, had been found beaten to death in the Arkansas town, evidently a victim of hijackers. Second, a label in his coat bore the name of Harry J. Lossau of Oak Park.

For several hours it was believed that the murder victim was the Oak Parker. But Lossau himself, alive and well, destroyed that supposition. He also solved the mystery of how his name came to be found in the suit of the victim.

"I gave the suit away seven years ago," explained Lossau.

Gov. Roosevelt's Son Father of an 8 Pound Daughter

Boston, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—A girl was born to Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, today. The baby weighed 8 pounds and has been named Sarah Delano Roosevelt, after her great-grandmother. Mrs. Roosevelt is the daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing of Boston, noted brain surgeon.

Old Betsy Ross House Flag Custodian Is Dead

Philadelphia, Pa., March 13.—(AP)—"Old Glory" dipped dismally in the darkness tonight on the front of the historic old Betsy Ross house—a negligence unheard of in 86 years. For Charlie Weisgerber, who raised the flag at sunrise and furled it at dusk daily for that period, died of a heart attack today at the age of 73.

JUDGE AIDS IN CAPTURE OF 4 FLEEING POLICE

Four youths fleeing from a police squad were captured yesterday in the "42" gang home grounds through the timely assistance of Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli, foe of the gang. A fifth youth was seized when he appeared on the scene of arrest and made disparaging remarks to the judge.

The chase started at Ashland boulevard and Harrison street when the four drove through a stop light. Sergt. James Brady and his Warren avenue squad pursued them. At Taylor and Laflin streets further escape of the fugitives was cut off when Judge Borrelli halted his machine in their path. He held the men for the police.

The prisoners identified themselves as Jerry Reporto, 21 years old, 731 South Paulina street; Tony Savarulo, 26, of 611 South Marshfield avenue; John Annunzio, 28, of 817 South Hermitage avenue, and Albert Ducicieri, 22, of 810 South Paulina street. Tony Cardamone, 19, of 2104 De Kalb street, was the fifth man seized. Judge Borrelli ordered all five held for the police show-up tomorrow night.

100,000 IRISHMEN GATHER TO CHEER FREED PRISONERS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 13.—(AP)—A crowd of more than 100,000 attended a demonstration here today to welcome the release of political prisoners through the new Eamon de Valera government. Speeches from freed political leaders were heard, including one from former deputy Sean McGinnis, who thanked sympathizers in the United States for help in the struggle against "British imperialism." There was no disorder.

Girl Trying to Act as Peacemaker Is Wounded

Rose Gravanti, 17 years old, received a bullet wound in the right cheek last night when she tried to act as peacemaker in a family quarrel in her home at 1019 Lytle street. Police are seeking her father, Guido, 53 years old. Police said the father returned home intoxicated, and fired at Rose when she tried to placate him. She was attended by Dr. Vito Taglia, 1160 Taylor street.

HOOVER PLEDGED DELEGATES IN BAY STATE ARE NAMED

Boston, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman, today announced the Hoover-pledged slate of delegates and delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention.

At the same time Liggett announced he was not a candidate for reëlection as national committeeman and had yielded his place on the delegation to George F. Booth, Worcester publisher.

Simultaneously also he made public a letter from Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Republican national committeewoman, declining the nomination to be a delegate-at-large but expressing the hope the delegates would continue her as committeewoman.

The delegates-at-large, selected by Mr. Liggett in accordance with the power of attorney recently received from the President to do so were: George F. Booth; William M. Butler of Boston, former United States senator, Alvin T. Fuller, former governor, and Mrs. Mary Pratt Potter of Greenfield.

A slate pledged to Alfred E. Smith was put in the Democratic field last week by Frank J. Donahue, chairman of the Democratic state committee, and there have been assurances that an opposing ticket of delegates favorable to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt would be named before the legal date for doing so expires next Friday.

GIANTS' 6 RUNS OFF GRIMES BEAT CUBS, 7 TO 3

M'FADYEN LEADS SHAMROCKS TO 3 TO 1 VICTORY

Defeat Fliers to Preserve Tie.

Hockey Results

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Detroit Falcons, 1; New York American, 0.
Montreal Maroons, 4; New York Rangers, 4 [overtime].

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Chicago Shamrocks, 3; St. Louis, 1.
Kansas City, 1; Duluth, 0.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The Shamrocks demonstrated conclusively last night that they might go for some of that American Hockey league championship by defeating their old sparring partners, the St. Louis Fliers, 3 to 1 at the Stadium.

The Chicagoans are still forced to share the league leadership with Kansas City, for the Pla-Mors defeated Duluth last night.

The Shamrock heroes were Donnie McFayden and Mike Karakas. After Ade Johnson had given the Chicagoans a 1 to 0 lead, only to have Red Jackson tie the score, Donnie scored twice, once alone and again on a pass from Tip O'Neill.

Karakas a Busy Fellow.

Karakas had one of the busiest evenings of his young life making 43 stops against the Fliers, ever an ornery crew, but Mike stopped both of their marksmen, Bobby Burns and Shrimp McPherson.

The contest opened at such a rapid pace on the part of both teams that it seemed the boys would be exhausted before the first period was finished.

The Fliers were without the services of the regular goalie, Herb Rheaume, but his understudy, Tony Christello, whose blue cap barely reaches the top of the cage when he's standing up, conducted himself with great skill.

After the O'Neill and Riley lines had done their share of offensive work, the Johnson trio delivered a score. Ade himself took a rebound of a shot by Armand and hammered it home in 7:52. The Shamrocks continued to bombard Christello for the rest of the period, but failed to find the range.

Fliers Tie Score.

The boys relaxed during the opening minutes of the second period. Cristello had plenty of time and opportunity to get himself together, for the Fliers suddenly commenced an assault that had the Shamrocks reeling. Jackson grabbed the puck along the right shore of the ice and outskated the Chicago defense completely for a shot which flew by Karakas before he knew what it was all about. It took 8 minutes and 17 seconds to do this.

Jackson's goal incited the Shamrocks to do a bit of offensive labor of their own. Brydson took the puck on the side and fired it at Christello from about 20 feet out. Tony made the save, but it bounced out. McFadyen pounced on it and fired it between Tony's legs to make it 2 to 1 for the Shamrocks in 16:33.

McFadyen Scores Again.

Goal seeking forays were divided about evenly at the beginning in the third period until McFadyen decided one goal wasn't enough. He took some able assistance from O'Neill and Brydson and scored again. Gordie passed out from behind the net and Donnie recovered it. He drove in, passed it to O'Neill and the latter shot it back to him for the Shamrock's third and last goal of the game in 9:20. Lineup:

INFLUENZA STOPS JACK DEMPSEY'S COMEBACK JAUNT

Toledo, O., March 13.—(AP)—Influenza today stopped Jack Dempsey's comeback jaunt toward the heavyweight throne he won here in 1919 from Jess Willard.

Dempsey canceled two bouts at Youngstown scheduled for tomorrow night, but hopes to leave Toledo for Clarksburg, W. Va., tomorrow for a bout there Wednesday night. If his condition does not improve overnight he will cancel the Clarksburg fight and one scheduled for Huntington, W. Va., Friday night.

Dempsey was confined to his hotel room here today. His physician said the attack of influenza was slight. He won two fights here last night but appeared tired in the second. The old mauler floored Jack O'Dowd of Little Rock, Ark., four times in the first to win a decision, but listlessly traded punches with Tim Charles of Louisville, Ky., in the second for another decision. Both were two round bouts.

SPEARS GETS $11,000 OFFER FROM BADGERS

Madison, Wis., March 13.—[Special.]—No announcement regarding the successor to Glenn Thistlethwaite, resigned Wisconsin football coach, will be forthcoming until tomorrow and possibly not then, Irwin C. Uteritz, athletic director, said today on his return from Chicago.

Uteritz went to Chicago to attend a meeting of the Big Ten directors, but was not present at the track meet Saturday night, thereby giving rise to the idea that he was in conference with some of the Western Conference coaches at that time, regarding the vacancy at Wisconsin.

Dr. Clarence W. [Fat] Spears, Oregon coach, is still sought by the Badgers, and there is every indication that he will accept. The latest move has been to offer Spears a position as a member of the medical faculty here, together with his position as head football coach. This would allow Wisconsin to pay Spears $11,000 a year for the joint duties, and as a drastic reduction in salaries has been proposed at the University of Oregon, this is expected to be the deciding factor.

Wendell, Harvard Grid Star 20 Years Ago, Dies

Boston, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—Percy L. Wendell, college football coach and all-American star at Harvard in 1912, died today of pneumonia. He was 42 years old. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. John W. Brady of Oswego, Ore., and four brothers, all of Boston.

36 New York Boys to Battle Tonight for Golden Gloves

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—New York tomorrow night picks the 16 fighters who two weeks later will battle Chicago in the fifth annual intercity Golden Gloves match. The 36 survivors of a field of 5,200 will come together in Madison Square Garden before a crowd that is expected to fill the arena for the sixth straight year. The tournament is sponsored by the New York Daily News.

PHIL DARDELL.

There has been more interest in the New York meet this winter than ever before. Two decisive whippings at the hands of Chicago is the reason. The wish nearest the heart of every New York boy is to be known as an intercity champion. There is no greater recognition in amateur boxing.

Two Seek to Repeat.

Two of the young men who represented New York in the intercity bouts at Chicago Stadium are again trying for Golden Gloves. One is Phil Gavriluk, light heavyweight, who lost the decision to Jack Kranz in Chicago. The other is Phil Dardell, New York, intercity and international welterweight champion in 1931. Dardell this year is fighting under his real name, Phil Ragozzino, as a middleweight.

Officials of the New York meet who watched their fighters battle through the preliminary rounds are counting heavily on John Rutherford, an all around Princeton athlete, to carry on to an intercity title. Rutherford is one of the biggest men who have sought Golden Gloves. He is six feet five inches tall and weighs 225 pounds. He was a tackle on last year's Princeton football team, rowed No. 5 on the crew, and wrestled with the varsity squad. His opponent will be a colored giant named Jerry Wright of Ascension parish house.

Same Foe Blocks Path.

Ragozzino's path to the 160 pound championship is blocked by the same man who opposed him in the 147 pound finals a year ago, Mark Hough. It was a hairline decision the last time they met. Hough protested loudly that he had won the verdict.

The program calls for title bouts in every division in both open and novice divisions.

EYE NEW YORK FINALS

Members of Chicago's Golden Gloves team will have their eyes fixed on New York tonight when the New York News selects the team which will oppose Chicago in the Inter-City Golden Gloves struggle on March 28 at Madison Square Garden.

Reports have reached the Chicago camp that the New York team is to be stronger than ever this year. But the Chicago boxers want to get first hand information before they will believe it.

The boys on the Chicago squad took it easy yesterday. A 30 minute drill in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium made up their day's work. They will go on the road this morning and may be ordered to do some boxing this afternoon.

Hill Record Set in Boys' Ski Tourney

Howard Jansen of the Norge Ski club; Jack Dean, Berrien Springs, Mich.; Lamar Alfred, and Allen Alsaker were the winners of the Illinois state junior ski championships in the first annual tournament under the auspices of the Norge Ski club at Riis park yesterday. A crowd of 5,000 attended.

Jansen won the title in the 15 to 17 year old class, with leaps of 47 and 49 feet and a total of 102.4 points. Harvey Nilsen, also of the Norge club, took second place, jumping 46 and 52 feet. Nilsen's 52 foot effort established a new slide record and he was awarded the longest standing jump prize.

Alsaker, who represented the Norge club, took the 18 year old division championship, leaping 43 and 45 feet. Gunnar Sundin was second with two jumps of 42 feet, while Cleland Clark was third, jumping 42 and 43 feet.

Allred won in the 12 year old class, with George Sevidic of the Fox Athletic club second. Russell Vastine, 9 year old Norge club entrant, was third. Allred jumped 33 and 32 feet.

In the 13 and 14 year old division Dean jumped 42 and 43 feet to win first place. Jack Clark of the Forest Preserve Ski club was second and Norman Herlicky was third.

The point standings:

JUST FOR FUN, HE SLAPS CARNERA'S FACE—AND RUNS

LONDON, March 13.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, was leaving the ring at his training quarters today, when a man stepped out from the crowd and slapped him on the cheek.

"What's that for," growled the big Italian.

"Just for fun," the assailant answered and ran before Carnera could retaliate or a policeman arrested him.

RUTH GOLFS AS RUPPERT WAITS SALARY ANSWER

Yanks More Worried than Either; Beat Braves, 11-4

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13.—[Special.]—The Yankees, with Babe Ruth out of their lineup and not even present as a spectator, staged an eight run rally in the seventh inning today to open their exhibition game schedule with a victory over the Boston Braves, 11 to 4.

The expected conference between Col. Jacob Ruppert and Ruth on the subject of the Babe's contract did not materialize. The Yankee proprietor arrived this morning, but did not leave the Don Ce-Sar hotel except to attend the game. Ruth, who is staying at a hotel several miles distant, did not seek a conference with Ruppert. The Babe was off for a day of golf at Bellaiu about the time he was expected to be calling on the colonel.

It's Up to the Babe Now.

"Ruth has been notified that a one year contract for $70,000 is our best offer," said Ruppert in his box at Waterfront Park today. "It's up to him now what he wants to do."

Ruppert intimated that no compromise would be considered and his attitude suggested that he intended waiting for the Babe to make the next move.

"I told the colonel I would accept $80,000 for one year or a two year contract for $70,000," said Ruth. "I am waiting to hear which of these arrangements suits him."

Looks Serious to Yanks.

With both principals in the salary controversy thus standing their ground and no time announced for a conference, the feeling among the Yankee players tonight was that the Babe's holdout campaign might become a more serious business than anticipated. Local chamber of commerce officials and fans were even more deeply concerned than the Yankee personnel, for until Ruth can be expected to figure in Yankee games the local attendance cannot be counted upon to approach that of former years.

SPALDING BEATS TRINITY, 17 TO 16, FOR STATE TITLE

Kankakee, Ill., March 13.—[Special.]—Spalding institute of Peoria today won the Catholic high school basketball championship of Illinois for the fourth consecutive time by defeating Trinity High of Bloomington, 17 to 16.

Spalding led at the half, 7 to 6, but Trinity tied the score at the end of the third quarter at 11-all. Winesauer's basket in the final minute clinched the victory. Both teams will compete in the national Catholic tournament at Loyola.

SIX DAY RACERS BEGIN GRIND AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., March 13.—(AP)—Twenty-four veteran riders pedaled away from the starter's gun at midnight in Philadelphia's six day bicycle race on the 11 lap track in Convention hall.

Reggie McNamara, veteran of 76 grinds, who won the recent race in New York, teamed with Torchy Peden of Vancouver, B. C., was matched with Harry Horan, Newark, N. J. Peden was paired with Jules Audy, young Montreal rider. The race will end next Saturday night.

SCHMELING WILL MAKE EXHIBITION TOUR IN APRIL

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Max Schmeling will make an exhibition tour of 15 cities in preparation for his forthcoming heavyweight championship match with Jack Sharkey.

Joe Jacobs, his manager, announced tonight that Schmeling would arrive here about March 31 and start his exhibition tour at Richmond, Va., April 11.

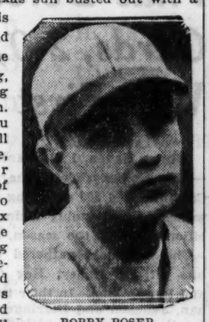
Sox Goofs Live Up to Their Name; Regulars Win, 5 to 2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—The glorious Texas sun busted out with a fine day this Sabbath and now, for the time being, everything is forgiven.

As you might well suppose, Manager Fonseca of the Chicago White Sox lost no time in getting his long restrained youths caparisoned for baseball endeavor. And after the boys reached the park it got warmer and warmer, causing Boss Lew to stage a seven inning game between the Regulars and Goofs, in which the former won, 5 to 2.



BOBBY POSER.

The athletes, so long under wraps, revealed superfriskiness and absolutely no signs of the spavins accrued through romping those many bleak days in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Poser Gets a Hand.

The game brought forth veteran pitchers for the first time in the two scrub games played thus far this season—Bump Hadley and Pat Caraway each cut loose for a couple of innings. Both seemed in fair shape, considering recent inactivity.

Though signed as a pitcher, Bob Poser, former University of Wisconsin baseball and basketball star who just joined up, played in the outfield, and since he was able to show considerable grace and form both at the plate and afield, his classification may be changed.

While the compliment may seem a bit extravagant after so short a time, Manager Fonseca and Coaches Butler and Cunningham, without consulting each other, opined that Poser's style at the plate is much like that of Lloyd Waner of the Pirates. Obviously a pretty swell compliment for any rookie and one that will lead to a thorough tryout for the youngster.

Blizzard Is Over.

San Antonio weather experts say they can tell that the blizzard is over, and if so the Regulars and Goofs will play intraclub games every day till next Thursday, when they go to Austin to battle the University of Texas Longhorns in their first exhibition game. Their first contests with professionals will be played next Saturday and Sunday with the San Antonio Indians. Then will come four more days of intraclub games before the team breaks camp and moves to Fort Worth, where, on March 25, a daily exhibition program which will carry them through three final spring games in Indianapolis will be launched.

Manager Fonseca tonight announced the lineup for the Longhorn game. It is: Anderson, center field; Poser, left field; Cissell, shortstop; Campbell, right field; Blue, first base; Appling, third base; Hayes, second base; Jolley, catcher; Thomas, Hadley and Bartulis, pitchers.

Owner Lou Comiskey was not here to witness the resumption of activities today. Instead of going to Battle Creek, Mich., to throw off his weather despondency, Mr. Comiskey took his family and fled to Mexico. Efforts are being made to inform him that good weather is back, so he can return if he wants to take a chance on a continuance of same.

POUND VETERAN AFTER GUY BUSH PROTECTS LEAD

Hornsby Seeks More Batting Power.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—The Giants swarmed on Burleigh Grimes, the venerable spitballer, in the seventh inning today, and the result was disastrous. Before he could make the New Yorkers believe he was the same pitcher who starred in the last world series they had rushed him rather boisterously for a cluster of six runs. That was more than sufficient to give them a 7 to 3 victory before 10,000 patrons. It was the third trimming for the Cubs in the five games staged to date.

Everything was all right from a Cub standpoint until Grimes showed up at the start of the sixth. Guy Bush had been on the job ahead of him and he did just about as he usually does when the Giants try to outsmart him during the regular season. Bush permitted them five hits and one run, the latter being the work of Terrible Bill Terry, who sent one over the fence.

Burleigh Wild, Ineffective.

Meanwhile the Chicagoans had collected two runs off Southpaw Bill Walker and with Grimes coming on even this slim margin seemed ample. But Burleigh was wild and when he did get one over the plate it was sent where nobody could reach it.

The Cubs again were shy about getting results from their bats. They hit often enough but many of the safeties were so scattered that there was an epidemic of men dying on the bases. It was bad enough to convince Hornsby after a few innings that he had better make some changes. He did, by yanking Barton, who fanned in one pinch, and Stephenson. But even the newcomers, Lance Richbourg in right and Johnny Moore in left, failed to shatter the influence of Bill Walker and Hal Schumacher.

Cuyler Sleeps on Base.

The Cubs started the first inning as if they planned to make short work of Walker, but a double play halted them with only one run across. Hack walked, and raced to third on English's single past Terry. Cuyler's fly hit the right center field fence for a double, Hack scoring and English stopping at third. Barton struck out. Then Cuyler pulled one which, for a man of his attainments, was rather unusual. Stephenson popped to Jackson in deep short, and while it was obvious that the ball was going to be caught, Cuyler stood half way between third and second. He was doubled without trouble.

Bush, who has a mania for base hits, delivered one in the second, and the excitement over this achievement must have affected his pitching in the Giants' half. Terry's homer to left center started the session. Ott then singled to right, Jackson flied to Stephenson, and Vergez singled to left. O'Farrell's grounder to Hack and Walker's bouncer to English closed this incident.

Hartnett's Arm O. K.

Another limited flurry of hits swirled around Bush in the third. With two out Lindstrom rolled a slow one toward third and beat it for a hit. He hiked to third on Terry's single to center. This brought up the dangerous Ott, but a pop to English was all that happened. In his two remaining innings of pitching, Bush kept the bases clean except for a pass to Koenecke in the fifth. Hartnett tossed out Koenecke in an attempted steal, and there was nothing slow about Gabby's throw.

The Cubs used two hits to put themselves into a 2 to 1 lead in their portion of the third. In response to a warm greeting from the assembled fans who knew him as a coast leaguer, Hack slashed a single to center. English tried to aim a swinging bunt past third, but Vergez flagged it and threw him out. Hack taking second. Cuyler scored him with a single to center.

Before Grimes ran into a hurricane of hits in the seventh he managed to get O'Farrell on a fly to center. Then the parade began to form. Schumacher walked and Eddie Moore singled. Koenecke doubled past third base, and Schumacher scored. Two crossed the plate on Lindstrom's one base smash. Terry singled and a pass to Ott filled the bases. Jackson slammed a hit into center, scoring Lindstrom and Terry and planting Ott on third. The latter scored the sixth run of the inning on a double steal.

The Cubs delayed the inevitable by picking up one run in the ninth. H. Taylor beat out an infield single and went to third on Hemsley's double to left center. Jurges batted for Grimes and was tossed out by Jackson. H. Taylor scored on the play.

DE LA SALLE HIGH MAGIC NAME IN CATHOLIC MEET

Will It Be De La Salle 6th Year in Row?

Previous Winners

1924—Spalding institute, Peoria, Ill.
1925—St. Mel, Chicago, Ill.
1926—St. Xavier, Louisville, Ky.
1927—De La Salle, Joliet, Ill.
1928—De La Salle, Joliet, Ill.
1929—De La Salle, Chicago, Ill.
1930—De La Salle, Chicago, Ill.
1931—De La Salle, Minneapolis, Minn.

Victory in the ninth annual National Catholic High School tournament, which begins Wednesday night at Loyola university gymnasium, will give De La Salle of Minneapolis the distinction of being the third quintet to win the United States championship for two years in a row.

The winners of two consecutive titles are also De La Salle teams—Joliet and Chicago. Joliet captured the championship in 1927 and retained its title in 1928, while De La Salle of Chicago took the national crown in 1929 and 1930.

Two members of the squad which helped De La Salle of Minneapolis win the United States title last year, will lead the quintet in an effort to equal the records of Joliet and Chicago They are Capt. James Sullivan, guard, and Henry Coulombe, forward.

Win 13 of 15 Games.

The Gopher state boys come to Chicago to defend their title with one of the most brilliant season records made by any of the 31 other teams which will compete in the meet. They recently won the Northwest Catholic High School league title, finishing the season with 13 victories and 2 defeats.

There will be two other teams—Cretin of St. Paul, and St. Mary's of Bird Island representing the state of Minnesota in the tournament. St. Mary's is the smallest school in the meet, having an enrollment of only 31 boys.

De La Salle Is Favorite.

While there are many who believe De La Salle of Minneapolis will have little trouble in sweeping through the tournament for its second straight title, there will be champions of eight states blocking its path. Among them is Father Ryan of Nashville, Tenn., which finished third in last year's meet.

Others include Cathedral High school of Indianapolis, Ind.; St. Benedict's of Shawnee, Okla., and Bishop England of Charleston, S. C. Cathedral will be the Hoosier state's outstanding contender for the national championship, having defeated the strong Jasper academy squad for the Indiana state title two weeks ago.

Bishop England, better known as the "Little Bishops," will make another bid for the title with a veteran squad. Bishop England won the South Carolina state crown with a 30 to 27 victory over Greer and has lost only one game in 19 this season.

St. Louis Man Rolls 1,921 to Lead in A.B.C.

Detroit, Mich., March 13.—(AP)—New leaders appeared in the 32d renewal of the American Bowling Congress as a result of the bombardment by late squads here today.

Sam Garafalo, St. Louis, crashed through to lead in the all-events with a total of 1,921. Garafalo, rolling in his second A. B. C., counted 649 in the team event and followed with 612 and 660 in the doubles and singles, respectively.

Fritz Bauman's sensational 710 count in th singles division was followed by a 685 by Ray Newton, St. Louis. Bauman, of Columbus, O., has an excellent chance to win the singles championship. His score was high enough to win 21 former A. B. C. individual titles. The leaders:

Sophomore Named Captain of Dartmouth Basket Team

Hanover, N. H., March 13.—[Special.]—George Stangle of East Hartford, Conn., was elected captain of the Dartmouth basketball team at a meeting of the lettermen today. The election of Stangle, who starred as a forward and guard, broke a long precedent, inasmuch as the new Green leader is a sophomore. His first year on the team, however, marked him as one of the outstanding defensive players in the league.

SKATING GROUP TO MEET.

The bimonthly meeting of the board of control of the Illinois Western Skating association will be held tonight at the Chicago Stadium.

MADONNA TIES LAFAYETTE FOR SECTION LEAD

Quigley's 15 to 14 victory knocked Lafayette out of undisputed first place in the Central division of the Knights of Columbus basketball league yesterday at St. Agnes gymnasium. Madonna, which moved into a tie for the lead, almost met the same fate as Lafayette, but a basket by Joyce with ten seconds to play, brought a 25 to 24 triumph over Cardinal. Quigley lineup:

Maier-Nichols Battle Heads Week's Card

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Promoters in Chicago, Boston, and New York came to the rescue of a sparse national boxing program this week. At Chicago Stadium on Friday night Dave Maier of Milwaukee and George Nicholds of Buffalo, a pair of southpaws, will fight ten rounds for National Boxing association recognition as light heavyweight champion.

Boston offers two heavyweight shows. Arthur De Kuh of New York and Jack Dorval of Boston will fight ten rounds tomorrow night. The Boston Garden's Friday night show is topped by a ten round bout between Charley Retzlaff of Duluth and Jack McCarthy of Boston. On this card Jack Sharkey will box two round exhibitions against Pedro Lopez and Eddie Malcolm.

MONDAY—At Boston: Arthur De Kuh vs. Jack Dorval, heavyweights, 10.

TUESDAY—At Los Angeles: Naugie Curtis vs. Star Frisco, flyweights, and Dynamite Jackson vs. Royal Elliott, heavyweights; each 10. At Indianapolis—Frankie Hughes vs. Barney Ross, welterweights, 10. At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Ray Tramblie vs. Willie Oster, light heavyweights, 10.

WEDNESDAY — At Oakland, Cal.: Tom Heeney vs. Hans Birkie, heavyweights, 10. At San Francisco—Denny Lenhart vs. Jimmy Hannah, light heavyweights, 10. At Seattle—Fred Lenhart vs. Mike Arnold, heavyweights, and Freddy Steele vs. Lee Page, welterweights; each 6.

THURSDAY—At St. Paul, Harry Dublinsky vs. Tommy Grogan, and Larry Udell vs. Danny Gaspard, heavyweights; each 10. At Tacoma, Wash.—Abie Israel vs. Jimmy Deleon, featherweights, 6.

FRIDAY—At Boston, Jack McCarthy vs. Charley Retzlaff, heavyweights, 10; Jack Sharkey exhibition against Pedro Lopez and Eddie Malcolm. At Chicago—Dave Maier vs. George Nichols, light heavyweights, 10 [for N. B. A. title]; Ben Jeby vs. Frankie Battaglia, middleweights, and Baxter Calmes vs. James J. Braddock, heavyweights; each 10. At New York—Sammy Fuller vs. Billy Wallace, lightweights; Franta Nekolny vs. Morrie Sherman, welterweights; Al Rossi vs. Harold Henderson, middleweights, and Henry Devine vs. Tony Falco, lightweights; each 10. At San Francisco — Joe Sekyra vs. Leroy Haynes, heavyweights, 10. At Hollywood—Paulie Walker vs. Johnny Evans, 10.

Phils Defeat Cards, 2-0, to Win First Tilt

Winter Haven, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The Phillies showed the St. Louis Cardinals and 500 shivering fans their wares today, winning their first exhibition game of the season, 2 to 0.

The Cardinals gathered only four hits off Ed Holley, Reg Grabowski and Phil Collins. In their turn, Hallahan, Johnson and Derringer, pitching for the Cards, were nicked for seven hits.

The Athletics arrived today for a game with the Phils tomorrow. It was too cold for their scheduled game with Indianapolis.

Score:

St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	0
Phillies	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	*	2	7	0

Batteries—Hallahan, Johnson, Derringer and Mancuso, Gonsales; Holley, Grabowski, Collins and Todd.

TIGERS WIN AND LOSE.

San Francisco, Cal., March 13.—(AP)—The San Francisco Missions of the Pacific Coast league found the offerings of two Detroit pitchers to their liking here today and amassed 14 hits to defeat the American leaguers, 9 to 3, in the final of a double Sunday exhibition bill. The Tigers defeated the San Francisco Seals, 4 to 1, this morning.

The Missions scored five runs in the first two innings and never were in danger. The Tigers were unable to cross home plate until the eighth when a three base hit by Fritz and a sacrifice fly by Rogell were converted into a tally. A ninth inning rally was cut short after two runs were scored. The score:

Missions [P. C. L.]	2	3	0	1	1	0	2	0	*	9	14	1

Batteries—Whitehill, Hamlin and Ruel, Desaultels; Cole, Chagnow and Ricci, Hoffman.

DODGERS TAKE REDS, 5-3.

Tampa, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers opened their spring exhibition season today by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3, in a chilly ball game.

Brooklyn got off ahead in the first inning when Ike Boone nicked Larry Benton for a triple with O'Doul on base and then scored on Murray Howell's single. The Reds scored in the first and took the lead three innings later. Al Lopez, a home town boy, tied the score for the Dodgers with a triple in the fifth and Hack Wilson drove in the winning run with a seventh inning double after Finn and O'Doul had singled. Si Johnson was losing pitcher. Score:

Brooklyn [N.]	2	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	5	10	1
Cincinnati [N.]	0	0	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	3	9	1

Batteries—Moore, Jones, Heimach and Lopez, Lombardi; Benton, Johnson, Carroll and Sukeforth, Manion.

INDIANS, PELICANS TIE, 5-5.

New Orleans, La., March 13.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians and the New Orleans Pelicans shivered through a 5 to 5 tie here today in the second game of their exhibition series. Four have been called off because of cold weather. Score:

Cleveland	0	0	2	0	3	0	0	0	5	6	2
New Orleans	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	1	5	8	3

Batteries—Craghead, Hildebrand, Lawson and Sewell, Pytlak; Sundra, Edwards, Perrin, Hahn and Parks.

PIRATES BEAT OAKLAND, 3-1.

Oakland, Cal., March 13.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates opened their exhibition tour today by defeating Oakland of the Coast league, 3 to 1, in a morning game. The score:

Pittsburgh	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	3	8	1

RED SOX SHIVER IN WORKOUT.

Savannah, Ga., March 13.—(AP)—The Red Sox shivered through an abbreviated workout today, taking things easy to avoid danger of catching cold. Although the day was raw, the infielders spent an hour chasing hoppers, with the veteran Marty McManus bounding about like a rookie.

Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., will meet Johnny Layton, a ten time holder of the world's title, in a 500 point three cushion billiard match, which opens this afternoon at Bensinger's Randolph street billiard room. The match will be played in ten blocks of 50 points each.

MIDWEST LEAGUE MEETS.

The Midwest Baseball league will meet tonight at the league's headquarters, 210 West Madison street.

SEEDED PLAYERS HAVE NO TROUBLE IN INDOOR MEET

New York, March 13.—(AP)—With the opening day task of reducing the field from 80 contestants to 34 over, players in the National Indoor tennis championships took their customary day of rest today in preparation for the more important matches to come.

None of the 13 seeded players found any serious trouble in the first and second round matches which were run off yesterday, four of them romping through two matches. Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore, sixth on the list, did not play, however. His second round match against Robert Glickstein of New York was postponed until tomorrow.

George Lott, top seeded player, ran into difficulty in getting used to the board floor, but said he expected to be able to adapt his game to conditions after a couple of matches.

The third round singles matches tomorrow also look fairly easy for the three invading French aces and the 10 Americans who were picked as the leaders in the attempt to recover the title from Jean Borotra.

Taylor Trunk Five Beats House of David, 9 to 6

Led by Cassie Martin, the Taylor Trunks defeated the House of David basketball team last night, 9 to 6, at White City. The Trunks led at the end of the first half, 5 to 0. Tucker, J. Crowe and M. Crowe scored the House of David's points, each sinking a basket in the second half.

City Nites Gain Tie for Postoffice Lead

City Nites defeated Hyde Park, 24 to 16, yesterday at the 8th Regiment armory, thereby gaining a tie with Lake View for the championship of the Chicago Postoffice Basketball league. Lake View won from Central Nites, 31 to 16, and Mailing division beat Station C, 35 to 6.

Olympic Ring Trials April 5 at Loyola

The annual Central A. A. U. boxing championships and the sectional Olympic trials of the United States are to be combined and will be held at the Loyola University gymnasium, 6525 Sheridan road, April 5 to 8.

The tournament will be conducted by the Central A. A. U. Winners will be sent to New York to compete in the national championships the second week in April. The ultimate victors will compete for positions on the United States Olympic team. During the week of this tournament no other amateur boxing will be sanctioned.

Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, will ask the New York Athletic commission to sanction the 15 round bout between Vince Dundee of Baltimore, and Chick Devlin, Vancouver, Can., at New York March 24, as the world's middleweight championship match. Gorilla Jones, recognized as champion by the National Boxing association, is signed to meet Marcel Thil at Paris June 21. Johnston hopes to match the winners of these two bouts.

Buck Everett, former Golden Gloves champion, announced last night that he had been matched to fight Chuck Wiggins at Indianapolis March 31. The Gary heavyweight also said that he will sign today to meet Yale Okun of New York at Indianapolis March 22.

Dutch Leonard will replace Leo Larrivee against Henry Firpo, Newcastle middleweight, at Boston next Monday night. Larrivee, who lost to Firpo recently, said he was unable to go through with the second match. Leonard knocked out Eddie Odonus on the first Firpo-Larrivee card.

QUEEN OF HEAVEN WINS C. Y. O. CAGE CHAMPIONSHIP

Sacred Heart Captures Boys' Title.

Four Catholic youth organization basketball champions were crowned yesterday at the 132d Infantry armory before a crowd of 6,000.

The champions are Sacred Heart in the men's lightweight division; Queen of Heaven in the men's heavyweight class; St. Philip Neri in the girl's section, and St. Mary's Training school in the grammar school boy's division.

Sacred Heart and St. Mary's Training school won their games in the final minute, Sacred Heart beating Our Lady of Sorrows, 19 to 18, when Frank Kropik dropped a shot hit with less than a minute to go. St. Mary's triumphed over Lady of Sorrow, 14 to 13 on Jimmy Cominsky's free throw in the last thirty seconds. This was St. Mary's third consecutive grammar school championship.

St. Philip Girls Win.

The Mary Queen of Heaven five, champions of the Cicero sectional tournament, had a comparatively easy time whipping St. Andrew's, second place winners of the north side, 32 to 18. Bill Zahrobsky, center for Queen of Heaven, led the scoring with ten points.

The St. Philip Neri girls scored a one sided victory over the Victorians, west side champions, 14 to 5. Inza Teague scored seven points for St. Philip. Helen Murray scored the lone basket for the runnersup.

Boys Go East.

The two boy's division champions, Sacred Heart and Queen of Heaven, by their victories, were nominated to meet the champions of the Fordham Juvenile league in New York, March 30. The grammar school championships will receive scholarships to Catholic high schools in Chicago. Scores:

MARCH WEATHER MEANS NOTHING TO HORNED OWL

Builds Home Despite Snow and Ice.

BY BOB BECKER.

Trying to keep up a home without artificial heat and at the same time maintain the health of several youngsters during such weather as we had last week in Chicagoland seems an impossibility, but there is one bird watching over its home and hatching eggs at this time of the year and thinking nothing about it.

This rugged home builder that gets a running jump on all other nesting birds in the central states is the great horned owl, the "tiger" among birds. Although at times these feathered predators may begin their nesting operations in January, usually they are guarding their eggs either in February or early March. Snow and ice mean nothing to this big owl. Before winter has departed a pair of them will take over an old hawk or crow nest, add a few improvements and settle down to housekeeping.

Few Stay Here in Spring.

While not many outdoor fans have an opportunity to see great horned owls in Chicagoland there are a few of the birds nesting here each spring. Of course they are not in the habit of traveling much during the day, so one might spend considerable time in the woods and not see one. This strong and savage predator prefers to do his hunting after dark and then his quiet wings get busy as he roams over the country in search of food.

The only specimens of horned owls that we have seen were close to the Fox river, a few miles below Yorkville. Song birds squalling and crying led us to the birds. There were two young owls in the group. Although it was early May, a time when the majority of our birds are just beginning to busy themselves with nesting duties, these owls were large, husky birds that had been hatched early.

Farmers Urged to Kill Them.

Farmers and estate owners should not hesitate in exterminating these owls if they are trying to increase the numbers of quail, pheasants, ducks and other game on their property.

In the wild state, away from a heavy concentration of game birds in a given area, this big owl kills both game birds and their enemies, thus achieving some merit and balance in his hunting.

Therefore it is a safe bet that on a given tract of land where one wants to protect all kinds of bird life, the best course is to trap or shoot the great horned owls.

Measure Big Ten Track Aces for Olympic Team Uniforms

Big Ten track and field athletes undoubtedly will be an important factor in the selection of the United States Olympic team next summer, ccaches and officials agreed yesterday following the breaking of five records and the tying of a sixth in the conference indoor meet at the University of Chicago fieldhouse Saturday night.

At least two Big Ten men are considered certainties for the Olympic team. They are Henry Brocksmith of Indiana and Don Renwick of Michigan. Brocksmith's time of 4:12.5 in the mile, which is 9 1-10 seconds faster than the old conference mark set by Dale Letts of Chicago last year, is the third best time recorded for the event this season.

Renwick Ties World's Record.

Renwick, who became known at Ann Arbor in his freshman year for his repeated victories over Eddie Tolan, did not break the conference record in the 60 yard sprint, but tied it at :06.2, and since the world's record for the distance is the same as that of the Big Ten, the Michigan flier's effort places him among the outstanding sprinters of the day.

Michigan presented another sterling runner in Russell, who lowered the conference quarter mile record when he defeated De Baker, a teammate, and Fuqua, Indiana sophomore, in :50, 1-10 of a second faster than the record established by Baird of Iowa in 1928.

Brocksmith climaxed his evening's effort by winning the 2 mile in record time. These two victories led Indiana to the first conference track championship in its history. Brocksmith's time in the 2 mile was 8:18.4, eight seconds faster than the mark set by Chapman of Wisconsin in 1926 and tied by Abbott of Illinois in 1929.

Munn Breaks Shot Record.

The other two record breaking performances came in the shot put and the mile relay. Clarence Munn, Minnesota football star and winner of THE TRIBUNE trophy, threw the 16 pound weight 48 feet 9½ inches, one-fourth of an inch farther than Sammy Behr's winning toss in 1931. Michigan clipped one and one-tenth seconds off the mile relay record established by the Iowa quartet of Stevenson, Stamats, Baird, and Cuhel in 1928. The Michigan team was composed of Lemen, Ellerby, De Baker, and Russell, and ran the distance in 3:21.1.

Aside from its record performances Saturday's meet stood out for the rise of Indiana and its spirited fight for the title with Michigan. The outcome hinged on the final event, the pole vault, which went to Beecher of Indiana, who cleared 13 feet 8 inches. Beecher's victory gave the Hoosiers a margin of five-sixths of a point over Michigan, which finished second with 27.

Minnesota Is Third.

Minnesota, with Munn its only victor, was third with 12 points, one and one-third more than Illinois. The showing of Illinois was not unexpected. The Illini lost the title to Michigan last year, and this season had been beaten in dual meets by Notre Dame and Indiana. Illinois' chief threat in Saturday's meet was Dean Woolsey, miler, but Woolsey could do no better than second behind Brocksmith and was beaten by 30 yards.

Rich Havana Race to Lady Broadcast

HAVANA, March 13.—(AP)—Lady Broadcast, 6 year old daughter of Messenger-Conscious, owned by Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City, won the Cuban Grand National, closing day feature at Oriental Park today.

The Grand National carried an added value of $10,000 and netted the winning owner $9,950. Lady Broadcast, carrying top weight, led home Burning Up from the Denmark stable, while F. E. Carrideau's Kincsen was third over S. S. Fredlein's Fortunate Youth. George Collins' Thistle Fyrn was the other starter in the field.

With today's program the seventeenth annual winter meeting of the Havana American Jockey club came to a close.

There was but a short delay at the post for the feature event. Lady Broadcast acted unruly for a brief spell, lunging at the barrier. Burning Up was rushed into the lead and showed the way to the first turn. Fortunate Youth was after him with Lady Broadcast, Thistle Fyrn, and Kincsen bringing up the rear.

These positions were retained until the field was well settled for the run through the back stretch. Thistle Fyrn improved his position along with Lady Broadcast, while Hanford, who had the mount on Kincsen, brought him up around the bend. Fortunate Youth floundered when put under pressure coming into the home stretch. Lady Broadcast came outside of the leader entering the stretch, drew away, and won easily in hand. Burning Up saved the place by a length from Kincsen.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company in fairness to its millions of customers feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened a year ago when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

For more than twenty-nine years the Gillette Safety Razor Company has been the acknowledged leader of its industry. Last year, consistent with a long established policy of improving our product whenever ways and means could be found for so doing, we developed a new razor and blade. Soon after this was done, we found to our great disappointment that the public was not as enthusiastic about the new Gillette blade as we had confidently expected it would be.

We learned why. Our equipment had been over-taxed in producing 15,000,000 new razors and ten times that many blades to supply the world market at one time. Quality had been sacrificed without our realizing it. Immediately everything possible was done to bring quality back to the established Gillette standard. More than this, we determined to prevent the possibility of similar trouble occurring in the future. Accordingly we set out to develop or find a better production process, impossible as this seemed of accomplishment at the time. We consulted one precision authority after another, laid our problem before qualified experts everywhere. Finally we discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality. Furthermore, it produces an incomparably keen, smooth-shaving blade. We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment. Factory procedure was changed from start to finish.

Now we announce today's new Gillette blade, built by an entirely new process, a marvelous blade that gives cleaner, cooler shaves than you have ever before known. Every dealer in your town has this Gillette blade. None of the old blades are in stock. The price of the green and black Gillette package remains unchanged but the blade is new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

You can try today's new process Gillette blade without risking a cent. If you don't agree it is far superior, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of this Gillette blade, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

PRICE AND PACKAGE UNCHANGED

For trade-mark reasons the green Gillette package has not been changed. We positively assure you, however, that the blade is entirely new. There is no price increase.

TRADE DECLINE FINDS REFLEX IN U. S. STEEL

But Stockholders Are Increased.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Last year was a disastrous period for the steel industry and the United States Steel corporation suffered severely. But American investors still have faith in the future of the big corporation and so have its employés, as shown by data given in the annual report, made public last night and signed jointly by J. P. Morgan, chairman, and James A. Farrell, retiring president.

In fact, United States Steel had more stockholders at the end of 1931 than at the close of 1930, despite the drastic decline in market prices for its shares. There were 223,272 registered stockholders on Dec. 31, 1931, compared with 189,990 on Dec. 31, 1930, an increase of 33,282. It is notable that the entire increase was represented by holders of the common stock, who numbered 179,572 at the end of 1931, compared with 145,566 at the end of 1930, an increase of 34,006.

Less Employé-Stockholders.

While there was a reduction in the number of employé-stockholders last year, it was surprisingly small in view of the inevitable shrinkage in working forces and an increase in part-time employment. There were 55,038 employé-stockholders at the end of 1931 and they owned 101,743 preferred and 799,444 common shares. Thus, every fourth stockholder was an employé and the employés held nearly 10 per cent of the total common stock.

At the end of 1930 there were 57,018 employé-stockholders owning 111,072 preferred and 803,328 common shares, while 16,814 others were buying stock. However, the average number of employés last year was only 203,674, compared with 211,055 in 1930, while total pay rolls in 1931 were only $266,871,413, compared with $391,271,366 in 1930.

Decrease Shown Throughout.

The severe shrinkage in operations and sales is shown in other figures. United States Steel subsidiaries operated at an average rate of only 38 per cent of capacity last year, compared with 65.6 per cent in 1930, while the total value of their business was only $729,377,467, compared with $1,180,934,971. The average price of steel products shipped was $4.48 a ton less than in 1930. Total shipments last year were 7,676,744 tons, compared with 11,624,484 tons in 1930.

The report throws additional light on the drastic decline in earnings, which were summarized in a preliminary statement issued in January. United States Steel had an operating loss of $833,894 for 1931 and a deficit of $6,303,518 after interest charges. However, special income of $19,341,659 was derived from profits on sales of fixed property and net adjustments of various accounts, which enabled the corporation to show net income of $13,038,140, equivalent to $3.61 a share on the preferred stock.

New Steel Output Smaller.

But preferred dividends required $25,219,677 and common stock dividends took $36,983,949, or a total of $62,203,626. This resulted in a net deficit for the year of $49,165,485. After surplus adjustments, a total of $49,945,567 was deducted from earned undivided surplus, which now stands at $421,837,191. In addition, the corporation drew on its reserves for a total of $12,082,185 in order to permit a write down of $5,395,996 in inventories, $1,570,626 on marketable securities, and the balance for payments of contingent liabilities accrued largely in previous years in excess of allowances from operations. This earnings record compares with net income of $104,465,774 in 1930, which was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $9.11 a share on the common stock.

"In 1931 the production of raw steel in the United States declined to about 26 million tons, a reduction of 15 million tons compared with the preceding year and 30 million tons less than were produced in 1929," the report concludes. "The average annual production during the ten years, 1922 to 1931 inclusive, was 43 million tons. It seems reasonable to suppose that on the basis of average demand for steel products during the last ten years, the requirements of this country for maintenance and current uses alone, exclusive of development and expansion, should call for steel products in considerably greater tonnage than was consumed in 1931."

Westinghouse Shares Losses of Year 1931

The full force of economic depression struck the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company last year, according to A. W. Robertson, chairman, and F. A. Merrick, president, who made public their joint annual report last night. While the company operated at a profit for the first five months of 1931, the ensuing seven months resulted in considerable loss.

The net loss from ordinary operations last year was $3,033,209. But to this was added $4,278,110 for foreign exchange losses and the decline in net current assets in foreign countries, and also $5,671,379 for writing down investments and securities. Finally, dividends took $6,996,548. The final deficit was $16,323,588, which resulted in reducing surplus to $79,050,324. Net income for 1930 was $11,881,705, which was equivalent to $4.45 a share on the preferred and common stocks, although there was a deficit after dividends of $1,445,023.

Orders Show Decline.

Sales billed last year totaled $115,393,082, compared with $180,283,579 in 1930, while orders received totaled $128,014,820, compared with $170,810,267. Because of some large orders, notably electric locomotives for the Pennsylvania railroad, unfilled orders at the end of 1931 totaled $40,024,390, which was almost the same as the $40,208,181 at the end of 1930.

The average number of employés last year was 21,276, compared with 43,827 in 1930, while pay rolls totaled $55,980,470, compared with $81,921,432. The company had 53,079 registered stockholders on Dec. 31, 1931, compared with 48,454 on Dec. 31, 1930. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1931, shows current assets of $100,522,486, current liabilities of $7,368,011, and total assets and liabilities of $222,819,777.

Western Electric Report.

The annual report of the Western Electric company, manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, shows sales of $228,956,000 for 1931, compared with $361,478,000 in 1930. Net earnings were $10,816,337, which was equivalent to $1.80 cents a share. Dividends of $1.75 a share totaled $10,500,000. Net earnings for 1930 were $15,624,829, or $2.60 a share.

It is stated that Western Electric received dividends amounting to $3,593,542 from its subsidiaries last year but these were paid out of surplus and earnings, as the subsidiaries showed an operating loss of approximately $2,500,000.

CHICAGO CONCERN ENTERS CANADIAN TANK CAR MERGER

Consolidation of the Canadian interests of the General American Tank Car corporation with those of the Canadian Tank Car company has been announced by the General American, which has its general offices in Chicago. The new company resulting from this merger will be called the Canadian Transit Co., Ltd., and its operations will be dominion-wide.

The Canadian Tank Car company was organized last fall by the Canadian Car and Foundry Co., Ltd., to specialize in the leasing of tank cars. This was brought about by the Canadian railway commission ruling in 1931 that tank cars should be owned or leased by shippers, and no longer supplied by the railroads themselves.

The General American company has been an active participant in Canadian railway transportation for several years.

The pooling of the cars and resources of the General American Tank Car corporation and the Canadian Car and Foundry company will greatly enlarge facilities available for Canadian shippers and has the full coöperation of the Canadian railroads. The Canadian General Transit Co., Ltd., will have headquarters in Montreal. Election of officers, incorporation, and other organization details have not been completed.

RAILWAYS BUY MORE WHILE OTHERS DELAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—A somewhat more liberal policy in buying by the railroads, offsetting to some extent the waiting policy now characterizing the automobile industry, was probably the most cheerful development of last week in industry. Otherwise the light industries continue to provide most of the cheer in the current situation.

73 EAST ELM ST. BUILDING TO BE SOLD ON MAY 16

Committee Hopes to Bid It In.

Holders of bonds in the twelve story 73 East Elm apartment building have just been notified that the property will be offered for sale to the highest bidder on Monday, May 16, and that the Bondholders' Protective committee will endeavor to bid in the property at the lowest price possible for the benefit of the bondholders who have deposited their bonds. Securities that have been turned in to the committee will be used as part payment of the purchase price, the letter sent out by T. E. Williams, secretary of the Bondholders' Protective committee, states.

H. E. DEVEREAUX. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The 73 East Elm apartments were financed by a $750,000 bond issue dated Nov. 1, 1927, underwritten by the Equitable Bond and Mortgage company at 6½%. It contains forty-eight unfurnished suites of four and five rooms each. Principal and interest defaulted May 1, 1930.

Pettibone Heads Committee.

Holman D. Pettibone is chairman of the Bondholders' Protective committee, which is composed of H. E. Devereaux, vice president of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank; Frederick J. Stebbins, W. J. McGuire, and Harold M. O'Brien, all of Chicago, and N. H. Dosker of Louisville, Ky., G. L. Hughes of Jacksonville, Ill., and C. A. Miller of Kankakee, Ill. Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin are attorneys. The Chicago Title and Trust company is depository.

"On April 24, 1931, a decree of sale was entered in the proceedings brought to foreclose the trust deed as a result of default in payment of principal and interest on bonds of the 73 East Elm property, which under ordinary conditions would have permitted the committee immediately to proceed to sale" stated the letter to the bondholders, "but owing to our inability to arrange for a loan on the property it was necessary to wait until earnings had accumulated to a point sufficient to pay expenses incident to the sale."

May 2, 1932, Is Deadline.

Mr. Williams also announced that Monday, May 2, 1932, has been fixed by the committee as the last day on which the depositary is to accept bonds of this issue for deposit.

"It is imperative that all outstanding bonds be immediately deposited in order that the sale will not have to be postponed and that the committee may have enough bonds to enable it to bid at the sale," the letter states.

HAT, MILLINERY WORKERS SIGN COLLECTIVE PACT

New York, March 13.—(AP)—For the first time in a decade the organized hat, cap and millinery workers of New York have signed a collective agreement with a manufacturers' association.

Their agreement with the newly organized Women's Headgear Group, Inc., was announced today by Max Zaritzky, international union president, who said it was reached in accordance with suggestions made by Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Their suggestions, Zaritzky said, brought about the two year agreement which provides for a 40-hour week distributed over five days instead of the 44-hour week previously maintained. Overtime, permitted only if workers are employed full time, will be paid for at time and a half rates.

VARIED FACTORS KEEP BOTH WHOLESALE AND RETAIL TRADE ACTIVE

Advance sales of seasonal goods, combined with a resumption of winter demands brought on by Chicago's unexpected cold wave, kept wholesale and retail trade in the city at fairly normal levels during the last week, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Confidence on the whole appeared much better, with new money making its appearance as workers for the Citizens' Reconstruction organization and the Chicago campaign for the reëmployment of men and money began their respective city-wide canvasses.

The opening of the new Sears Roebuck store also aided in keeping activities up to par.

Coal dealers reported such greatly increased consumption and sales that their distributors found themselves without sufficient fuel to supply unexpected orders. Stocks and loaded cars in the retail yards were almost entirely consumed.

Indications of the optimism prevailing in certain business circles in Chicago were reflected in the announcement by one large local cigar manufacturer that during 1932 they would use twenty jobbers in the city instead of the one who previously controlled their local distribution.

JEWEL TEA CO. BUYS 77 STORES FROM LOBLAW

Acquisition of the seventy-seven Chicago stores of Loblaw Groceterias, Inc., by the Jewel Tea company has been completed, according to announcement made yesterday by the latter firm. The deal which has been under way for several weeks gives Jewel its first retail outlets in a metropolitan center.

Previously the firm's business has been confined to distribution through a system of delivery routes throughout the country.

It also was announced that Jewel had acquired the entire business of the Middle West Stores company operating four stores. The new properties will be operated under separated management as a subsidiary known as Jewel Food Stores, Inc.

The acquisitions will not affect the development of the company's present system of distribution, but will enable it to develop business in Chicago and other areas of concentrated population where wagon routes cannot operate economically, officials stated.

SEES CUSTOMERS AMONG COMPANY STOCKHOLDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—The rapid increase in the number of stockholders in American corporations during the last two years is welcomed by the managements of these companies as affording an opportunity to build up a large and loyal group of customers. So Colby M. Chester, president of the General Foods corporation, declared yesterday. Many large corporations are seeking to increase the number of shareholders, Mr. Chester said, with a view of utilizing the good will created through the partnership relationship. He said there are 53,000 stockholders in this corporation.

Radio Corporation Report Shows $768,900 Net for 1931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—Included in the pamphlet report of Radio Corporation of America, which shows a net income of $768,900 for 1931, equal to $1.95 a share earned on 395,597 A preferred shares, is a consent form through which common and class A stockholders may assent to a $45,258,200 reduction in capital and surplus proposed by a committee appointed by the directors. In 1930, net income was $5,526,293, equal to $13.97 a share on the class A shares.

The plan submitted by the committee, following conferences with executive officers of the company, recommends first, that the 36,100 shares of class B preferred stock and the 30,060 shares of common stock in the treasury of the corporation be retired.

Second, that the capital represented by the common stock be reduced from about $4.22 a share to $2 a share.

Other Provisions.

Third, that against capital surplus so created there be charged a total of about $21,733,500 for reduction of book values of certain fixed assets and reserves for certain investments and contingencies of the company and subsidiaries, and that the balance of about $8,323,900 remaining be not available for dividends, but be added to the general reserve, increasing it to $9,823,900.

Fourth, that against earned surplus of $26,528,600 there be charged about $15,200,800, representing cost of treasury stock retired, writedown of inventories and reserve for certain investments and contingencies, after which adjustments the earned surplus will be $11,327,789.

The consolidated balance sheet in the annual report gives effect to this revision. Consent of a majority of the total number of outstanding shares of the company having voting power is necessary. The B preferred stock has no voting powers.

Gross income from operations was $100,124,847, against $132,361,908 in 1930, and costs and expenses were $91,099,218, against $122,115,230. Other income was $2,520,573, against $4,775,688, making total income of $11,546,202, against $14,922,386 in 1930. An amount of $7,842,912 was charged to depreciation and $965,206 to loss on foreign exchange, against $6,632,557 depreciation in 1930.

Assets Are $44,242,620.

In the revised balance sheet fixed assets are carried at $44,242,620, after reserves, including $4,863,363 patents contracts and similar assets at cost, less reserves, against $63,338,234 the year before, of which $3,462,463 were patents and similar intangibles.

"Radio was no less affected than older or more seasoned industries by the world-wide subnormal business conditions prevailing throughout the year, by the decline in price levels and by unemployment which curtailed the purchasing power of many families," James G. Harbord, chairman, and David Sarnoff, president, say in their report.

DEEP ROCK OIL EARNINGS DROP SHARPLY IN 1931

Preliminary earnings of Deep Rock Oil corporation and subsidiaries for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, show a decrease in gross earnings totaling $5,186,902, or 27.70 per cent, and a decrease in net operating earnings of $1,087,471, or 51.90 per cent, compared with the previous year, according to John J. O'Brien, president of the company.

Continued overproduction of crude oil resulted in the lowering of prices of both crude and refined products and was the main factor having an adverse effect on earnings of the company, Mr. O'Brien stated. The average price for crude oil during 1931 was 67 cents a barrel, compared with a price of $1.30 a barrel in 1930.

During 1931 the company drilled seventeen wells which resulted in twelve oil wells and two gas wells.

Other Wall Street Crises Recalled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—The tradition rather generally held in the markets, that nothing of high financial importance will happen in the first eight or ten weeks of a new year, has certainly failed of fulfillment in 1932.

As a matter of fact, however, March has not infrequently been a month of highly important developments. That is especially true at times when, for better or worse, the situation was "on the turn." Nobody, even in these days of short financial memories, will have forgotten the "March market" of 1929, when a paralyzing contraction of credit foreshadowed for two or three days what was to happen seven months later.

The older Wall street records tell a similar story of the same month preceding the autumn panics of 1907 and 1873.

Signals Often Favorable.

There have been, however, numerous occasions on which March financial markets gave an agreeable signal, usually of a relaxing strain, and they have clearly served that purpose this year. Probably, in future recollections of the market, the present month will be chiefly associated with the emphatic signs of returning composure given by the home and foreign bank rates.

The events also include the somewhat sensational recovery in sterling, the steady appreciation of American bond values, the sudden cessation of bank failures, the release of hoarded money indicated by the last fortnight's return and cancellation of $25,000,000 in federal reserve notes, as compared with $3,000,000 in the same weeks last year. This combination of events, within so short a time, has made up an interesting picture, the different parts of which were unusually consistent.

While such things are happening, the financial mind always is apt to apply to them particular rather than general significance. The double re-

THE Northern Trust Company has condensed into this booklet, plans to meet almost every situation for which one may wish to provide in his Will.

An intensely human manual, it avoids legal phraseology, gives in a nutshell the essence of tried and proven estate conserving plans which this institution has had under observation since 1889.

It suggests the means of meeting, in your Will, many specific needs. It provides a memory-jogging form which when filled out becomes a guide for your attorney in the preparation of your Will.

You and your attorney are cordially invited not only to use this book but to consult with Northern Trust officers about your individual needs.

Such conferences in many cases develop suggestions of real and lasting benefit to the estate. They make it easier for you to decide upon the best and safest means of projecting your desires and your judgment down through the years.

Northern Trust executives are always at your service. Call at the Trust Department, at our home on the Northwest corner of La Salle and Monroe Streets. Or write for this manual. It is called "Practical Suggestions for Making your Will."

THE DIRECTORS OF THE NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY ARE:

duction in the London bank rate, bankers have been at pains to explain as an expression of the bank's dislike of the violent rise in sterling, and an effort to make a further rise less probable.

On last week's episode in sterling, comments cabled from London reflected a state of mind so unusual that the American reader of them was puzzled.

It was not difficult to understand why a change of great suddenness and violence from a depreciated exchange rate is disliked. An advance of 6 per cent in a week and of 13 per cent in a few weeks can hardly be convenient to merchants who have based their business contracts on the previous rate, and it may conceivably be disastrous.

Recalls Corner on Gold.

When Jay Gould's famous gold corner broke down on Black Friday of our own depreciated money year 1869, and the price of gold fell from 162 to 129, what had actually happened was appreciation in the currency's gold value from 61¾ cents on the dollar to 77½. That might have been correctly described even then as a sign of promise, but the sudden change brought a sheaf of mercantile failures at New York.

Nevertheless, intelligent observers were aware in 1869, as they are in 1932, that such vicissitudes were the natural, even if unpleasant, penalty of "going off the gold standard." What is more hard to understand about some of last week's London comments is a kind of resentment that the pound sterling should rise at all; resentment that any one should talk of appreciation of the currency's value as in any respect favorable. When a chancellor of the exchequer declares to parliament, regarding the standard of value, that he "doesn't want to be dogmatic over what the basis should be," there are those who will wonder exactly what has come over the financial or political mind abroad.

Bond Prices Advance.

The slow but continuous marking up of values for absurdly depreciated bonds of high grade American companies was partly the direct result of the reconstruction corporation's activities. Those acts were designed to put an end to needless sacrifice sales of sound investments by banks and other companies.

It was due largely to an indirect result of returning mental balance. It is by no means impossible that even the emergence of hoarded money from its hiding place has helped the investment market.

Swift International.

Kindly let me know about Swift International stock. How much are dividends on it, when are they paid and what date should the stock be of record to receive them?—T. B.

Compania Swift Internacional, S. A. C. [Swift International] was incorporated in 1918 under the laws of the Argentine republic to take over the South American and Australian business of Swift & Co. The principal markets for its beef, mutton, oil, canned meats and extracts are in Europe. The United States is the principal market for its hides, skins, wool, and fertilizers.

Earnings in 1931 continued the uninterrupted upward trend started in 1925 and established a new high record. Profit was $6,611,000, or $4.41 per share. Net for 1930 was $6,549,000, or $4.36 per share, against $5,560,000, or $3.70 per share, for 1929. Net for 1928 was $4,605,000 and for 1927 $2,005,000.

On December 31, 1931, cash was $1,225,000, receivables, etc., were $11,795,000, and inventories were $28,523,000. Accounts payable were $8,691,000. The company had no funded debt. Capitalization was represented by 1,500,000 shares of capital stock [par $15].

Semi-annual dividends of $1.50 per share are payable Feb. 15 to stock of record Jan. 15, etc. An extra of $1 per share was paid Nov. 14, 1931.

Wisconsin Public Service.

Kindly advise the writer of the investment merits of Wisconsin Public Service corporation, as covered in the enclosed circular.—H. G. N.

Wisconsin Public Service corporation furnishes electricity, gas, and, in part, street railway service to a population of 340,000 in 159 communities in northeastern Wisconsin and Menominee county, Michigan.

Gross earnings for the twelve months to Nov. 30, 1931, were $5,537,000 and total income before depreciation was $2,412,000. For the preceding twelve months gross was $5,620,000 and total income before depreciation was $2,361,000.

Gross revenues in 1930 were $5,592,000, against $5,512,000 for 1929, $4,994,000 in 1928 and $4,676,000 in 1927. Interest was earned 2.15 times in 1930, 2.38 times in 1929, 2.34 times in 1928, and 1.98 times in 1927. The decline in margin of coverage in 1930 from 1929 in the face of a 1.5 per cent increase in gross was due partly to poor water conditions, which affected hydroelectric generating capacity.

The $6,792,000 first 6s, due Oct. 1, 1952, are secured with the $4,438,000 first 5½s, due Jan. 1, 1958, by a first mortgage on a portion of the company's properties and a mortgage on the remainder. These bonds are considered reasonably sound.

The company has $2,500,000 of 4 per cent notes maturing July 1, 1932.

PUBLIC APATHY KEEPING WHEAT PRICES DOWN

Several Bullish Factors Are Ignored.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish factors in the world's wheat markets were more numerous last week, but their influence on prices and the volume of trading was disappointingly small. This situation was due to failure of the outside public to come into the market with large enough buying orders for futures to make a good bull market.

There was, however, material for a scare on winter wheat in the United States and an improved export demand for American and Canadian as well as southern hemisphere wheat.

A little spurt of buying induced by the drop in temperatures over a large part of the winter wheat belt to near the zero mark carried prices up to 62½c for May in Chicago, which attracted realizing sales of sufficient volume to bring a setback to 60⅝c, with the close around the lowest of the week, with net losses of ⅜@⅞c.

Winter Wheat Damaged?

That the winter wheat crop has been damaged, particularly in the southwest, by the extremely cold weather with an inadequate snow covering over a large part of the southwest and middle west, is generally believed by many crop experts. It is asserted by some others that the plant is further developed than usual, has a good root, and covered the ground more heavily, placing it in shape to withstand low temperatures.

The situation will be watched with unusual closeness, especially in the southwest. There are reports that 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 acres in the western half of Kansas and Oklahoma have not been in good shape all season and are likely to have a small yield. Conditions in Colorado also are unfavorable as a result of drought and cold weather. In the middle west damage can only be determined by future weather conditions.

A short winter wheat crop, it is believed, would be a good thing for the country. It would enable the farm board to work off its supplies and bring about a heavy reduction in the carryover in 1933. As to supplies in sight at present, the unusually large farm reserves on March 1 of 207,323,000 bu, combined with supplies in various positions, make a total of 580,000,000 bu, suggesting a carryover of 400,000,000 bu on July 1, against 334,000,000 bu last year.

Congress Adds Another Factor.

A new element was injected into the domestic wheat situation by congress' passing a bill to give away 40,000,000 bu of farm board wheat for feed and food in drought and poverty stricken sections throughout the country. The American Red Cross is to be the distributor and started its operations in midweek by securing 5,000,000 bu of No. 1 and No. 2 hard winter wheat from the farm board, and ordering 15,000 bu shipped from Omaha into South Dakota, Montana, northern Nebraska and Wyoming.

Wheat that is to be fed will be cracked, and a good percentage ground into flour which will furnish food for hungry people and feed for live stock. That the Red Cross officials have been alive to the situation is indicated by their having handled 1,021 cars of hay, straw and feed of all kinds in the drought stricken regions of the northwest and west so far this year. It is understood that millers and the Red Cross will get together this week and reach an understanding as regards milling and distribution of the flour and feed.

Australia and Argentina have been shipping their surplus wheat this season, having disposed of a greater part of it. They are said to be less disposed to force their holdings on the market at the lower prices. This is possibly responsible for increased export buying of all wheats, particularly in United States and Canada. The trade is greatly interested in the outcome of the German elections which, it is believed, will result in a better demand for foreign wheat and rye to replenish reduced supplies of German grain.

Russian News More Bullish.

Russian news was more bullish and possibly exports of Russia having overexported may turn out to be true.

Speculative trading in wheat in Chicago increased 2,000,000 bu the last week, being 113,765,000 bu. A year ago sales were only 69,471,000 bu. The increase in open interest has attracted special attention and was 129,433,000 bu as compared with 125,288,000 bu the previous week. This increase is understood to be due largely to spreading operations.

Price movements were narrow and the close was at net losses of ⅜@⅞c for the week, March in Chicago being 57⅜c; May, 60¾@60⅝c; July, 62⅝@62¾c; September, 64⅝@64¾c. Prices follow:

CHANGE IN LARD PRICES

Lighter receipts and a sharp advance in hog prices to the best so far this year brought in larger speculative buying and an advance in prices which was taken advantage of by packers to hedge the product of their houses in a way that finally checked the upward movement, yet lard futures showed net gains of 7½@12½c for the week. Bellies were given more attention and net gains were 2½@5c. There are indications of liberal supplies of hogs, and, with prices of product unusually low, a good consumption is to be expected. Prices for the week follow:

WE ARE MAKING A VERY radical change in the merchandising policies of our product, which has enjoyed a good name since 1861.

We are just starting to build a rather large Chicago sales force, which will be extended nationally in the very near future.

We are in need of a number of clean cut, intelligent, aggressive men who have had at least 5 years' selling experience, who have more backbone than wishbone.

Several regional sales managers will be selected within 30 days from the organization now being formed.

Personality and ability to make a bond are essential factors.

Phone Mr. Sims at Delaware 9805 for an appointment.
